CLINGING HEAT WAVE TO BAKE CHICAGO TODAY

Slight Promise of Showers Tonight.

A heat wave which pushed its way late yesterday through a protective covering of lake breezes will remain today, according to the official forecast. The possibility of showers late tonight or tomorrow was mentioned in the forecast, but there was no indication of rain sufficient to rout the long continued drouth.

It was not until mid-afternoon that the heat which baked the prairies of the middle west and the great plains overcame the easterly winds in Chicago. At 1 p. m. the official reading was 68. At 2 p. m. it was a comfortable 73, but at 3 o'clock the mercury had risen to 80 and at 4 o'clock to 89. The day's high of 90 was reached an hour later. The heat continued through the evening, the 8 p. m. reading being 87.

Everywhere else, away from the lake in the midwest, temperatures were above 90 through almost the whole day.

Drouth Kills Mosquitoes.

The drouth in the Chicago area, the most severe on record, has had its compensations, however, in the destruction of mosquitoes. According to Lyell Clarke, chief engineer for the Des Plaines Valley Mosquito Abatement district, the year's first batch of mosquitoes had been virtually annihilated. Unless rain comes soon the second and largest batch of the year also will be reduced or wiped out, he said.

This information was corroborated by Charles G. Sauers, superintendent of the forest preserves of Cook county. He declared the picnickers, hikers, and equestrians had enjoyed the ideal weather in large numbers and without the distraction caused by the early mosquitoes.

Lakes at Low Levels.

Lake Michigan and Lake Huron are at the lowest May levels in the 74 years' existence of the United States lake survey.

Dairymen and truck crop farmers continued to conserve what little moisture remains in the soil in nearby farming areas. Forage is becoming a critical problem for the dairy and stock farmers.

Two dairy farmers in southern Wisconsin found their herds in such condition as to require the shooting of 20 cows in one herd and 15 in another during the week. Others are feeding tree leaves or gathering up corn fodder still in the fields from last season to keep their animals from starvation. One dairy official in Chicago yesterday estimated that one-fourth of the dug wells in the dairy region here had gone dry.

No word from the Agricultural Adjustment administration had been received here last night by the Pure Milk association in answer to an appeal for an increase in milk prices to farmers.

U. S. to Help Destitute.

With the drouth leading to drastic measures in the northwest, where destitute families are to be provided for by the government and live stock for which there is no feed will be purchased for slaughter, the severest spring drouth on record continued to damage farm crops.

The federal forestry service announced that a shortage of forage and the overgrazing of vast areas this spring was killing the grass and leaving nothing to hold the soil firm. Reforestation will be coupled with new grass seedings on government lands and on the property of those land owners whose forage crops are depleted, the forestry service declared.

The drouth has adversely affected retail trade in the northwest in recent weeks, according to the monthly report of the federal reserve bank of Minneapolis yesterday. The income of farmers fell off 10 per cent during April, compared to the same period a year ago. Decreases were in bread wheat, durum wheat, rye, flax, and hogs. Income from dairy products and potatoes increased. Prices of barley, potatoes, and lambs showed an increase during the month over April of 1933, the bank reported.

Woman Ends Her Life on Her Fourth Attempt

The fourth attempt of Mrs. Mae Nelson, 37 years old, 1507 South Spaulding avenue, to end her life was successful yesterday. She died at the county hospital from internal injuries incurred when she jumped from a second floor window of her home on Thursday. Three previous attempts to commit suicide had been thwarted by a nurse who had been attending her for more than a year.

RECTOR CHIDES MMES. PINCHOT AND ROOSEVELT

Philadelphia, Pa., May 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Mrs. Gifford Pinchot were chided today for their public and political activities by the Rev. Dr. David M. Steele, rector emeritus of the Protestant Episcopal church of St. Luke and the Epiphany.

A prepared post-election statement in which he advised political retirement of Gov. Pinchot mentioned neither the governor's wife nor the President's wife by name, but Dr. Steele said later that he "certainly did mean" them in his references.

"It is not polite," Dr. Steele said, "to speak of any lady in her absence, but to one lady at Harrisburg and to one elsewhere I would speak and to their faces.

"The state and the nation at this juncture could get on well without your utterances. Your husbands would be better served both by your inactivity and by your silence.

"Granting women's rights and all the merits of woman suffrage—which to the present writer are nil—having females leading parades of strikers and other disturbers of the peace and flying in airplanes hither and yon to report what 'we' think about foreign policies and other things, all of us who are sane-minded and of average intelligence would be glad to call it a day and allow them to rest from their self-imposed albeit arduous duties."

SOLDIER 'TRAPS' A RUNAWAY LION AND STILL LIVES

PARIS, May 18.—(AP)—A soldier who tried to play Samson with a runaway circus lion was badly scratched and mauled for his heroism today.

The lion, bored with life in a menagerie on the outskirts of Paris, decided to see the sights in the French capital. He pulled up the planks in the bottom of his cage and headed for the bright lights.

The soldier cornered the lion in an angle in an old fortification. The lion took a swipe at him. He kicked the lion. Thereupon the king of beasts—tiring of the annoyance—bit the soldier in the shoulder and clawed him about the head.

It was just about this time that the lion's trainer arrived. He got the fugitive into a portable cage while the whole neighborhood scurried for shelter.

40 Prep Students Expelled for Mass 'Hooky' Venture

Sherburn, Minn., May 18.—(AP)—For playing "hooky" en masse 40 Sherburn High school students were expelled from school today for the remainder of the term. Supt. W. H. Dittes took the senior class to St. Peter Thursday to visit state institutions. During his absence the 40, most of the remaining students, decided they would have a holiday, too, and staged a picnic.

King's Pledge in 1806 Boon to Berlin Jew

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 18.—How a Jewish rabbi saved a mighty king of Prussia when in distress in 1806 and how the Jew's age old fear of pogroms saved the happiness of his great-great-grandson in 1934 is a true story more romantic than many tales of fiction.

It deals with young Peter Wolf, 22 year old actor. He is blond, blue eyed and tall, and looks like a Nordic. The young man was rapidly forging ahead toward the fame of a matinée idol when Nazis stepped into power and ordered all Jews or persons with a strain of Jewish blood off the stage. Wolf's mother was of an aristocratic family, the daughter of the late Gen. Biebrach of Prussia—as "Nordic" as they make them—but that did not help Peter.

Couple Is Disowned.

Her family ostracized her when she decided to marry Peter Wolf Sr., son of a Rabbi Wolf. The rabbi was equally indignant at his son for marrying a gentile, and the young couple were disowned by both families. The couple told their two sons about their ancestors and the youngsters laughed many a time about the story of how a great-great-grandfather rabbi saved Frederick William III., king of Prussia, and how the king had promised to always protect his descendants.

When Peter lost his job because of his Jewish ancestry he remembered the old story. He wondered whether his grandfather, the rabbi, was still alive. He discovered him in Berlin. The old rabbi welcomed his unknown grandson with open arms.

He helped him trace the story of how his own grandfather had saved Frederick William when the king fled from Berlin to Konigsberg to escape Napoleon.

The king had to rely on the Rabbi Wolf of that day, who gave him financial and practical assistance. When the king returned to power gold and titles were offered the rabbi.

Gets Slip of Paper.

All the rabbi asked was a slip of paper with the king's recognition of the former's services and the promise that he and his descendants were to be protected in all cases of pogroms or attempts to suppress Jews. The king gave that promise, clamped on the royal seal and great fun was made of the rabbi's scrap of paper.

His descendants, happy in the placid security of the 19th century, attached no importance to the king's document and one member of the family sold it. Peter and his grandfather searched for it and finally learned it had been purchased by the Deutsches museum in Munich.

Peter scraped his pennies together and went to Munich, only to discover that the document had been exchanged with another one from a Berlin museum. He returned to Berlin, where he secured an authentic copy.

Honors King's Document.

Armed with the king's promise the actor called on the Nazi chief of the Theater guild. The official ruled that a promise given in the name of the state by a king of Prussia must be honored by the German state of Chancellor Hitler's making.

Consequently, Peter Wolf, grandson of a German general and of a rabbi, is allowed to vie for laurels with his "Aryan" countrymen on the German stage. Only Jews who fought in the world war are allowed on the German stage in restricted number.

Bergdoll's Friends Puzzled by Report He'll Surrender

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 18.—Friends of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll in Mosbach, Baden, today disclaimed any knowledge of his intention to return to the United States. Bergdoll, who fled to dodge the American war time draft, is reported to have written to American newspapers expressing his willingness to surrender for trial before a civil court. It is alleged Bergdoll claims he never was mustered into service by the army and consequently should not be brought before a military court.

7 LAWS TO AID U. S. CRIME WAR GO INTO EFFECT

Bills Made Law to Push Drive.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today signed into law seven bills making Uncle Sam a national police officer.

At the same time the President pledged the federal government to an unrelenting war on crime. He called upon citizens to break up alliances between corrupt politicians and the underworld and to cease romantizing crime.

The laws which were written on the statute books today are those under which the new federal police force being built up in the department of justice will work. Attorney General Homer S. Cummings is to be given 3 million dollars to enlarge this force of federal agents and to equip them with machine guns, armored cars, and airplanes.

So broad are the laws which the President signed that almost every large scale crime will now become a federal offense. The intent of the laws is to snare the criminal who has previously escaped by skipping back and forth across state lines in order to avoid arrest.

Summary of Seven Laws.

The seven laws signed today making the following acts federal criminal offenses are:

1. Kidnaping in which the victim is retained more than seven days; after seven days the case will be assumed to have an interstate character and to come under the Lindbergh law.

2. Transportation across state lines of stolen property valued at $1,000 or more.

3. Killing or assaulting any federal agent.

4. Extortion by means of telephone, telegraph, radio, or any other communication device which is interstate in character.

5. Flight from one state to another in order to avoid prosecution or to escape from testifying in a felony case.

6. Prison breaks or the aiding and abetting thereof in federal penal institutions.

7. Robbery of any bank which is a member of the Federal Reserve system.

Roosevelt Praises Program.

"These laws are a renewed challenge on the part of the federal government to interstate crime," the President said. "They are also complimentary to the broader program designed to curb the evil-doer of whatever class.

"In enacting them the congress has provided additional equipment for the department of justice to aid local authorities. Lacking these new weapons the department already has tracked down many major outlaws and its vigilance has spread fear in the underworld. With additional resources I am confident that it will make still greater inroads upon organized crime.

"I regard this action today as an event of the first importance. So far as the federal government is concerned there will be no relenting. But there is one thing more. Law enforcement and gangster extermination cannot be made completely effective so long as a substantial part of the public looks with tolerance upon known criminals, permits public officers to be corrupted or intimidated by them or applauds efforts to romanticize crime.

Asks Aid of Citizens.

"Federal men are constantly facing machine gun fire in the pursuit of gangsters. I ask citizens, individually and as organized groups, to recognize the facts and meet them with courage and determination.

"I stand squarely behind the efforts of the department of justice to bring to book every law breaker, big and little."

Atty. Gen. Cummings, who watched the President sign the bills and who must enforce the new laws, hailed them as advancing his war against crime.

"The congress has coöperated splendidly," he said, "by enacting the greater part of the 'twelve point program' of the department of justice. There is every reason to believe that the remaining laws suggested by the department will shortly receive favorable consideration.

"The enactment of these laws, closing many of the loopholes through which criminals have evaded federal capture and punishment, comes at a crucial moment. Kidnapers, killers, and racketeers are a serious menace to life and property, as well as to the supremacy of the law."

Sweet Charity Helps a Client to Get Revenge

Niels Jorgenson, 63 years old, 4039 Moody avenue, is on the relief rolls. This gave him an opportunity yesterday to turn the tables on Mrs. Kristine A. Rasmussen, 6155 North Maplewood avenue, widow of an old friend. Five years ago she had him arrested for embezzlement. Yesterday he made plans to pay her board in the county jail so that she can be forced to serve a term for failure to satisfy a judgment awarded to Jorgenson.

Even though he is receiving relief Jorgenson already has put up $3.50 with his attorney, Lloyd W. Lehman, for the first week's board for Mrs. Rasmussen. He said he hoped to raise enough money to keep her in jail for six months.

Mrs. Rasmussen Explains.

Meanwhile Mrs. Rasmussen, who has remarried, has disappeared from her home. Friends told a deputy sherif who waited there last night to arrest her that she was out of town. But before she left, however, she explained to neighbors the reason for Jorgenson's enmity.

"I trusted Jorgenson and through his advice I bought some stock and some bonds of the Harmony Mining company," she is reported to have said. "In 1929 the bonds matured and I wanted to cash them. He wanted me to buy more stock, but I already had 3,000 shares which had not paid a dividend, so I told him I wanted cash.

"I gave him the bonds in the presence of witnesses, but didn't ask for a receipt. I never got the money or the bonds and I lost $2,500. So I had him arrested."

Jorgenson Is Indicted.

Court records told the subsequent happenings. Jorgenson was indicted for embezzlement and was defended by Attorney Tyrrell A. Richardson. Judge Joseph Burke, in the Criminal court, heard the evidence. Jorgenson and others connected with the mining company testified that the bonds had been converted into stock which was credited to Mrs. Rasmussen on the company's books, even though the stock certificates were not delivered to her. Judge Burke said he believed Mrs. Rasmussen, but under the law he was compelled to find Jorgenson not guilty.

Jorgenson then filed suit against Mrs. Rasmussen for $20,000 damages, alleging false arrest and malicious prosecution. Mrs. Rasmussen placed the defense in the hands of Attorney Ralph Obenchain, who neglected to file an answer to the suit and Jorgenson won a default judgment for $500 damages in the court of Judge Brothers. A malice count in the judgment provided that if Mrs. Rasmussen failed to pay she could be jailed for six months if Mr. Jorgenson paid her board at the rate of $3.50 a week in advance.

Pays Part of Damages.

Attorney Obenchain, it was said, feeling somewhat to blame for loss of the suit, undertook to pay part of the judgment and gave Jorgenson about $100. When no more money was paid Jorgenson appeared before Judge Daniel F. Trude and obtained a "body execution" for Mrs. Rasmussen's arrest.

Deputy Sherif Louis Gathemann, armed with a capias, was camped at her doorstep last night awaiting Mrs. Rasmussen's return.

Jorgenson, interviewed at his home, told how he hopes to raise money to pay Mrs. Rasmussen's board bill while she is in jail.

"Sure I am on the relief roll," he said, "but I can pay the sherif. I get a day's work once in a while and I'll spend what I make and borrow more to keep her in jail unless she pays me."

Jorgenson also expressed the hope that his relief would continue.

FIGHTING COCK SENDS HIS OWNER TO A HOSPITAL

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, May 18.—When Judge Antonio V. Acosta at Anasco opened the cage of his favorite fighting cock today to give it its daily exercise the cock attacked him by digging both its spurs into his chin, pecking his face and beating his head with its wings.

Judge Acosta fought off the cock and it was recaged. Then he went to a drug store for first aid, during which he fainted, fell and struck his head on the tiled floor of the store. He was knocked unconscious by the fall.

The judge then was taken to a hospital.

Revolving Door Injuries Are Fatal to Max Stern

Max Stern, 73 years old, 5019 North Lawndale avenue, a trader on the Open Board of Trade, 334 Sherman street, died in his home yesterday of injuries he is said to have incurred March 22, when he became caught in a revolving door of the exchange. He was taken to his home, where he was treated for internal injuries and a fractured left hip. His body is at the chapel at 3021 Lawrence avenue.

ASKS CONGRESS TO AID PLAN TO FRUSTRATE WAR

Favors Control of Munitions Makers.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—By order of President Roosevelt today the United States embarked upon a decisive policy aimed at frustrating war and the threat of war through control of the manufacture and sale of arms and munitions.

In a special message to congress the President called for regulation, both domestic and international, of the trafic in arms. His proclamation was timed to coincide with events in progress at Geneva, where the council of the league of nations is considering an embargo of arms shipments to Bolivia and Paraguay as a means to end the war for possession of the Chaco, and where the faltering disarmament conference is to meet week after next.

Congress Reaction Immediate.

The reaction to the President's message in congress was immediate.

Its reading had barely been concluded when Senator Key Pittman [Dem., Nev.], chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, introduced a joint resolution to empower the President to embargo arms and munitions destined for use in the Chaco conflict.

The message of the President was seen as an attempt to bolster up the coming, and probably decisive, session of the disarmament conference, and as a notice that if the conference fails, as is expected, the United States is ready to show the way toward eradicating at least one tangible cause of war—the unrestricted sale of arms.

The President lauded the senate for its forthcoming inquiry into the munitions industry, asked for ratification of the Geneva arms convention of 1925, and expressed the hope that the coming arms conference might yet reach a significant accord.

People Taxed for Arms.

"The peoples of many countries are being taxed to the point of poverty and starvation in order to enable governments to engage in a mad race in armament which, if permitted to continue, may well result in war," the President told the congress.

"This grave menace to the peace of the world," he declared, "is due in no small measure to the uncontroled activities of the manufacturers and merchants of engines of destruction, and it must be met by the concerted action of the peoples of all nations."

Though no mention of the Chaco dispute was contained in the message, nor any request for power to declare an embargo, the state department sent the Chaco resolution to the foreign relations committees of both house and senate immediately after the reading of the President's message. Senator Pittman in introducing the resolution made it clear that coöperation with league members in halting the South American war was one of the administration's immediate objectives.

Immediate Action Promised.

The resolution, which was promised immediate committee action and speedy consideration, would empower the President to halt American arms and munitions destined, either directly or indirectly, for Paraguay or Bolivia, provided he finds such action expedient and has consulted with and received promises of coöperation from other American republics or such other nations as he may deem necessary. A penalty of a $10,000 fine or two years' imprisonment for violation of the embargo is provided.

In the matters referred to specifically by the President immediate activity also followed.

At a special session called by its chairman, Senator Gerald P. Nye [Rep., N. D.], the senate committee to investigate the arms and munitions industry determined to call for another $35,000 in addition to the $15,000 already allotted for their inquiry. Assurances were given by senate leaders that the further amount would be granted.

The President's message offered the committee the full coöperation of the executive department.

"I have been gratified to learn that, pursuant to a resolution of the senate," President Roosevelt said, "a committee has been appointed to investigate the problems incident to the private manufacture of arms and munitions of war and the international trafic therein. I earnestly recommend that this committee receive the generous support of the senate in order that it may be enabled to pursue the investigation with which it is charged with a degree of thoroughness commensurate with the high importance of the question at issue.

"The executive departments of the government will be charged to cooperate with the committee to the fullest extent in furnishing it with any information in their possession which it may desire to receive, and their views upon the adequacy or inadequacy of existing legislation and of the treaties to which the United States is a party for the regulation and control of the manufacture of and trafic in arms."

Senator Nye and Senator Arthur H. Vanderberg [Rep., Mich.] were coauthors of the resolution of inquiry. The other members of the investigating committee are Senators George of Georgia, Clark of Missouri, Bone of Washington, and Pope of Idaho, Democrats; and Senator Barbour of New Jersey, Republican.

Committee investigators are to be set to work immediately, Chairman Nye announced, and will be active during the summer. Hearings based upon their findings will be held in the fall and a report made to the next session of congress.

Called Source of Discord.

"The private and uncontroled manufacture of arms and munitions and the trafic therein has become a serious source of international discord and strife," the President's message said. "It is not possible, however, effectively to control such an evil by the isolated action of any one country. The enlightened opinion of the world has long realized that this is a field in which international action is necessary.

"The negotiation of the convention for the supervision of the international trade in arms and ammunition and in implements of war, signed at Geneva, June 17, 1925, was an important step in the right direction. That convention is still before the senate.

"I hope that the senate may find it possible to give its advice and consent to its ratification. The ratification of that convention by this government, which has been too long delayed, would be a concrete indication of the willingness of the American people to make their contribution toward the suppression of abuses which may have disastrous results for the entire world if they are permitted to continue unchecked."

Senate Action Speeded.

At a hurriedly called meeting of the foreign relations committee, the convention was approved and reported out. Senator Pittman announced that at the earliest possible opportunity he would ask for an executive session of the senate and the treaty's ratification.

Signed at Geneva, June 17, 1925, by virtually every major power, and sent to the senate by President Coolidge in January, 1926, the "convention for the supervision of the international trade in arms and ammunition and in implements of war," is intended to have an important and world-wide effect.

Its principal result, if universally observed, would be to lend strong protection to existing governments against armed rebellion. It requires that the major weapons of land warfare shall be exported only upon license by the exporting government and shall be sold only to the government of an importing state or to a public authority approved by the importing government.

Publicity on Sales.

Complete publicity is required for all contracts for or construction and sales of war vessels. Regular reports are required concerning sales of aircraft and engines. And special prohibitions are placed about the sale and shipment of arms to such troublous parts of the world as Asia Minor, and the major portion of Africa.

But the President's message expressed the hope that even this gesture toward curtailment of armaments might still be surpassed.

"It is my earnest hope," he said, "that the representatives of the nations who will reassemble at Geneva on May 29 will be able to agree upon a convention containing provisions for the supervision and control of the trafic in arms much more far reaching than those which were embodied in the convention of 1925. Some suitable international organization must and will take such action."

At the present time there is no legislation on the statute books permitting an embargo on arms shipments to a warring power. Shipments to revolutionaries may be halted and some control exercised over sales to semi-sovereign areas like Hongkong, but with the exception of these restrictions munition makers may sell where they choose.

An effort was made to get a general arms embargo resolution through congress. The house passed the measure, but the senate insisted on an amendment requiring any prohibition to apply impartially to all the parties to any dispute or conflict to which it referred.

This alteration did not fit in with the state department's insistence on authority—in the event of a disarmament agreement—to join other nations in an embargo against an aggressor disputant. As a result the house has so far failed to accept the senate amendment and the resolution lies on the speaker's desk.

Supporters of the senate investigation of the munitions industry point to the fact that, while the chief military exports are from France and Great Britain, the United States has also participated in the trafic.

Recent Arms Shipments.

During the first three months of 1934 the United States shipped to China $509,000 worth of aircraft and parts and about an equal amount in other goods capable of military use. Bolivia, one of the Chaco disputants, was sent approximately $70,000 worth of machine guns, $115,000 of cartridges, $66,000 worth of airplanes, engines, and parts, and $158,000 worth of trucks. Paraguay, the other party to the conflict, spent $55,000 on American guns and machine guns.

American exports of ordnance, explosives, and munitions in 1933 totaled $4,200,000; aircraft amounted to $9,180,000. Figures available here do not show what proportions of the various categories were for military and what for civilian use. Some $150,000 of the total amounts, however, was spent by Bolivia for American guns and ammunition, $260,000 for airplanes and parts, and $447,541 for trucks and buses. In 1933 Paraguay spent $36,000 for American guns and machine guns and $56,000 for American trucks and buses.

Official figures also show a greatly increased sale of American aircraft, engines, and parts to Germany since Hitler came into power. In January, 1933, Germany spent less than $12,000 in the United States for these goods. In January, 1934, American manufacturers shipped to Germany $189,488 worth of engines. February and March saw $572,475 more in engines and airplane parts go to the reich.

Litvinov Pops Up in Geneva with a Secret Arms Scheme

GENEVA, May 18.—(AP)—Signs of a new attitude on the part of Russia, which might bring about a European pact that would serve as a preliminary to an armament agreement, were seen by league of nations circles today as the result of a visit here of Maxim Litvinov, soviet commissar for foreign affairs.

Litvinov, arriving unexpectedly, conferred with Louis Barthou, French foreign minister. There were widespread reports that he discussed the possibility of a mutual assistance agreement which would affect only the Russian European frontier.

Under such an agreement, Russia would assume sole responsibility for protection of her Siberian frontier, and other parties to the agreement would not be obligated to render assistance in case of a conflict there.

Represents Change in Policy.

The soviet government is known to have insisted heretofore that any military assistance pact must apply to all of Russia, and France has declined to accept responsibilities for military help in the far east.

France is regarded as friendly toward Russian participation in a strictly European agreement providing for assistance in the event the political security of any of the signatories is threatened.

Such an agreement was regarded as a practical preliminary to an accord for the reduction or limitation of armaments.

Litvinov's visit revived discussion of the belief held in some quarters that the soviet union is giving serious consideration to membership in the league.

Litvinov Off on Mystery Trip.

Litvinov left Geneva tonight without disclosing his destination or stating whether he will return. It was reported he was on his way to France. Rumors here have it that he may confer there with Leon Trotzky, exiled soviet leader, in an effort to bring about a conciliation that would permit the exile's return to Russia.

Prior to Litvinov's coming league circles gave indications of deep discouragement over the apparent impasse in moves toward an arms accord. Now the comment has taken on a more optimistic tone.

An international pact on nonaggression as proposed by President Roosevelt was also said in well informed circles to be one of the suggestions Litvinov planned to put forward. An attempt would be made in such a pact to define aggressor nations.

An indication of the importance of Litvinov's visit to Geneva was given tonight when Barthou told the press he must consult the French cabinet before revealing the details of their talk.

Agree on Arms Ban Formula.

A legal formula for a league of nations-sponsored arms embargo against Bolivia and Paraguay was found tonight by league jurists, who revealed that action may be taken over the protests of the two countries concerned.

Details of the plan to shut off arms and ammunition and thus stop the Chaco jungle war were not revealed, but it was said to meet all legal requirements.

The solution will be reported to the league council shortly, and cablegrams asking the cooperation of arms exporting nations likely will be dispatched.

Paraguay and Bolivia, as temporary members of the council, have the right to vote against the embargo, but the jurists, to whom the matter was referred today, were confident this would not stop the movement.

Latins Oppose Embargo.

Vigorous opposition to the embargo, proposed yesterday by Capt. Anthony Eden, British delegate, and supported by seven nations, came from the Bolivian representative, Costa Durels.

The Paraguayan representative, Ramon Caballero de Bedoya, expressed his opposition by declaring that it is necessary to determine the aggressor before an embargo can be instituted. He said he believed the jurists should attempt to make this determination.

In view of the report of the league's Chaco commission, which declared that it was supremely difficult to name the aggressor, it was regarded as unlikely that this matter would be gone into.

REPORT BRITAIN READY TO MAKE DEBT PAYMENT

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—Great Britain is reported considering making a substantial payment on her June 15 war debt installment if the United States in acknowledging receipt of payment will not employ the occasion to declare her in default under the Johnson act.

The object of Ambassador Lindsay's call yesterday on President Roosevelt, according to reports in diplomatic circles, was to seek assurance along this line. The British government would like to make a payment, it is understood, and leave the question of default to be decided in connection with litigation over the flotation of British government loans in the American market.

Since such loans will not be sought here, it was said, the question of default could be left in polite suspense indefinitly.

The Johnson act forbids the sale, within the jurisdiction of the United States, of securities of governments in default, even partially, on their obligations to our government.

STUDENT, CLERGY PACIFISTS HIT BY U. OF I. COUNSEL

Says Their Actions Help Bring On War.

Lafayette, Ind., May 18.—(AP)—Assailing bodies of clergymen and students who have adopted resolutions asserting they would not bear arms in case of war, Sveinbjorn Johnson, legal counsel for the University of Illinois, said tonight that such actions actually increased and encouraged the possibilities of war.

Johnson addressed the R. O. T. C. conference at Purdue university.

Tells of Ramifications.

"Every time such a resolution is adopted it is heralded in the press of other countries, particularly in certain sections of the orient, as evidence that in case of conflict the civil population would not support our government," he said.

The passing of such resolutions, he said, has most of the "technical ingredients of high treason."

Johnson asserted that this was not the time for agitation for the end of military training in colleges.

Calls Objective Revolution.

"Unless college faculties and college administrations are to surrender the right to determine what curricula should be and what aspect of the curriculum to emphasize, their judgment concerning courses in military tactics should not be subjected to attack from outside sources whose main objective, in reality, is revolution," he said.

"I am not prepared to carry the doctrine of democracy to the extent of recognizing the right of inexperienced students, or of the National Student league, or of the Civil Liberties union, or of '13,000 ministers' to control the judgment of college authorities."

BRITAIN ASSERTS REFUSAL TO GO TO WAR OVER CHINA

Sir John Simon Outlines Foreign Policy.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 18.—The much ballyhooed debate on foreign affairs with which the house of commons today wound up before adjourning for the Whitsunday holiday proved to be a flop.

It had been hoped that Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon would expound Great Britain's policy in the face of the imminent breakdown of the disarmament conference at Geneva. Instead he talked vaguely about not giving up hope and gave assurances that the British government would try to the end to get something out of the present conference, and, if it failed, would start again immediately on other lines.

Questioned About Far East.

Probably by agreement, opposition speakers dealt gently with the foreign secretary. Sir Stafford Cripps, the usual fiery spokesman for the Labor party, concentrated his remarks on the Sino-Japanese situation. He wanted to know if the British government stood by the nine power treaty or whether it would stand by and see the dismemberment of China.

Sir John replied that Britain stood by all its treaties, but he explained that none of them guaranteed the territorial integrity of China and he did not think any British government would go to war to preserve it.

Sir Stafford's reference to the European situation was a vague declaration that Britain must create an atmosphere of security by binding itself somehow or other in advance to guarantee the security of the world.

Sir Francis Acland for the Liberals and Commander Oliver Locker-Lampson for the young Conservatives were even more vague and it was perfectly evident they had been tipped off in advance that they must not embarrass the foreign secretary. They talked in general terms about saving the disarmament conference, but offered no suggestions on how it could be done.

Decries Use of Sanctions.

Locker-Lampson did decry the use of sanctions and instanced the case of the United States. If Britain, he said, tried to use its navy to prevent the United States from sending neutral goods to a belligerent, that would mean war.

Sir Roger Keyes, admiral of the fleet, interjected a note of realism. He declared it was a great mistake that Britain ever scrapped the Japanese alliance and urged that every effort be made to restore the closest relations with Japan.

Sir John in reply devoted a good part of his speech to explaining that relations with Japan were good.

Referring to demands for reform of the constitution of the league of nations, he said this was futile while Germany, Russia, and the United States were outside the league. Germany, he said, would not return until the disarmament question was settled. Therefore the first thing to do was to settle disarmament.

Wants U. S. to Join Boycott.

"It is no use talking of economic pressure on warlike nations unless we are sure it is going to be effective," Sir John said. "It can only be made effective if the United States actively coöperates. We acknowledge with all possible gratitude the contributions the United States has been able to make toward improvement of international relations. It is a matter of great regret that the United States is not prepared to join the league after being one of the principal authors of the covenant, but it is not a matter for reproach."

Referring then to the British proposals for disarmament, which are the only ones to hold the field at Geneva, he said he had drafted them himself with former American Secretary of State Stimson's declaration before his eyes, because he realized it was necessary to produce something which could secure American support.

But when it was produced, Sir John continued, Norman H. Davis, American ambassador at large, made a very careful declaration, the effect of which was that it would be absurd to believe that America would take a full part in economic sanctions to guarantee European security. All it meant was that the United States would refrain from any action to defeat the collective effort of other powers to secure peace.

Calls Promise Valuable.

That was valuable, Sir John said, because if there arose a case in which the conscience of America were aroused it was clear the American government then could assure that its citizens would do nothing to break a ring around an offending power.

"Do not make any mistake," Sir John concluded. "The British government has in fact given the lead. We are the one great power that first of all set an example by unilateral reduction of armaments. We are the one great power that suggested a scheme and the one power that dared suggest a figure."

He said if a breakdown of the Geneva conference did come it would not mean the end of the world and Britain would start again trying to evolve some plan of agreement. In the meantime it would do all in its power to continue work on the present lines.

Winding up the debate, Stanley Baldwin, lord president of the council, said that if the disarmament conference broke down it would be found that the British government had not been idle and that preliminary arrangements already are being made to increase the air defenses of the country.

This announcement came as an amplification of Baldwin's oft reiterated assurances that, failing international limitation of air armaments, the British government would proceed to secure equality with the strongest power within striking distance of its shores.

MACON PROVES WORTH AS WAR CRAFT, SAYS DIRIGIBLE COMMANDER

Sunnyvale, Cal., May 18.—(AP)—Belief that the dirigible Macon would demonstrate her worth in war time was expressed today by Commander A. H. Dresel, after the ship arrived at its home port here 51 hours after it left Florida.

Commander Dresel was highly pleased with the performance of the Macon on her round trip to the Caribbean, the longest training flight she has made.

The dirigible fought headwinds in crossing Texas and her commander said she might have made the journey from Miami in 45 hours had she not idled up the Pacific coast for a daylight mooring. Officers said the Macon had required around 72 hours for her previous westward trip from Lakehurst.

Completing her third transcontinental flight, the Macon arrived here at 5:45 a. m. and tied up to the mast at 7:06 a. m. Her officers, who had been at the controls for 48 hours, immediately went to the hangar's sleeping quarters.

The Macon carried 72 officers and men in her crew and a department of commerce official was aboard as an observer.

Admiral Cluverius Named Fair Navy Representative

Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius, commandant of the ninth naval district, has been appointed naval representative at A Century of Progress. He will head all exposition affairs in which the navy is concerned and will maintain an office in the Government building at the Fair. It was announced yesterday in connection with the appointment of Admiral Cluverius as Fair representative, that the headquarters of this naval district will be retained at Great Lakes.

President Has Busy Day, Then Rests on Yacht; Studies Several Major Problems

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt has had many kaleidoscopic days in the White House, but today he outdid himself.

He signed the anti-crime bills; asked the senate to join a league of nations pact to regulate shipments of munitions; talked over the irritating air mail situation with men from congress; ordered a short cut to be found for granting special pensions to soldiers and sailors; held a cabinet meeting.

He gave a couple of hours toward trying to reduce the half million dollar Democratic deficit. This task, he lamented later, was in much the same condition as the collection of the foreign war debts.

He topped the day off with a half hour session with newspaper men, during which he joked and parried with them on half a hundred topics and showed himself in general rare form.

Cruises Down Potomac.

Then he made for the White House power yacht, the Sequoia, and shoved off down the Potomac for a day and two nights of listening to the peaceful waves lapping against the hull of his craft. He'll be back in town Sunday forenoon to attend memorial services for Lafayette.

Incidentally, one of the President's chores today was to sign a proclamation fixing Sunday, which is the 100th anniversary of the death of the French soldier, as "General Lafayette Memorial day" throughout the nation.

Although the President covered a lot of ground today, he would not express any opinion on the Sabath bill to authorize the RFC to loan 75 million dollars to school authorities, including 25 millions to be loaned to pay the back salaries of Chicago school teachers.

He expressed surprise at hearing that Harry S. New, federal commissioner for A Century of Progress at Chicago, had resigned, but had no suggestions for New's successor. The bill appropriating funds for the federal exhibit at Chicago was being unduly delayed, the President indicated.

Mr. Roosevelt had a lot of fun with the newspaper men over a newly coined expression which has fallen into general usage in the last few weeks. Stories have gone out from the White House reporters about "must bills" which were said to have been marked by the President for certain passage before congress adjourns.

Unfortunately, the rules of the President's conference preclude the use of direct quotations, and his exact language cannot be used. But he said that the word "must," used in relation to pending legislation, was a terrible word. He would never, never use such a word in talking to or about congress. Why, the newspaper men had never dreamed such a thing, had they?

Well, it may be set down that the congressmen who have streamed in and out of that oval office in the White House during the last three weeks must all be mistaken, for, if the President wasn't giving orders, they certainly thought he was.

Corporation Contributions.

On the Democratic debt, the President this morning authorized his secretary, Stephen T. Early, to say that no contributions would be received from large corporations.

But this afternoon, after he had lunched with Postmaster General Farley, who is also Democratic national chairman, and with James W. Gerard and Bernard M. Baruch also present, the President hedged at a direct inquiry concerning contributions from big corporations.

He said, with a twinkle in his eye, that under the federal corrupt practices law no political contributions may be received from any corporations. He told the reporter that the question had been phrased badly, and when the reporter countered with a suggestion that the President answer the question in his own way, Mr. Roosevelt refused, saying laughingly that the reporter had struck out.

A Detroit newspaper correspondent mentioned that Horatio Abbott, Democratic national committeeman from Michigan, as well as collector of internal revenue for the state, had been accused of soliciting a $50,000 campaign contribution from the Packard Motor company.

This, the President declared, was highly improper, but when the correspondent asked if this matter might have any significance in bringing about Mr. Abbott's resignation Mr. Roosevelt just joined in a general laugh.

Revenue Collector Busy.

The President's attitude was given in relation to solicitation by John Tighe, deputy revenue collector, for the $50,000 subscription from Eugene J. Perry, treasurer of the Packard company.

Mr. Tighe is said to have admitted acting under the direction of National Committeeman Abbott, who is collector of internal revenue in the Detroit district.

Investigation by the commissioner of internal revenue of federal office holder seeking funds from large corporation taxpayers in Michigan brought to light the request made to Mr. Perry.

According to reports to Commissioner Helvering $30,000 of the amount asked was to be used to defray the Democratic national campaign deficit, and $20,000 to meet party expenses in Michigan.

Air Mail in Turmoil.

Congressmen who attended the air mail conference declared somewhat dubiously that they hoped for legislation which would relieve the present instability of the industry, but they said there were many points of dispute between the senate, the house, and the White House.

The President requested Representative Allard S. Gasque [Dem., S. C.], chairman of the house pensions committee, to study with Veterans' Administrator Frank T. Hines all of the various $1,000 individual pension cases pending in congress. Mr. Roosevelt said he thought the meritorious cases should be included in one omnibus pension bill to be adopted at this session of congress. Gen. Hines said many of the cases had no merit, and these should be eliminated, the President declared.

Mr. Roosevelt said he expected to send a message on silver legislation to the capitol on Monday. He expressed approval of the oil control bill and the bill to "clarify" the Agricultural Adjustment act, both of which are pending in congress.

EX-DEPUTY AND 2 OTHERS HELD IN THEFT CASE

Three Cicero men, one a former deputy sheriff, were held to the grand jury on charges of receiving and possessing stolen property yesterday by Police Magistrate Henry J Sandusky of Cicero. They are Anthony Kolpacki, 5055 West 30th place, the former deputy; Florian Sienkuwicz, 5005 West 30th place; and Wayne Armstrong, 2514 South Austin boulevard, Cicero. Sienkuwicz and John Matijicska, 5018 West 32d place, were found stripping a car, and their confessions implicated the other two. Matijicska did not appear for the hearing, and a provisional forfeiture of his bond was ordered.

URUGUAY GETS A DICTATOR; RED DEPUTIES OUSTED

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, May 18.—(AP)—Police ejected communist members from the constituent assembly today when they greeted President Gabriel Terras by shouting, "Down with the Terras dictatorship!" The assembly was meeting to proclaim the new Uruguayan constitution, which centralizes power in the hands of the president. The constitution was given an overwhelming vote of approval in a plebiscite on April 19.

IT'S A BRITISH PLOT, FACTOR'S SHERIF AVERS

Insists Those Aurorans Saw Two Other Men.

That old battle cry, "Bust King George in the snoot," was on the point of revival yesterday by Sherif Isaac George of Sycamore in defense of himself and his prisoner-guest, John Factor.

As the sherif sees it, nothing less than a plot by perfidious Britain could account for the firm belief of two-score citizens that they saw the sherif and Mr. Factor quaffing beer Wednesday night, in the company of two young women, at the Leland hotel in Aurora. Sherif and guest alike have been loud in their protestations that it was two other fellows.

"I can't imagine who started that story," said the sherif yesterday, "unless it was the British government. They are the only people interested in doing anything to Mr. Factor. They might have sent a man who looked like Factor out to Aurora, just to get him into trouble."

Factor Stopping with Sherif.

Mr. Factor is stopping with Sherif George at the Sycamore jail until such time as the American state department issues the necessary papers to send him back to England, where he is charged with having accumulated $7,000,000 through illegal stock selling schemes.

The papers are being delayed at the request of Chicago authorities until it is certain that members of the Touhy gang, whom Mr. Factor identified so thoroughly that they are now serving 99 years in prison for kidnaping him, aren't granted a new trial.

While the mittimus on which Mr. Factor was turned over to Sherif George's tender care by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker refers to the sherif's institution as "the common jail at Sycamore," it has a somewhat wider repute as the "lace curtain jail." Inspection of Mr. Factor's quarters yesterday enhanced the sherif's reputation for seeing to the comfort of his guests.

Lives in Jail Hospital.

Mr. Factor is living alone in the jail hospital. He has a good bed with sheets and pillow cases, which are lacking on the camp cots in the cells below. The jail is situated on one of Sycamore's better residential streets, and from the hospital window Mr. Factor has a fine view of the sylvan beauties of the little town.

The principal seat in the room is the jail's barber chair. Mr. Factor, who is a mite sensitive about his humble start in life as a barber on the west side of Chicago, hastened to explain that he uses the chair only as a customer. On a writing table in the room was a neat stack of paper, notice of which brought from the wealthy speculator another reason why he hasn't time to be running around nights, even if his friend the sherif permitted it.

"I'm writing my memoirs," he explained, "and that takes a good deal of my time."

"What about going into the movies?" asked his interviewer, on the spur of the moment.

A Matter of Education.

"Well," said Mr. Factor, "I'd be willing to do that, but purely, of course, to educate the public on the kidnaping racket."

Then he reiterated some of the reasons why he wouldn't, under any circumstances, go running around of nights with the sherif.

"Why, I can't sleep at night," he said. "I'm obsessed with the idea that the friends of the Touhys will try to take vengeance on me. I go to sleep with the rattle of machine guns in my ears. People who have been kidnaped and who suffered as I did are that way.

"The only time I go outdoors is to take a walk for exercise twice a day. I insist that the sherif go with me and carry a gun. We just walk around the block."

Mr. Factor said that he considered Sherif George a model sherif. Sherif George reciprocated with the assurance that Mr. Factor is a model prisoner. The sherif went on to explain why he had granted his guest the privileges he enjoys.

"You see, Mr. Factor isn't a common criminal or ordinary prisoner," said Sherif George. "I can't put him in with the rest of those guys."

Eighteen Federal Prisoners.

He explained that there is some sentiment in the underworld against Mr. Factor because he "squawked" on the Touhy gangsters. In addition to the usual assortment of local chicken thieves, Sherif George is housing in his jail eighteen federal prisoners of lesser dignity than Mr. Factor. If Mr. Factor were put in the bullpen with them, he fears, one of them might seek acclaim among his kind by hitting the Touhy nemesis over the head, or perhaps sticking a knife in his ribs.

In addition to his hospital quarters, the sherif admitted, his principal guest also has special meals—but not at the public expense, Sherif George hastened to add. Mr. Factor pays for the food.

There were reports yesterday in Sycamore that in addition to the daily walks, which were admitted, Mr. Factor has been seen walking elsewhere on the streets, and even attending trials in the De Kalb county courthouse. Sherif George, asked about this, said that perhaps that double of his prisoner, paid by British gold, had even invaded Sycamore.

Another story, which the sherif promptly denied, was that about ten days ago he and Mr. Factor repaired one evening on a slumming tour to a grocery run by Dixie Sims, a retired Negro boxer of Sycamore. There, according to the story, all of the agile colored youths of Sycamore were summoned and invited to display their prowess at tap and buck and wing dancing for Mr. Factor and some Chicago friends.

Meanwhile, federal officials in Chicago were taking an increased interest in the supposed night life of Mr. Factor. United States Attorney Dwight H. Green assigned one of his assistants, Harry N. Connaughton, to look up the law on the matter. Mr. Connaughton said that his first view of the affair was that if Mr. Factor has been running around nights, he [Factor] and Sherif George may face punishment for contempt of court.

Still Prisoner of U. S.

"This man undoubtedly is still a prisoner of the United States, since he has not been relinquished to the British government," said Mr. Connaughton. "My first impression is that if the sherif permitted him to come and go at will he would be in contempt of the federal District court. Commissioner Walker, the committing officer, was exercising power delegated to him by that court."

Commissioner Walker's mittimus, it was learned yesterday, definitly placed Factor under the orders of Secretary of State Hull. Mr. Walker sent a copy of the mittimus yesterday to the secretary and at the same time furnished a copy to Attorney Franklin R. Overmyer, counsel for the British crown in the Factor extradition hearing. Attorney Overmyer forwarded his copy to Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador at Washington. He also made a verbal report to Lewis Bernays, British consul general in Chicago.

Find Woman's Body on Beach at Rosemont Street

The body of Mrs. Katherine Gaffney, 60 years old, of Crystal Lake, a widow, was found on the beach at the foot of Rosemont street yesterday. She had been visiting a nephew, E. A. Kavanagh, 6335 Magnolia avenue, who said she had apparently arisen during the night and walked to the lake. He could offer no motive for suicide.

NAME DIRECTOR FOR LUNCHROOMS IN CITY SCHOOLS

F. O. Washam, a promotion director for the National Restaurant Mart, with headquarters in Chicago, was named head of the Chicago high school lunchroom system yesterday by a committee of restaurateurs selected by the school board to reorganize the lunchrooms on a business basis. The board has agreed to formally appoint the committee's nominee to the position.

Mr. Washam was for 15 years head of an industrial concern's non-profit lunchroom system and this experience particularly recommended him to the committee, said Martin J. Harding, chairman. The committee has agreed to assist the new manager, who takes office Wednesday, in the reorganization of the high school lunchroom system. Reorganization plans will be drafted next week.

Changes in the lunchroom administration were voted by the school board last March after a survey showed need of central management. The 54 rooms, doing $1,000,000 annual business, were transferred from the education department to the business department and a $5,000 appropriation was made for a manager.

COUNCIL ADOPTS TAXI ORDINANCE BOOSTING FARES

One Man Commission Will Administer Law.

The new taxicab ordinance, providing for an increase in fares, and a franchise extending until Dec. 31, 1940, was adopted by the city council yesterday without a dissenting vote, after elimination of the proposed taxicab commission of three members to administer the law.

In its stead was inserted a provision for a single commissioner, to be appointed by the mayor at a salary of $7,500 a year. This commissioner will have authority to hire assistants, as needed, subject to appropriations by the city council for their salaries. He will also have power to investigate violations of the ordinance and to fix mechanical standards for taxicabs.

Amendment by Bowler.

This amendment was submitted by Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], chairman of the committee on local transportation. According to the ordinance, the new fares will be in effect as soon as the mayor signs the ordinance and at least one person qualifies as a licensee under the terms of the ordinance.

The new fares are: 15 cents for the first one-third mile, 10 cents for each additional two-thirds of a mile, 5 cents for each extra passenger, and 10 cents for each three minutes waiting time. The present fare charge is at the rate of 15 cents a mile.

The ordinance also provides for the payment to the city of $50 for each cab for the use of the streets, in addition to the regular vehicle and cab stand licenses.

Seek Higher Cab Liability.

Following the passage of the ordinance, the council went on record as requesting that the general assembly change the present state laws to the end that a higher liability insurance for cabs be required. The law now requires a $2,500 insurance.

The council's suggestion was that each cab be required to carry liability insurance covering up to $5,000 for injury to any one person, $10,000 for injury to persons in any one accident, and $1,000 for any property damage. A copy of this resolution is to be forwarded to Gov. Horner.

COUNCIL DEMANDS U. S. EXEMPT CITY FROM NRA RULES

Price Fixing to Add Millions in Taxes.

Charging that the NRA codes eliminate competitive bidding, and will increase Chicago's tax burden by several millions of dollars, the city council demanded yesterday that the federal government exempt the city from the provisions instituted by the New Deal.

In a resolution, introduced by Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the finance committee, it was declared that the codes' price fixing parts have resulted in uniform bids, whereby no competition exists, and city contracts are awarded at prices prearranged by contractors.

"This practice," the resolution reads, "if indulged in prior to the NRA codifications, would have amounted, under the law, to a conspiracy. Therefore, be it resolved, that the city council declares itself in favor of a ruling which would exempt city purchases from the NRA codes, which, if applied, will result in increased taxes, organized bidders, and insolvent appropriation bills."

Will Defeat Purpose.

Ald. Clark, in introducing the resolution, pointed out the codes, as applied to the city, would defeat the avowed purpose of the NRA of putting more persons to work.

He pointed out that, if the city has to pay more for materials and supplies because of the code, and there is only a certain amount of revenue coming in, it will be impossible to hire more city employés, and perhaps impossible to retain those already employed.

The resolution was passed by the council and copies are to be forwarded to Senators James Hamilton Lewis and William H. Dieterich and to all Illinois representatives in congress.

Seeks Budget Action.

Ald. Clark also introduced a resolution asking that the finance committee be authorized to seek further means of balancing the city budget, which, he says, is overappropriated because of the recent cut in real estate valuations.

The resolution sets forth the 15 per cent cut in assessments for single homes and small flat buildings will amount to a loss in tax revenue to the city of about $3,000,000 for 1931 to 1934 inclusive. The resolution was referred to Ald. Clark's committee.

Ald. James B. Bowler [25th] introduced a resolution authorizing an appropriation of $15,000 in the 1935 budget, to pay, in meritorious cases, for any damages resulting from the negligence of policemen or firemen while in the course of duty. The resolution was passed.

MANY TAKE PART IN ARGO - SUMMIT COMMUNITY FETE

A huge community celebration, to pay tribute to the spirit of coöperation which enabled the district to go through the worst period of the depression without any loss in bank failures, was held yesterday by the citizens of Argo and Summit, and Bedford Park.

Mayor R. P. Lambert of Argo officially proclaimed it a holiday, and the day's events opened with a parade in charge of the Argo-Summit post of the American Legion in which virtually all the local busines concerns, civic groups, churches, and schools participated.

The principal speakers were Mayor Lambert and G. M. Moffett, president of the Corn Products Refining company, where many of the men of the district are employed. Resolutions honoring this and other concerns for their program of providing employment and combating the depression, were read to those assembled.

START FOUNTAIN IN GRANT PARK AT 10 A.M. TOMORROW

The underground controls of Buckingham fountain in Grant park were given a final test yesterday preparatory to turning on the gushers for the summer tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. From then until about Oct. 15 the fountain will be in operation daily. On three evenings a week there will be special displays in color.

The major displays will be on Wednesdays and Saturdays from 1 to 2 p. m. and in color from 9 to 10 p. m. On Sundays the display will be from 3 to 5 p. m. and from 9 to 10 p. m. in color. The fountain will be operated every day from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m.

The fountain was built in 1927 as a memorial to Clarence Buckingham, who was for 11 years a trustee of the Chicago Art institute. The donor was his sister, Kate S. Buckingham.

FAMINE AT HAND IN MINNEAPOLIS TRUCKS STRIKE

Men Agree to Arbitrate as Violence Spreads.

BULLETIN.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 18.—(AP)—A subcommittee of four, two from each of the employers' and employes' groups, meeting with Gov. Floyd B. Olson, who presided in an advisory capacity, was reported late tonight to have agreed on a plan to attempt to settle the truck drivers' strike here.

BULLETIN.

St. Paul, Minn., May 18.—(AP)—A tentative agreement to arbitrate their differences was reached late tonight by empoyers and truck drivers, with the former demanlding that a truckers' strike called for 11:30 o'clock tonight be called off at once.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 18.—[Special.]—This city, the largest in Minnesota, was in a state of virtual siege tonight as striking truck drivers tightened the net of pickets they placed on all incoming roads earlier in the week. Police made wholesale arrests in the face of spreading violence.

Food shortage was becoming acute at grocery stores, restaurants and hotels, with the more than 5,000 strikers preventing all deliveries except milk, ice, and fuel. Practically all bakeries were closed and no beer deliveries were made, as the brewery drivers voted to join th walkout.

At a committee conference today in the capital the strikers agreed with Gov. Floyd P. Olson that the dispute was arbitrable and named two members of a subcommittee to meet tonight with two representatives of the employers to draft a settlement agreement.

Talk of General Walkout.

The strikers indicated willingness to waive their closed shop demands if the employers would reaffirm section 7-A of the NRA code. The subcommittee over which the governor presides "in an advisory capacity" consists of George Williams and John G. McNutt for the employers, and William Brown, president of the Minneapolis General Drivers' union, and Miles Dunne for the strikers.

The recommendations of this subcommittee are to be subject to the ratification of the membership of both contributing parties.

Brown said today that other unions are considering a general strike in sympathy with the truck drivers. The laundry and dry cleaning drivers already are in line.

Plan to Break Picket Line.

Gasoline stations were nearly all closed, as the strikers prevented deliveries. Only one truck loaded with foodstuffs, destined for a hospital, was permitted to move today. Restaurant and hotel men said it would be necessary to cut down their menus tomorrow unless some arrangement is made for deliveries.

Meanwhile more than 1,000 of the city's leading business men at a mass meeting voted to break the strike net tomorrow.

A special committee of 25 intrusted with plans for fighting the strike announced that trucks would be sent out under guard of regular and special police.

One hundred and six strikers were jailed today on charges of disorderly conduct, the greater number for attacks on filling stations. Police cruisers were kept busy from early morning as reports of strike disorders came in.

Avert Trolley Strike.

Chief of Police Michael Johannes plans to ask for 500 special officers.

A street car strike which would have completely tied up all transportation in the city was averted as street car employés agreed to abide by the decision of their executive committee to accept the decision of the regional labor board, now holding a hearing on differences between employers and workers.

More than 600 taxicab drivers joined the truck drivers' strike yesterday.

In St. Paul the truck drivers' union of that city, numbering more than 1,200, pledged to walk out at midnight today, thus completely shutting down the trucking industry in the entire Twin Cities area of 750,000 population.

St. Paul officials announced, however, that drastic action would be taken and that any striker found engaged in picketing on the highways would be arrested immediately.

In Minneapolis Mayor A. G. Bainbridge granted permission to oil dealers to put 50 special policemen on duty to guard their trucks.

It appeared that the federal government might enter the strike picture here because of the confiscation of a truck loaded with gasoline and consigned to the postoffice.

St. Patrick's to Confirm First Class in 7 Years

For the first time in seven years the sacrament of confirmation will be administered to a class at St. Patrick's church, Desplaines and Adams streets, next Friday, at 3 p. m. The Right Rev. B. J. Sheil will officiate. The Rev. T. J. Hayes, pastor, said that many former parishioners of St. Patrick's, who were confirmed there, were expected to witness the conferring of the sacrament.

U. S. Plans Drouth Relief of Six Millions a Month

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—The administration's relief forces began a major offensive against drouth devastations in the west today with an announcement by Harry L. Hopkins that 6 million dollars a month would be spent for direct and work relief in the affected areas until the dry spell is broken.

The amount will be supplemented by many millions more to be expended by the Agricultural Adjustment administration in purchasing surplus cattle stocks, a large part of which will be processed and canned for relief purposes.

Mr. Hopkins said about a million dollars would be supplied drouth suffering farmers for seed for planting forage crops in the hope that rains would come in time to supply food for stock.

Removal of Families.

The Farm Credit administration was standing by, according to Mr. Hopkins, with 10 millions available for feed and seed loans. William I. Myers, governor, having given "instructions and assurances that in so far as the law permits, rules and regulations will be made so that we can go the limit."

A number of farm families will be transplanted from drouth areas to those less seriously affected. Mr. Hopkins estimated that from 3,000 to 4,000 families would be moved to state-owned farms in reasonably good condition in South Dakota alone.

For the present the relief program will be centered in North and South Dakota, Minnesota and Wisconsin, but will be extended later.

Aim Is Self-Maintenance.

An effort is to be made throughout to help farmers remain on a self-sustaining basis.

"We intend to see," Mr. Hopkins asserted, "that they are aiding in maintaining a living on their own farms."

Relief and agricultural officials were reticent to estimate, even roughly, the total cost to the government of its drouth relief program. Mr. Hopkins declared it would cost much more than 50 million dollars when the cattle buying operations of the A.A.A. were included.

The absence of any estimates on the extent of cattle buying to be undertaken was due chiefly to the failure of the senate to act on the Jones-Connally bill, already passed by the house, appropriating 150 millions for relief of dairy and beef cattle farmers.

BYRD BRAVES POLAR NIGHT; GOES FOR HIKES

Blazes His Way with Flags in Ice.

LITTLE AMERICA, Antarctica, May 18.—(AP)—[Via Mackay radio.]—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd today entered his second month of isolated winter darkness at the Bolling advance weather base, 123 miles by trail south of Little America.

Reporting "all's well" through his daily radio contact, Admiral Byrd said the temperature on the Ross ice barrier during the last week had fluctuated between 20 and 50 degrees below zero, considerably under the temperatures recorded here.

The only exercise he gets, Admiral Byrd revealed, is his daily walk, a habit of years, which he continues in spite of cold, darkness, and the danger of getting lost.

A Formidable Undertaking.

A walk at the advance base apparently is a formidable undertaking. Where the advance base is planted the barrier is almost flat and for miles in all directions there is nothing to mark one spot from another. The shack itself is wholly buried, leaving above the surface only its slender upper works, the anemometer pole, and the radio antenna.

At times visibility thickens with astonishing swiftness, and for a pedestrian it would be easy to miss these modest beacons.

As a precaution Admiral Byrd carries under his arm a bundle of light bamboo poles, some with flags attached. These he plants at short intervals as he walks along. Retracing his steps, he picks them up again, pushes open the trap door, and descends the ladder into his shack.

Builds "Escape Tunnel."

Admiral Byrd reported he had extended his new escape tunnel approximately twenty-two feet, and still has about three feet to go. The tunnel roof, he said, will be about four and one-half feet below the surface. If, through any accident or as a result of heavy drifting, his trap door exit should be blocked he can still escape by driving a shaft to the surface from below.

Here at Little America there is very little light, even at noon. The world's southern extremity is in the midst of its long winter night. The gasoline lanterns throw huge, grotesque shadows on men laboring in white snow pits and the ring of shovels carries frostily on the still air.

The machine shop and the tractor garage finally have been constructed. The old tunnels of the first expedition are being excavated.

Legion Members to Visit Veterans' Graves Tomorrow

Members of the James C. Russell-Blackhawk post of the American Legion will make their annual pilgrimage to the graves of deceased members tomorrow and also a week from tomorrow, it was announced yesterday by Judge Joseph Burke, chairman of the graves visitation committee. The veterans will assemble tomorrow at 9:30 a. m. in Oakwoods cemetery, 67th street and Cottage Grove avenue, in front of the office at the main entrance. On the following Sunday the north side group will meet at the chapel of Rosehill cemetery at 8:45 a. m. and the west side group will meet at the entrance to Forest Home cemetery, Forest Park, at 9 a. m.

ASK JACOBS TO BACK NEW PLAN OF ASSESSMENT

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday, including those for 1932, were $245,730, making a total of $171,199,794 collected since enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began April 28, 1933. The day's collections of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for the four years follow:

	1928.	1929.
May 18 .....$	22,075 $	44,045
Uncollected	14,297,463	38,637,910
	1930.	1931.
May 18 .....$	38,045 $	61,575
Uncollected	61,923,531	55,463,759

The day's collections of 1932 real estate taxes totaled $79,990 and of 1932 personal property taxes $3,666.

County Assessor J. L. Jacobs was asked yesterday to approve a plan submitted by the Tax Service Association of Illinois which, according to the association, would bring about a fair assessment for personal property taxes for corporations and businesses. P. M. Weaver, secretary of the association, said the plan would remedy the tendency toward questionable tax settlements.

The plan, as explained by Mr. Weaver, would allow corporations and other businesses to keep a permanent record of the actual cash value of the corporate assets in what would be known as a "legal fair cash value book." Such a record, Mr. Weaver pointed out to the assessor, would contain a complete analysis of the cash value of all assets, as well as appraisal standards peculiar to the particular type of business.

"Such a book would provide the assessor with a factual basis which would justify fair and reasonable tax bills," he said. "At present the taxpayer is placed on the defensive in submitting high book values."

Walter A. Dinehart, head of the association, said that such a record would prevent both undervaluation and overvaluation and would facilitate fair personal property assessments.

MOVE TO UNITE FOX RIVER CITIES FOR WATER FIGHT

Elgin Mayor Takes Steps to Form Association.

Mayor Myron M. Lehman of Elgin took steps yesterday to organize officials of cities and sanitary districts in the region affected by the drying up of the Fox river in order to present a united front against industrial users who are exhausting the water supply. He suggested to Mayor C. M. Bjorseth of Aurora that mayors and sanitary district presidents form an association to combat the water shortage peril.

Spokesmen would then be appointed to talk to owners of the water power plants, pointing out the high price of local disfavor which would be aimed at those refusing to coöperate. Representatives of the association would also be able to coördinate local action with that of state officials.

Slight Improvement Seen.

"The breaking of a gentleman's agreement as to use of the water, combined with the drouth, has brought a menace to the health and beauty of Fox river cities," Mayor Lehman declared yesterday. "Today in a personal investigation I found that conditions are slightly improved. This is because the publicity given the matter by alert newspapers has caused some of the individual power plant owners to mend their ways."

A. A. Keplar, secretary of the Fox River Valley association, comprised of civic organizations in the valley, and Lester Norris of St. Charles, an official of the group, met yesterday with Dr. Walter M. Smith Jr., acting chief engineer of the state division of waterways. They discussed a plan whereby work relief labor would be used to repair abandoned dams and build auxiliary dams to raise the water level, if these measures are shown to be advisable by a survey now being carried out.

Hope to Save Fish.

Such labor might also be employed to build and repair fish ways along the sides of the dam, which are required by law, Mr. Keplar said. Millions of fish planted in the river by the state conservation department this spring will be killed unless remedial action is taken against the abnormal conditions, it was said.

L. E. Aiswede, an investigator for the state waterways division, and three inspectors of the department visited the Carpenterville dam yesterday when they began their survey. Water power plant owners had agreed not to reduce the level of the water below six inches from the tops of the dams, but in some instances the water is now 40 inches below the tops.

LEEDS MITCHELL IS DIVORCED AT BRIEF HEARING

Leeds Mitchell, Chicago stock broker, former president of the Chicago stock exchange, was divorced yesterday on the grounds of desertion by Mrs. Dorothy Day Mitchell, 2430 Lakeview avenue, in a three minute hearing before Judge Joseph Sabath.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell have long been leaders in north shore society. Mr. Mitchell's office is at 141 West Jackson boulevard.

Mrs. Mitchell was the only witness at the hearing before Judge Sabath. She testified that she was married in Lake Forest in 1910. In 1929, she said, they were at their summer home in Nantucket, R. I., with their two children, when Mitchell abruptly left, saying he did not wish to live with her any longer.

The divorce was uncontested, Attorney John Martineau, Mrs. Mitchel's counsel, told the judge that an out of court settlement, the terms of which were not revealed, had been made as to alimony and custody of the one minor child. The other child is 22 years old.

HEWITT REQUESTS ENFORCEMENT OF SPRINKLING HOURS

With the advent of hot weather, and the consequent heavy usage of water, Commissioner of Public Works Hewitt requested yesterday that Police Commissioner Allman have his men coöperate in enforcing the ordinance restricting the times for sprinkling lawns.

Lawns may be sprinkled between the hours of 5 and 7 a. m., 2 and 4 p. m., and 9:30 and 10:30 p. m.

Mr. Hewitt pointed out that enforcement of the ordinance is necessary to alleviate the shortage of water and general lack of pressure in the city during the periods of maximum demand. These conditions, he said, cause suffering and inconvenience, and increase fire hazards.

TWO RAILWAYS OIL ROADBEDS TO STOP DUST

Drouth Forces Action; Others to Follow.

The Chicago and North Western railway and the Milwaukee road yesterday inaugurated campaigns to rid the roadbeds of dust, cinders, and other foreign particles that have been getting into the hair and eyes of passengers because of the prolonged drouth. Other railroads leading into and out of Chicago are planning similar programs.

The Milwaukee road has sprayed 30,000 gallons of grit-settling crude oil on its passenger lines between Chicago and Milwaukee and Chicago and Elgin. The North Western started at Evanston and covered the whole road to Chicago on the main line of the Milwaukee division with about 3,000 gallons of oil. This will, it was said, keep down the dust and grime throughout the summer months.

Cinders Affected by Drouth.

Lines which use cinders or gravel as a road bed ballast have been the most seriously affected by the drouth. It is pointed out by officials of railroads which use crushed rock as ballast between the ties that there is space between the stones into which dust can settle.

The North Western plans to oil all of its trackage on both suburban and transcontinental lines, an official said. After the suburban right of ways are taken care of, he said, the oiling machine will be turned onto the Chicago to Omaha line, and then onto the Chicago to Minneapolis and St. Paul division.

F. H. Johnson, public relations representative of the Milwaukee road, said the summer will see all of his company's lines oiled against dust and dirt except a part of the system which is electrified. He admitted the noxiousness of an unclean roadbed to rail passengers because of the windblown dirt through open windows and said his company is sparing no effort to combat the nuisance.

Eastern Lines Less Affected.

Eastern roads have not the same problem to contend with, it was said. This for the reason that most of them, including the Pennsylvania, New York Central Lines, Baltimore and Ohio, and others have ballasted their roadbeds with crushed rock. An official of the Baltimore and Ohio explained:

"Gravel disintegrates rapidly and constant travel accentuates the raising of dust when trains pass over. With rock it is different. There are plenty of holes into which the dust can settle. Cinders are better, but not as good as rock."

Most of the other western roads are elevated through the south and west sides of Chicago and are not so affected.

BRIBERY SCANDAL HITS JAPAN; SAITO CABINET IN PERIL

Vice Minister of Finance Under Arrest.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, May 19.—[Saturday.]—Premier Saito's government is believed to be in peril as the result of Japan's own Stavisky scandal.

Hideo Kuroda, vice minister of finance, was arrested today in connection with irregularities in the administration of the semi-official Bank of Formosa and the Imperial Rayon company.

It is expected that Minister of Finance Korekiyo Takahashi, who is regarded as the "strong man" of the cabinet, and Minister of Railways Chuzo Mitsuchi will resign. Although Takahashi is not involved, it is rumored that Mitsuchi and former Minister of Commerce Kumakichi Nakajima, who was forced to resign during the diet session because of the bribery scandal, are directly involved.

Ten Others Involved.

It is declared Mitsuchi and Nakajima will be summoned by the prosecutor for questioning.

With the vice minister of finance, the governor of the Bank of Formosa, the president and two directors of the Imperial Rayon company and seven other prominent industrialists and ex-officials in jail or under fire on charges of bribery, the government has lifted the press ban on one of the worst scandals in Japan's history.

Their arrests, which began secretly April 18, are the direct result of accusations made in the diet by Kazumi Okamoto, Seiyukai party parliamentarian.

The charges are that the finance ministry permitted the sale of shares of Imperial Rayon, which were held by the Bank of Formosa and obtained by that institution as security when the shares were practically worthless.

Shadow on Saito's Rule.

During the recent boom Rayon shares rapidly increased in value, resulting, according to the charges, in their sale through bribery.

It is feared that with Kuroda's indictment Minister of Finance Takahashi may have to consider assuming the responsibility for repeatedly denying in the diet that any official was involved in the scandal. In any event the case is casting a dark shadow on Premier Saito's government.

Those under arrest include Hideo Kuroda, vice minister of finance; Shigeru Shimoda, governor of the Bank of Formosa, and Ryosei Kawai, president of Imperial Rayon.

Gandhi to Conduct Lone War Against British Rule

PATNA, India, May 18.—(AP)—Mahatma Gandhi henceforth will carry on the civil disobedience campaign alone. The All-India congress tonight adopted a resolution accepting Gandhi's advice that he alone continue the disobedience campaign. Gandhi, in a one hour speech, proposed that disobedience be reserved as a weapon "for future use, when the country is ready."

Argentine House Has Bill to Seize Foreign Phone Lines

BUENOS AIRES, May 18.—(AP)—Adolph Dickmann, Socialist deputy, presented in the house of representatives today a bill proposing the nationalization of telephone services, expropriating private foreign enterprises.

H. F. M'CORMICK SUIT SETTLED, ATTORNEY SAYS

Mrs. Doubleday Will Drop Action.

The $1,500,000 breach of promise suit brought last October by Mrs. Rhoda Tanner Doubleday, a divorcée prominent in New York society, against Harold F. McCormick, chairman of the executive committee of the International Harvester company, will be dismissed some time next week, according to Attorney Henry K. Urion, one of Mrs. Doubleday's lawyers. Mr. Urion announced yesterday that a settlement had been reached out of court and that Mrs. Doubleday would ask that the suit be withdrawn.

Attorney Urion refused to discuss the amount of the settlement or any details of the agreement, but it was reported that the settlement figure might be in the neighborhood of $100,000.

Chicago Visit Recalled.

Yesterday's development followed a visit by Mrs. Doubleday to Chicago several weeks ago. At that time she said her visit had nothing to do with her suit against Mr. McCormick.

Mrs. Doubleday, former wife of Felix Doubleday, son of Frank N. Doubleday, the book publisher, filed suit against Mr. McCormick last Oct. 24. She charged that he had proposed marriage to her in November of 1932 during a Chicago automobile ride after a courtship of eleven months.

Her suit declared further that in March of 1933 Mr. McCormick wrote her a note saying "There is no marriage for me." She asserted she had a number of letters written to her by Mr. McCormick. The letters were never made public.

Her Charges Are Denied.

Later, in a formal answer filed in court, Mr. McCormick denied the charges of Mrs. Doubleday.

Neither Mr. McCormick nor his attorney, John P. Wilson, could be reached last night to confirm the report of the settlement. At his home Mr. McCormick was said to be out of town.

$100,000 BEATING TAKES BROTHER RIVALS TO COURT

Rivals in business, but tenants in the same house, the brothers Schwartz, of 906 North Sheridan road, Waukegan, took their strange internecine warfare to law yesterday, when Emanuel filed a suit for $100,000 damages against William and Harry.

Emanuel is in the real estate and insurance business in one office, while William and Harry are partners in another similar business, but that is just one point of warfare between them.

Emanuel's suit charges that on May 1, while he sat reading his newspaper at home, William and Harry set upon him, knocked him to the floor, beat him severely, and kicked him in the face. As a result, he charges, he lost the sight of one eye, and his face has been paralyzed.

His bill states that both William and Harry had owed him money on notes, and had threatened him with bodily injury if he attempted to secure a judgment against them.

FIVE IDENTIFIED AS DILLINGER IN $30,000 STICKUP

All but Woman in Bank Gang "Described."

Flint, Mich., May 18.—[Special.]—Five men and a woman, led by a machine gunner, participated in a robbery of a branch bank here today, escaping with $30,000. All but the woman were identified as John Dillinger.

The conflicting identifications cast doubt on an early belief that America's public enemy No. 1 led the raid, but police were confident that his gangsters did the job. The robbery was executed in true Dillinger style. It came right after the delivery of $100,000 in an armored car from the Citizens' Commercial and Savings bank to its prosperous Glenwood avenue branch, next door to the main plant of the Chevrolet company.

Holdup Well Planned.

One man and the woman waited in an automobile across the street from the bank, the man holding a sawed off shotgun in his lap. Another man waited in an automobile that had parked behind the armored car while three men, one carrying a machine gun, entered the bank and covered ten employés and customers.

Kirk Roland, a druggist who was in the bank at the time, was forced to lie on the floor when the bandit leader noticed he carried a gun on his hip. Roland insisted that the machine gunner was Dillinger.

"He poked me with the machine gun and I got a good look at him," said Roland. "I know it was Dillinger because I recognized him from his scar." Roland later identified a police photograph of Dillinger as the leader of the raid, but other witnesses also identified the four other men as Dillinger.

Make Easy Escape.

Harry Stamman, manager of the branch bank, stepped on a burglar alarm when the robbers entered, but they had scooped up the $30,000 in currency and roared away in the two cars before police could cover the two miles from downtown. Only the $30,000 had been delivered to the tellers' cages, which one of the raiders vaulted, the other $70,000 having been placed in the vault. The bandits, apparently knowing how much to expect, demanded more money, but left when employés said there was no more.

Flight Puzzles Police.

State police and sheriff's deputies organized a hurried but ineffectual chase, there being some doubt as to the course taken by the bandits. One report was that they took M-21, toward Grand Rapids, but circled back toward the down-town section. Another report was that the four men changed to a yellow sedan and headed toward Detroit on the Dixie highway.

While the Flint robbery was in progress heavily armed police were waiting in ambush in Bay City banks, 47 miles away, on information that a bank robbery was planned there.

Store Owner Sentenced for Obscene Literature

David De Koven, 25 years old, manager of a bookstore at 6 North Halsted street, was sentenced to three months in the Bridewell by Judge Francis Borrelli yesterday on two charges of possessing obscene literature. A number of allegedly obscene pamphlets were seized by police in his store. De Koven was granted sixty days in which to file a bill of exceptions and released on a $2,500 bond.

REPORT DARROW CONSIDERED TO DEFEND INSULL

Rumors that Clarence Darrow, veteran criminal lawyer, is among those being considered for the defense of Samuel Insull Sr. were current yesterday. An Insull spokesman, however, said:

"Mr. Darrow has been considered, just as we have considered almost all other prominent members of the bar, but the consideration of counsel has not narrowed down to any individual."

Insull has been represented, in the bail proceedings and preliminary pleadings in both state and federal courts by Floyd E. Thompson, former State Supreme court justice, who is counsel for Samuel Insull Jr. According to Thompson his services for the elder Insull have been purely voluntary.

Insull is resting in St. Luke's hospital, at liberty in bonds of $250,000. His next court appearance will be Tuesday, when his plea that he was "shanghaied" from Turkey will be argued before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan.

TURNKEY FREED IN DILLINGER ESCAPE CASE

Sam Cahoon, turnkey trusty at the Lake county jail in Crown Point, was freed of charges of aiding John Dillinger's escape on March 3, when the state informed Judge Harold Strickland in the Lake County Circuit court yesterday that there was not enough evidence to warant a conviction. Cahoon was indicted with Ernest Blunk, finger print expert and deputy sheriff. Blunk was found not guilty.

Drop Auto Insurance Fraud Charges Against Brothers

Charges of conspiracy and obtaining money under false pretenses against Alfred S. and Fred Van De Houten, brothers, accused of swindling insurance companies of $10,000 by falsely reporting automobiles stolen were nol prossed before Judge Joseph A. Graber in the automobile court yesterday. Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert Crowley declared the state did not possess sufficient evidence to prosecute the case.

Oregon Man Chosen Head of Illinois Dry League

Charles F. Haffke, superintendent of the Anti-Liquor League of Oregon, will succeed Dr. George B. Safford as Illinois superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Illinois, it was announced yesterday from the state headquarters at 510 North Dearborn street. Mr. Haffke will assume his new duties on June 15. Dr. Safford became superintendent of the Rhode Island league several weeks ago.

U. S. IMPEACHES DILLINGER CASE BLONDE WITNESS

Statement and Testimony Found to Differ.

St. Paul, Minn., May 18.—(AP)—A pouting blonde in blue, Mrs. Dallores Smart, was impeached in the federal court today in the trial of three persons charged with conspiracy to harbor John Dillinger, fugitive.

Questioned by George Sullivan, United States attorney, Mrs. Smart, with an air of boredom and in sarcastic voice, denied she had told authorities, before the trial of Evelyn Frechette, Dr. Clayton May, and Mrs. Augusta Salt, that the physician had told her the night of March 31 he had made a $500 fee.

In a low voice she said she had seen Dr. May almost continuously during the first part of April, after Dillinger and Frechette had blasted their way out of a St. Paul apartment with a machine gun, and, the government charges, fled to Minneapolis, where the felon was treated by May for a leg wound.

Moves to Impeach Her.

The prosecution was given permission to cross-examine its own witness as Sullivan moved to impeach Mrs. Smart.

"Isn't it a fact you didn't see Dr. May from March 31 to April 12?" asked Sullivan.

"That's what my statement says," Mrs. Smart drawled, "but that's not true."

Later she retracted and admitted that part of her written statement was correct. She insisted, however, that May told her about 10:30 a. m., at a Minneapolis hotel on March 3, that he had made a $500 fee. The government claims she had admitted prior to the trial in a signed statement that the physician had told her this about 11 p. m. that day.

Dillinger shot his way out of the St. Paul apartment between 10 a. m. and 10:30 a. m. March 31.

Tells of Visit.

Under cross-examination by the defense Mrs. Smart testified she and Dr. May went to the apartment of Eugene Green the night of March 31, where she saw what she "imagined was a machine gun on the floor." Dr. May, the witness said, appeared to be "as anxious as I was to get out of the apartment."

The government read into the record a signed statement by Mrs. Salt in which she said Dr. May came to her apartment four times between March 31 and April 3 and treated Dillinger. May's signed statement, also in evidence, said he saw the fugitive but twice.

Boy Recognizes Bandit.

Mrs. Salt's statement also said she was unaware of the patient's identity until her older son asked her the night of April 3, "Isn't that man Dillinger? He resembles him."

The reading of Dr. May's signed statement about his treatment of Dillinger's leg wound and silence enforced by threats shared interest with the appearance of Wallace Salt on the stand to testify against his widowed mother.

The 13 year old boy told of having seen Dillinger and Miss Frechette come to his mother's apartment last March 31.

BABY KIDNAPED 30 YEARS IS BACK HOME; BIRTHMARK IDENTIFIED

PETIT ROCHER, N. B., May 18.—(AP)—Thirty years ago the baby son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter B. Arsenault was kidnaped from this village. Today he was home again. He had been identified by a birthmark over his right eye. The child was stolen from his crib in the kitchen in 1904. The frantic parents heard nothing more from him.

Last summer, 29 years later, a baseball team came from Bonaventure, Que., across the bay, to play ball here. A severe storm delayed the team's return and the players stayed at the homes of their local opponents.

Mrs. Thomas Arsenault, hostess to one of the visiting players and a relative of the missing man, told of the kidnaping. Her guest told of a man at St. Elziar, Que., who had been adopted several years ago by a family named Joncas. The family, he said, could not recall his youth.

The hostess related the incident to the kidnaped "child's" mother and the hunt began again. The mother communicated with the Rev. Father Plourde, parish priest at St. Elzar. Both mentioned the birthmark, and the identity was established.

HIGHWAY POLICE OPEN NEW FIGHT FOR '33 SALARY

Further court action to gain $81,000 in salaries for the last five months of 1933 was started yesterday in behalf of 100 county highway policemen by Attorney William J. Flaherty, counsel for the sheriff.

The action is for a rehearing in the state Supreme court of the case in which the high court once ruled that the unpaid policemen could not force the county board to pay them.

An appropriation for those salaries was not included in the 1933 budget, since it was then planned to abolish the force. This spring the county board, under the order of Judge George Fred Rush of the Circuit court, made a special appropriation for the back salaries. The Supreme court reversed Judge Rush's decision.

CHILD IS UNABLE TO IDENTIFY 6 AS HER ABDUCTORS

More Suspects Hunted in Robles Case.

Tucson, Ariz., May 18.—[Special.]—June Robles, 6 years old, who was kidnaped and held prisoner for 18 days in a desert dugout, was unable today to identify any one of six men whom the authorities had seized as suspects.

One of the six was regarded by the investigators as the most likely to have been a kidnaper. The child, however, could not recognize either his features or his voice, although she followed suggestions and studied him thoroughly and calmly.

Spanish in New Clew.

The show-up was held in a house and the identity of the man was kept secret. The authorities were hopeful that, in spite of the failure of identification, circumstantial evidence might be found to connect him with the abduction. He might, they held, have been involved in the plot without ever having come in contact with the child.

It was asserted that more suspects were being sought and that attention was being given to possible hiding places of outlaws across the international line in Sonora, Mexico. Newspapers in Spanish were found near the spot where the child was found chained in a buried sheet iron box on Monday, leading to the belief that the kidnapers might have been Mexicans.

Efforts have been made to learn where the iron box and the cans and bits of paper found in it came from originally. Inspection of these by the public has been invited.

Hunt Fourth Gettle Kidnaper.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 18.—[Special.]—Although three members of the kidnaping band who seized William F. Gettle, Beverly Hills millionaire, in his home have been convicted and are serving life sentences in prison, authorities disclosed today that they are still seeking a fourth kidnaper.

The man sought is the one who left a note containing a ransom demand on the steps of a church in Beverly Hills. An intermediary for Gettle was informed by telephone he would find the note there.

Gettle was found by police and released before the ransom of $60,000 could be collected. The three convicted kidnapers, James F. Kirk, Larry Kerrigan, and Roy Williams, were taken to San Quentin prison yesterday.

ROBBED BY 3 BANDITS.

Bruno Angelica, owner of a tavern at 3828 Cottage Grove avenue, was robbed of $800 yesterday by three armed bandits who held him up in front of his tavern.

NORTH MICHIGAN AT CHESTNUT

BRAIN TRUSTER IS BLAMED FOR LOCK FIRM WOE

Rockford Company Heads Make Complaint.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Rockford, Ill., May 18.—[Special.]—One of the "cub" brain trusters in Washington is responsible for most of the difficulties the National Lock company of Rockford is now experiencing with the national labor board, it appeared today.

The young man is Milton Handler, general counsel for the board, who was loaned to the New Deal by Columbia university in New York, where he held an assistant professorship in the law school. He wrote the opinion for the board which resulted in its recommendations to Gen. Hugh S. Johnson and Attorney General Cummings that the lock company's Blue Eagle be seized and prosecution instituted on the grounds that the employés in this open shop concern were not permitted to select their own representatives.

Called "Young Theorist."

"Handler," said Roy F. Hall, counsel for the company, today, "is one of those young theorists who has had no experience in manufacturing and darned little in law. An assistant professor isn't much in any law school. At Michigan we used to call them quizmasters. Yet he is trying to run the National Lock company with his opinions.

"If Handler can run our concern he can also boss the steel companies, Ford, and General Motors. He isn't competent, yet he is the fellow who is doing it."

Hall charged that Handler deliberately disregarded facts concerning the walkout of 800 employés at the lock company last Aug. 31. Most of these workers went back and the plant is now paying NRA wages and observing the hour schedules. Its business is up over last year's and employés' benefits will be resumed when possible.

Men Satisfied, He Says.

"Before labor agitators caused the walkout," Hall explained, "not one request for any sort of better treatment had been made upon the company by any employé. They were satisfied then and they are satisfied now. The walkout came when those causing it knew we had contracts to fill, but we were given no chance.

"We brought these facts to Handler's attention in Washington when we appeared before the board. Yet he ignored them in his opinion and as a result the board directed us to hold another employés' election. We cannot do that, for we would be forced to allow those still on the walkout to vote with the satisfied employés.

"Handler was grossly unfair. We were notified to appear before the board at Washington in January. We found we had been brought to Handler's office, not to any of the board meeting rooms. In other words, we had been summoned to appear before an assistant professor to show why the National Lock company, which does $400,000 worth of business each year, should not be penalized for something or other.

"No Reason" for Punishment.

"There are no reasons why our Blue Eagle should be taken from us. Our employés are satisfied with their company union; all they ask is to be allowed to work and earn a living."

The average employé of the lock company is now earning more than 20 per cent above code wage, A. J. Strandquist, vice president, declared today, and most of the workers are making 80 per cent of what they were during the peak years before the depression.

SIX RED RIOTERS GET ONE TO FIVE YEARS IN PRISON

CRIMINAL COURT.

Joseph Derma Jr., burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Ralph Cammisso, Mike Chiccorelli, and Walter Rabas, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each in the penitentiary by Judge Grover C. Niemeyer.

Delia Page, Mary Wernick, David Poindexter, Charles Hampton, Henry Coe, and Jesse Smith, conspiracy to commit assault, sentenced to 1 to 5 years each in the penitentiary and fined $750 each by Judge Francis B. Allegretti.

Stanley Bukas, assault with a deadly weapon, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell by Judge Harry B. Miller.

Six communists were found guilty yesterday by a jury in Judge Francis B. Allegretti's Criminal court of conspiracy to assault police during a relief station riot and were sentenced to one to five years in the penitentiary and fined $750 each.

A police detail was present in the courtroom to prevent any demonstration by 200 Negroes who were present. Five of the defendants, one of them a woman, were Negroes, and the sixth was Mary Warnick, 23 years old, who police say is a New York communist. The latter was attired in the typical communistic red blouse and black shirt.

Judge Allegretti overruled a motion for a new trial and denied a motion for arrest of judgment. He allowed sixty days in which to file a bill of exceptions and granted a stay of mittimus until May 23. The prisoners' bonds were raised from $1,000 each to $7,500 and they were lodged in the county jail.

The riot occurred on Jan. 27, 1933, in front of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission station at 505 East 50th street.

MOLEY WARNS BRAIN TRUSTERS TO HOLD TONGUES

Says They Are Taxing President's Patience.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—From Prof. Raymond Moley, founder of the Roosevelt brain trust, comes today corroboration of the reports that the President has put a temporary damper on the young radicals of the brain trust.

Prof. Moley, from the security of his editorial page in the weekly magazine Today goes so far as very bluntly to advise the young brain trusters to keep their mouths shut. He also took an indirect pot shot at one of the outstanding members of the agricultural brain trust, Jerome Frank, the young general counsel for the AAA.

American Profit System.

Mr. Frank, in a speech, had referred to the American profit system as "one of our current folkways." This word "folkways" appears a short way down in the following excerpt from Mr. Moley's editorial:

"Another complaint by some Democrats is that certain members of the administration are fundamentally not interested in the success of the Roosevelt administration, but look far to the left of the New Deal, and that they are essentially propagandists rather than administrators.

Urges Them to Stick to Work.

"Some of these young people talk too much in public and in private. They will do well, now that they are in administrative posts, the duties of which are clearly defined by law, to help make the New Deal succeed through hard labor at their prosaic duties.

"They can well leave social theory, patronizing references to 'folkways' and 'experimentation' to less responsible outsiders. [This does not refer in any way to the utterances of responsible officials, such as secretaries, assistant secretaries, and the heads of independent agencies who have the right to speak and have not abused it.]

"If I may make clear to some of the self-styled 'intellectuals' of the administration what some regular Democrats are saying about them, they talk too much and work too little.

Praises President Roosevelt.

"President Roosevelt is a great man. He not only has a capacity for formulating magnificent, statesmanlike policies, but he is great in his mastery of detail. There are limits, however, to human endurance, and it is a matter of common observation that those who serve as the heads of great departments, commissions, and other agencies of the government, tax his patience and energy altogether too much by asking him every day to decide questions which they ought to decide for themselves. The fact is that if they had competent helpers they could make these decisions for themselves."

300 Boys Take Part

Three hundred sophomores and freshmen engaged in a battle royal yesterday on the athletic field of the Armour Institute of Technology in the annual class rush, an event of Junior week at the school. The sophomores won by gaining possession of the larger part of the sack of hay which was the objective of the battle. Many of the students went into the fight stripped to the waist, and others were almost denuded in the free-for-all.

DISMISS RELIEF FRAUD COUNT AS MAN, 71, PAYS UP

Charges that Joseph Hugh, 71 years old, 6340 South Maplewood avenue, had fraudulently obtained aid from the Illinois emergency relief commission were dismissed on Thursday by Municipal Judge Francis Borelli, it became known yesterday. Hugh produced receipts to prove that he had reimbursed the relief commission in full for $45.24 worth of food and coal which he received during a period from December to March.

Agents of the relief commission stated that Hugh had applied for relief last November, and had signed an affidavit stating that he was without resources of any kind. Investigation disclosed, they stated, that he was the beneficiary of the $12,000 estate of his wife, Pauline. It was also shown that Probate Judge John F. O'Connell had signed an order which would allow Hugh to sell $1,000 worth of the bonds of the estate. Hugh had admitted these facts when confronted with the evidence and made payment in full for the relief he obtained, they stated.

"Even though the state can prove its case against the defendant," said Judge Borelli, "I am going to dismiss the case. I would not bring myself to find guilty a man 71 years old in view of the fact that he had made restitution."

HOSIERY MILLS ARE INDICTED AS NRA VIOLATORS

Accused of Working Third Shift to Aid Employes.

Gainesville, Ga., May 18.—[Special.]—Because its operators claim they worked a third shift last year to keep 120 veteran employés off the relief rolls, the Richmond Hosiery Mills, Inc., of Rossville, Ga., was indicted in federal District court here today on charges of conspiracy to violate the hosiery code.

The indictment also charges an overt act to violate the National Recovery act and named five of the mills' officials in the conspiracy charge.

Garnett Andres Sr. of Chattanooga, Tenn., is president of the mill and is one of those indicted. The mill is just two miles from Chattanooga, across the Georgia state line.

Holds NRA Constitutional.

In fighting the attempt of the government to seek indictments against the mil land its officers, Mr. Andrews filed a petition several weeks ago with Federal Judge Marvin Underwood seeking to restrain United States Attorney Lawrence Camp from presenting the case to the federal grand jury.

Judge Underwood upheld the constitutionality of the NRA in an opinion handed down earlier today and declared that the national hosiery code is a valid and constitutional regulation of transactions affecting interstate commerce. The court also denied a supersedas to the Richmond Mills, attorney who said he wanted to take the case to the federal Court of Appeals.

In addition to Mr. Andrews, those named in the indictment were:

J. Harvey Wilson, general manager: John A. Chambliss, director and general counsel: T. R. Preston, president of the Hamilton National bank in Chattanooga and a director of the mill: A. W. Chambliss, chairman of the board, who is an associate justice in the Tennessee Supreme court.

A Three Shift Operation.

The situation that brought about the indictment of the mill, which has been closed for several months, started last December when the NRA ordered all hosiery mills in the nation to close down production to two shifts per week.

Mr. Andrews, in a recent letter to stockholders of the mill, explained that the Richmond plant was designed to keep balanced production through a three shift operation and that to comply with the national hosiery order would have meant throwing out 120 or more veteran employés "in the dead of winter."

At the time of the order General Manager Wilson of the mill declared: "So long as we have orders and hungry people who want to work we are going to run this plant."

In his statement to stockholders Mr. Andrews pointed out that in the government's allegations against his company there was no charge of violation of the wage or hour provisions of the code and there had been no protests from the employés about the treatment received.

The Standard Production company of Rossville also was named in the indictment on the conspiracy count, the government alleging that this was a "dummy" corporation designed to run the illegal third shift.

Mr. Preston also is chairman of the Tennessee compliance board for the hosiery industry and a former president of the American Bankers' association. He said tonight he had resigned his connection as a director in the mill when he took the compliance board post and absolutely had no connection with the alleged "dummy corporation."

CASHIER TELLS HARRIMAN BANK STORY AT TRIAL

Quotes Former Head of Institution.

New York, May 18.—[Special.]—When the showdown came at the Harriman National Bank & Trust company in June, 1932, and a federal bank examiner demanded the missing charge tickets covering false entries of $1,713,000 in the ledgers, Joseph W. Harriman, the president of the now defunct institution, agreed to sign duplicate tickets, according to the testimony today of Arnold Colombo, the bank's cashier. Harriman told his frightened fellow officers, according to Colombo: "I will stand behind anything I told you boys to do."

This statement, the cashier declared, was made in the presence of himself and of Albert Murray Austin, executive vice president; James L. Turner, vice president; William A. Burke, controler, and Bertram L. Kraus, director and attorney for the bank. The above named officers and the witness had sought the advice of Mr. Kraus after the bank examiner had been unable to find the required bank control tickets.

Earlier today Mr. Colombo testified that Austin told him that the instructions that led to the posting of the alleged false entries had come from Harriman.

The entries referred to were made on April 25, 1932, and covered the "sale" of $1,393,080 worth of Harriman bank stock to the accounts of eleven depositors without their knowledge or authority.

BOARD PLACING 164 MEN IN JOBS ON WORK RELIEF

The Illinois Emergency Relief commission yesterday began assigning 164 men from the relief rolls to work on the demolition of fifteen unoccupied and useless buildings.

These men will be assigned on a work relief basis and will be divided into two shifts of 82 workers, each shift working three days each week, according to Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the commission. This will permit full time operations of six days a week until all work is completed.

This project is sponsored by the Illinois Housing board and approved by the relief commission. The buildings are on private property and the owners have given their consent to demolition. The buildings to be wrecked are at the following places: 248 East 33d street, 3601 South Dearborn street, 11 East 37th street, 3756 South State street, 3361 South Park way, 3623 Princeton avenue, 2950 Federal street, 2856 Cottage Grove avenue, 1151 West Fulton street, 545 West 14th street, 919 South Irving avenue, 1849 Roosevelt road, 1113 South Peoria street, 2007 Devon avenue, 1367-75 West Fulton street.

Another project calling for the assignment of a technical force of 20 workers to plan and operate demolition projects in Chicago also was approved.

SOCIAL SERVICE GROUPS TO HEAR PROF. TUGWELL

3,500 Expected to Attend Kansas City Sessions.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kansas City, Mo., May 18.—[Special.]—The community church workers' conference closed its three days' sessions this afternoon after approving a formal statement defining the functions of the church in modern life. Many of the delegates joined preliminary discussion groups called for today and tomorrow prior to Sunday's opening of the national conference of social work.

Social work leaders predict that at least 3,500 workers in the national organized welfare and relief fields will attend next week's meetings. It was announced today that the New Deal will be officially represented at the conference by Brain Truster Rexford Tugwell and Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins.

Films to Receive Attention.

Deleterious social effects of salacious motion pictures will receive the entire attention of one section of the conference, and it is believed that action will be taken approving the boycott against dirty films recently launched by the Catholic church.

Dr. C. Ankin Barnes, national head of the department of social service in the Episcopal church, declared that the most important section of the entire conference will be devoted to "industrial and economic problems."

"If I am able correctly to sense the feeling of the many thousands of social workers throughout the country, I should say that they have become weary of the palliative social measures to which they have been limited," said Dr. Barnes.

Favor Reconstruction.

"We all feel, and I think unanimously, that we are ready in this Kansas City conference to shift the main emphasis of social work from relief measures to reconstruction of the entire social order."

Rexford Tugwell will speak at the first general session of the conference on Monday night when he will tell the social workers their relation to the New Deal. While it is conceded that social reconstruction will hold the spotlight, yet divisions of the conference will be devoted to the usual social problems such as public health, marriage and divorce, the delinquent and handicapped, children's problems, mental hygiene, neighborhood and community life, administration of public social work, and the immigrant.

Forty national associations devoted to special welfare interests will meet in connection with the conference.

Church Functions Defined.

Among the functions of modern churches as defined today by the Community church workers are these:

"Interpretation of the facts of economic injustice in light of Christian ideals.

"Development of a social consciousness through the technique of education.

"Interpretation of morality in terms of current sins.

Bomb Explodes in Austrian Theater; Several Are Hurt

SALZBURG, Austria, May 18.—(AP)—Several persons were injured tonight by a bomb explosion in the lobby of the famous festival playhouse here. The interior of the building was damaged severely, and windows of nearby houses were shattered. Those injured were working in a nearby office.

COL. ROOSEVELT SAYS G. O. P. WILL WAR FOR LIBERTY

New York, May 18.—(AP)—Col. Theodore Roosevelt declared tonight the coming congressional campaign would be "a fight for the constitution, a fight for personal liberty, for the bill of rights—a fight for the spirit of America."

Col. Roosevelt spoke at a dinner in honor of the 49th charter day of the National Republican club, which recently elected him president.

"We are going to have a rebirth of the party and a reinjection of the young fighting element which has not been as close as it might have been," he said.

"When we join the battle, we will go at it wholeheartedly. You've seen the answer that Pennsylvania gave. I don't think there is a doubt that when we explain to the American people what this issue is that they will back it as they always have done."

DR. WYNEKOOP IS FEARED VICTIM OF TUBERCULOSIS

Lawyer to Take New Court Action for Prisoner.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop, 63 year old physician who last March 29 began serving a 25 year sentence for the murder of her daughter-in-law, Rheta Gardner Wynekoop, has lost 17 pounds since her incarceration in the Illinois woman's reformatory at Dwight and is feared to be a victim of tuberculosis.

Dr. Wynekoop now weighs 120 pounds, in comparison with a normal weight for a woman of her height and age of 158 pounds, Miss Hazard said. She has little appetite, she added.

Miss Helen Hazard, superintendent of the reformatory, declared last night that she had sent for tuberculosis specialists to conduct further examinations of the prisoner. A report recently submitted by Dr. Eva Wilson, in charge of the reformatory hospital wing in a new building, where Dr. Wynekoop is confined to her bed, revealed that in Dr. Wilson's opinion she was suffering from active tuberculosis.

Lawyer to File Bill.

Meanwhile W. W. Smith, attorney for Dr. Wynekoop, said yesterday that he is preparing to go before Judge Harry B. Miller of the Criminal court, the trial judge, and present a bill of exceptions on Monday, or possibly today. Counsel for Dr. Wynekoop were given until May 24 to file the bill of exceptions.

This document, which is in reality a transcript of all testimony given at the trial, will be turned over by Judge Miller to Assistant State's Attorney Charles Dougherty, who prosecuted the case. After it is approved by the prosecutor and the trial judge it is certified by the court and sent to the state Supreme court.

At the next term of the Supreme court, which is next month, counsel for Dr. Wynekoop probably will seek a writ of supersedeas. It is then within the power of the court to grant bail pending appeal, but this is seldom done in murder cases. As time will be required for the defense to file a brief with the court and for the state to file an answer, the case probably would not be reviewed until the October term of court.

Daughter Discusses Case.

"Of course we would rather mother's name would be cleared than that she should be pardoned," said Dr. Catherine Wynekoop, daughter of the prisoner, who left her post in the operating room at the Cook County Children's hospital between operations to talk over the telephone. "Whether we shall seek to have her pardoned I don't know. I haven't thought about it and when we were with her last Saturday we did not ask her about it.

"I am convinced she cannot last until October, though she is determined to keep alive until she is vindicated.

"When we saw her Saturday [the second visit Dr. Catherine and her brothers, Walker and Earle, the husband of the slain Rheta, have been allowed to make to their mother] she was so faint that every word she said was with a great effort.

New Evidence of Disease.

"Mother had tuberculosis years ago, before she was married, and it became an arrested case," Dr. Catherine continued. "Last summer we had X-rays made and they were negative. While she was out there at 26th street and California avenue [the Cook county jail] she began to cough and there was evidence then that her case was active again."

SENATOR LEWIS HERE; TALKS OF APPOINTMENTS

After his arrival in Chicago from Washington yesterday United States Senator Lewis revealed that three men are being considered by Attorney General Cummings for appointment as United States marshal here to succeed H. C. W. Laubenheimer. One of the men, he said, is William H. McDonnell, member of the south park board. He did not name the other two.

The senator said he had recommended Carter H. Harrison to succeed Harry S. New of Indiana as federal commissioner to the World's Fair, but on learning that Mr. Harrison could not take the position and remain as collector of internal revenue he had switched the recommendation to Edward F. Dunne, former governor of Illinois and former Chicago mayor. Mr. Lewis said he had no information as to who would be appointed.

The board of election commissioners yesterday ordered the printing of ballots for the June 4 judicial election to proceed on Monday after it appeared that there would be no Democratic-Republican coalition on the two Municipal court vacancies. Ballots will be printed also for a referendum on a four year term for aldermen. If complete coalition could have been achieved $150,000 would have been saved in election costs by closing a number of polling places.

PROF. A. G. BOVEE OF U. OF C. GIVEN FRENCH HONOR

Prof. Arthur G. Bovee of the University of Chicago, who has taught French at the university and the University High school for the last 25 years, was presented with the French "Palms Academiques" yesterday at a tea in the University club. The award was made by Rene Weiller French consul. It was made for conspicuous service in the academic field. "Prof. Bovee is an American but he speaks French like a Frenchman and has been of great service to France through his teaching and his authorship of textbooks," Mr. Weiller said later.

3 DEATHS IN DAY RAISE AUTO TOLL IN COUNTY TO 431

Vincent Mazris, 25 years old, 4638 South California avenue, died yesterday in the Evangelical hospital a short time after he had been struck by a truck as he was crossing 47th stret at South Leavitt street. The driver of the truck, Joseph Nicklos, 4523 South Washtenaw avenue, employed by the William Fullerton Motor company, was not held by police, but was ordered to attend the inquest to be held this morning.

John Giza, 65 years old, 1531 Cornell street, died at the county hospital of injuries suffered May 8 when he was struck by a car driven by Frank Parush, 43 years old, 2652 Wright street, in front of 841 North Ashland avenue.

Mrs. Ella Simmons, 75 years old, of 1400 Hyde Park boulevard, died in the Chicago hospital of injuries suffered when she was struck by a truck on May 16. Robert Malenitis, 18 years old, driver of the truck, was not held, when police were told the woman had stepped directly in the path of the vehicle.

These three deaths yesterday increased the trafic death toll in Cook county since Jan. 1 to 431.

LEAVES CASH, FACES PAUPER'S GRAVE.

William Dulis, 42 years old, of 5422 South Hermitage avenue, who died on Thursday in the county hospital, may be buried in a pauper's grave because his daughter, Elizabeth, 20 years old, beneficiary of his $1,000 insurance policy, cannot be found.

HOUSE COMMITTEE DELAYS REPORT ON 3 JUDGES OF CHICAGO

Washington, D. C., May 18.—(AP)—The house judiciary committee, now considering what disposal to make of the McKeown subcommittee's report on the bankruptcy administrations of three Chicago federal judges, adjourned today until Monday without taking action. Chairman Hatton W. Sumner [Dem., Tex.] said the committee was considering whether to recommend impeachment proceedings against Judges James W. Wilkerson, Walter C. Lindley, and Charles E. Woodward.

DR. GLEITSMAN DRAWS MISTRIAL FROM THIRD JURY

The third trial of Dr. Emil Gleitsman, 68 years old, partly blind physician, ended in a mistrial last evening in Judge Walter P. Steffen's Criminal court. He is charged with murder by abortion of Miss Mary Colbert, 20 years old, who died on March 25, 1933. At 6 o'clock last night the jurors told Judge Steffen they were hopelessly deadlocked. The physician was twice convicted on the same charge, but was granted new trials by the reviewing courts.

GERMANS LIVING ABROAD JOIN FIGHT FOR SAAR

Rally at Basin's Border to Demonstrate Unity.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MAYENCE, Germany, May 18.—The Association of Germans Living in Foreign Countries is holding impressive rallies at Mayence and Trier this week-end. The organization is demonstrating for the restoration of the rich Saar basin to Germany.

Delegations from America and most European countries will reëmphasize their unity with the fatherland and also, as the official German news bureau declares, "bear evidence of the unity of Germans throughout the world."

"A nation of 100 million Germans foregathers on the frontier of the Saar in a spirit of unity—that is an event of transcendental importance," says Der Angriff, Nazi newspaper.

Hitler Aids Catholic Youth.

Delegations of Catholic Youths of the Saar almost failed to put in their appearance because they were at first forbidden to wear the Catholic Youth uniforms. Chancellor Hitler personally intervened in their behalf.

The women's congress of the association opened today. The position of Germans in North America was dealt with by Dr. Steinacher, national leader of the Association of Germans Living in Foreign Countries. He complained that Americans of allied antecedents used the war and prohibition to wreck the German national life in language and organization.

"We owe renewed thanks to the best of our Germans in America for taking up the fight forced on them by Germany's enemies," Dr. Steinacher declared. "Naturally in their own interests they are fighting against the slandering of their race and its leader. Germans in North America are engaged in a moral and economic fight which greatly exceeds the anti-German propaganda during the war."

Dr. Steinacher especially praised the German-American press and also the Steuben society for their campaigns.

Speaks of French Policy.

Speaking of the aims of French policy in the Saar, Prof. Steinbach of Bonn told the women that the so-called "Saar statute" was President Wilson's compromise with French cupidity on behalf of his (Wilson's) beloved league of nations.

"The loyalty of Saar Germans will block French aspirations toward the east," the professor said.

Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen, en route to Mayence, addressed a Saar demonstration of members of the volunteer labor service at Birstein today. He predicted that the Saar plebiscite next year will demonstrate "the unparalleled injustice of the Versailles treaty."

GERMAN GETS TEN YRS. FOR HURLING HAND GRENADE AT A JEW

BERLIN, May 18.—(AP)—Erwin Schulze, a house painter, was sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary today for throwing a hand grenade which wrecked the automobile of David Oliver, Jewish theater owner March 21.

The act was perpetrated on the fashionable boulevard Unter den Linden and was first reported to have been directed against Gen. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, premier of Prussia.

Schulze later made a confession revealing that the bomb was meant for Oliver, who owns the big Bergner theater where a showing of the film, "Catherine the Great," previous to the explosion caused anti-Jewish disturbances. Oliver's chauffeur was seriously injured in the blast.

BRITAIN WARNED BY G. B. S. AGAINST JAPANESE TIEUP

LONDON, May 18.—(AP)—George Bernard Shaw, Irish dramatist, returned from a 23,000 mile trip to New Zealand today with decided views on the danger to the British empire of any close hooking up of Britain and Japan.

A British alliance with Japan, he said, would "drive America into the arms of Russia, which we have already done to some extent. Then Australia, New Zealand, and Canada would come in with the United States—if they would have them."

Shaw discoursed on many other matters in his customary bluff style, declaring for one thing in at least assumed seriousness that another "peril to the empire" lay in the playing of games between its component parts, such as cricket matches.

NEW POLITICAL PARTY WILL BE FORMED TODAY

La Follette Wing Delegates to Meet in Fond du Lac.

BY THORNTON L. SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fond du Lac, Wis., May 18.—[Special.]—Fond du Lac county, which claims the origin of the Republican party in February, 1854, tonight is in expectation of the birth tomorrow of a new political party.

Assembling tonight are the forerunners of those who will decide tomorrow whether the radicals, the dissatisfied and some of the personally ambitious of both the old political parties, will unite under a new name and platform, set forth their program and principles and launch a new organization in a fight for office in the November elections this year.

It seemed certain tonight that the new party will be formed, although there is opposition to the action, especially among those who are at present holding office under the banner of the old parties.

Talked of for 30 Years.

The third party has been talked of for 30 years, ever since the elder Robert M. La Follette began his fight for control of the Republican party.

The convention will meet in the armory and the first session is called for 9 a. m. William Mauthe, once chairman of the state conservation commission, appointed by the conservative Governor Kohler, but always a supporter of the La Follette group in the party, will deliver the keynote speech.

Both U. S. Senator Robert M. La Follette and former Governor Philip La Follette will be here and the speech of the senator, whose political fortunes are more deeply involved than any other man's, is eagerly awaited.

Senator La Follette has not publicly committed himself to the wisdom of the new party, but general belief is he has gone too far to retract now and that he will indorse it and be its first candidate for the senate.

The farmer-labor combination has been the compelling factor in forcing action. Others have talked about it for a good many years, but this coalition, an outgrowth of Prof. John R. Dewey's League for Political Action, has demanded results.

Amlie Is Chairman.

Thomas R. Amlie of Elkhorn, a former part term La Follette congressman from the First Wisconsin district, is chairman of the Farmer-Labor political federation which was born at a convention of Prof. Dewey's followers in Chicago last summer.

Amlie has been talked of as a possible candidate for governor although he is said much to prefer going back to congress from the First district. He said today he had not part in the talk about his candidacy and that he personally strongly favors Philip La Follette for governor. Mr. Amlie is not frightened, he said, by the two La Follettes on the ticket for the two leading officers, although he declared the dynastic argument would be raised and the sentiment advanced that it will injure Bob's chances if Phil also is to run.

HOMES, STORES RAZED BY FIRE IN MASSACHUSETTS

Newburyport, Mass., May 19 (Saturday).—(AP)—An uncontrolled and raging fire roared onward to McKay's boatyard on the banks of the Merrimack river early today after leveling shoe factories, dwellings and business blocks in the lower end of the city. The damage was estimated at $900,000.

The wharf and main shed at the McKay yards were quickly razed and the flames licked at a score of private yachts that lay on marine railways preparatory to being placed in the water for the summer months.

Additional calls for aid were sent out as the blaze crept on. Shortly before 3 a. m. apparatus arrived from Salem, 26 miles away, and by 4 o'clock the flames were under control.

The patch of charred ruins extended from the city hall down to the river bank.

The destroyed buildings included two shoe factories, a dozen homes, Odd Fellows hall, two business blocks, and the main sheds of the McKay boatyard.

Police began an investigation in the belief that the fire was incendiary.

COMMUNITIES' CEREMONIES PAY HONOR TO YOUTH

Communities in the metropolitan area held observances last night honoring their youth. In the North Town area the American Legion post sponsored a parade of students and civic officials and presented a boxing program for the boys. The Auburn Park district also held a parade.

The playground program today will be under the supervision of Walter H. Wright, chairman of the recreation council and superintendent of parks and recreation for Chicago. Track events and tournaments are scheduled.

In addition to youth observances, the Chicago schools yesterday marked World Good Will day, emphasizing the importance of peaceful relations among nations, with special assembly programs.

Mercy High School Opens Homecoming Fete Tonight

A three day May festival and homecoming will begin tonight in the Mercy High school, 2100 Prairie avenue, for the Friends of the Sisters of Mercy and alumni of the schools. It is being sponsored by the Mercy federation. Tomorrow night Mayor Kelly and other city officials will attend the function. The celebration will end with a reception for students of the Mercy schools Tuesday afternoon.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm By Bob Becker

A Wild Life Roll Call

May 18, 1934.

CLARENCE THUROW, manager of the experimental farm, conducted a roll call this morning of the steers which now are in a pasture close to the Fox river. He wanted to arrive at the number 116, which is the number of steers supposed to be in this group of cattle. He lost count, however, when he was checking them off because a red fox tried to get in on this roll call and the appearance of this animal threw the whole roll call into confusion. And just before Reynard dashed out of sight a big cock pheasant stood up in plain sight of Clarence and crowed as if he were trying to answer the roll call for the steers. All in all, this check-up on the Herefords was quite a wild life show.

Clarence was riding his horse, not far from a big swamp that extends along the base of the range of low hills here on the farm, when the fox made its appearance. Roaney, the horse, was traveling along in fine style apparently enjoying the trip away from the barnyard and the chance to get out in the open on a nice spring day. Suddenly the fox sprinted at top speed across the path and slipped into the swamp where the vegetation was thickest. Clarence tied up the horse and walked toward the spot where the fox had disappeared. When he got close to the marsh he saw the animal again. By this time the roll call was considerably scrambled, so Clarence had to start all over again counting off the Herefords. They eventually checked out at 116, the correct number.

The flax which was planted here on the farm some time ago is beginning to show above the ground. The way it looks now the farm will get a full stand of this plant if the weather man will just provide some good, heavy rains. The comparison between the flax that was drilled into the soil and that broadcast (scattered over the ground) is rather interesting at this stage of development. The seed which was drilled is way ahead of the other.

The billy goat has a funny schedule these days. He is very fond of the colts on the farm and they seem to like his company, too. (I have seen this old billy goat and the colts playing just like a bunch of kids in a game of tag.) Recently Billy has been up against a problem. He used to play around with four colts. All five of the animals were in one pasture. Now that the grass is becoming short because of lack of rain it has been necessary to move two of the colts to another pasture. This called for some heavy thinking on Billy's part. Two of his pals going to a different pasture and two staying at home. What to do? Should he go with the pair moving or stay put? The goat went into a huddle and figured out his schedule. He now spends the days with one pair of colts and the nights with the other. (You don't catch this smart old fellow playing any favorites!)

It's going to be necessary to pasture cattle in the woodlands this year. On THE TRIBUNE'S auxiliary farm this practice was discontinued a few years ago because of the damage done to young growth of all kinds. In February it was decided on the experimental farm that tracts of woodlands would be withdrawn from pasture in order to build up the secondary growth. However, with the drouth causing a severe lack of grazing facilities it looks as if all wooded pastures would have to be used this season.

The Tribune experimental farm is now ready for visitors. Road signs will direct motorists out of Yorkville and Plano to the farm. The farm is three miles west of Yorkville on the Fox road and two miles south of Plano.

FOUND GUILTY OF FRAUD; GETS MONTH IN CELL

Myron Caldwell, 40 years old, 1016 Ainslie street, was sentenced to thirty days in the Bridewell by Municipal Judge Samuel Heller yesterday for obtaining money under false pretenses. According to witnesses, Caldwell inserted advertisements offering to sell half of his furniture polish business.

Frank Strunk, 27 years old, 4234 Thomas street, testified that he raised $250 by mortgaging his furniture, but that after he paid the money Caldwell did not make him a partner and did not return the money. Robert Strunk, a brother of the complainant, testified that he also answered the advertisements and that Caldwell offered to discharge Frank Strunk and take Robert in as partner for $750.

Frank Strunk offered to run the business and support Caldwell's wife and children while the latter is in jail, but his offer was spurned by Mrs. Caldwell.

FORD DEALER FILES SUIT TO COMPEL U. S. PURCHASE OF TRUCKS

Washington, D. C., May 18.—(AP)—A suit to compel the government purchase of 522 Ford trucks was filed in the District of Columbia Supreme court today by the Northwest Motor company of Chevy Chase, Md.

This action closely followed a ruling by J. R. McCarl, controler general, instructing government departments to reject bids unless they were accompanied by affidavits that the goods offered had been produced in full compliance with NRA agreements.

An injunction was asked to restrain Secretary Wallace from rejecting truck bids opened April 10 and from awarding the contract to the Chevrolet company.

The suit said the Ford dealer's bid was $30,282 lower than that of Chevrolet.

RETURN SUICIDE VERDICT.

A verdict of suicide while despondent over a love affair was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury investigating the death of Miss Laverne La Fay, 18 years old, 4222 South Union avenue.

TRIAL REVEALS CODE VIOLATIONS BY PMA MEMBERS

Members of the Pure Milk association, the farmers' bargaining group which is one of the principal backers of the milk marketing license prescribed for the Chicago area by the Agricultural Adjustment administration, are in some instances selling their milk at prices below those fixed by the AAA, it was disclosed yesterday.

The disclosure came in the trial of John Kunka, owner of the Midland Dairy company, 3314 West 47th street, on charges of violating the license. His case was heard in the United States Customs Appraisers building at 610 South Canal street with Lisle A. Smith of the AAA legal staf presiding and W. Carroll Hunter, another AAA attorney, prosecuting.

Small Dealers Suffer.

Kunka was defended by Attorney Stephen I. Witmanski, who in his own trial Thursday charged the present milk license was drawn to benefit the large milk companies and force their small competitors out of business.

Kunka buys milk from members of the Pure Milk association, but at a flat price instead of the base-surplus schedule provided by the license. He pays $1.03 for an 8 gallon can. This amounts to $1.40 a hundredweight [3.13 cents a quart] as compared with the blended price of $1.50 a hundredweight [3.25 cents a quart], fixed by the license. Both prices were figured after deductions of 7 cents a hundredweight for various PMA checkoffs and dues.

Pays Flat Price.

Farmer witnesses, questioned by Alfred L. Dorf, assisting Mr. Hunter, also testified that Kunka pays an absolute flat price, without the differentials fixed by the license for butter fat content of the milk. Under the license 3.5 per cent butterfat content is standard, and for each of one per cent which his milk tests over that figure, the farmer is paid a premium of 4 cents a hundredweight. Similarly, he is penalized at the same rate if the content is below standard.

Some of the farmers would have had more money coming from Kunka had he allowed the butterfat differential. In other cases, Kunka would have saved money by making payments on that basis.

P. M. A. Officials Explain.

Officials of the Pure Milk association said last night that Kunka's buying arrangements are typical of a number of small milk dealers in the city, who operate their businesses principally with the help of members of their family. They also pointed out that it is no violation of the license for a farmer to sell below the code price, although it is for a distributor to buy at such a level. While the association tries to discourage price cutting by its members they said, it does not forbid it absolutely.

Officials of the Meadowmoor dairy, which was the first large cut price milk concern, yesterday assured Attorney Smith they would hereafter comply with the milk license and file the reports demanded by the AAA. On the basis of that assurance, a violation charge against them was continued to June 11.

OFFICIAL WEATHER FORECAST

The official forecast for today and tomorrow and yesterday's table of records follow:

Wisconsin—Some prospects of scattered showers about Saturday night or Sunday; slightly warmer in east portion Saturday.

Indiana—Generally fair Saturday and Sunday, except possibly local showers in north portion by Sunday; somewhat warmer Saturday in south portion.

Ohio—Generally fair Saturday and probably Sunday; rising temperature near Lake Erie.

Lower Michigan—Generally fair in south, possibly scattered showers in north, somewhat warmer in south portion Saturday; Sunday probably local showers.

Upper Michigan—Generally fair Saturday; Sunday possibly local showers and somewhat warmer.

Missouri—Generally fair Saturday and Sunday, except possibly unsettled in extreme north portion; warmer in extreme south portion Saturday.

Iowa—Generally fair Saturday, except possibly local thundershowers in extreme northwest; possibly local showers Saturday night or Sunday; not so warm Sunday in extreme west.

North Dakota—Partly cloudy Saturday and Sunday, possibly scattered thundershowers; not so warm in northeast and south central portions.

South Dakota—Somewhat unsettled Saturday and Sunday, possibly scattered thundershowers; not so warm in southeast portion by Saturday night.

Nebraska—Generally fair Saturday and Sunday, except possibly scattered thundershowers; not quite so warm in north central portion, and in northeast portion Sunday.

Kansas—Generally fair Saturday and Sunday; warmer Saturday in southeast portion.

R. W. Child and His Wife Hop from Venice to Vienna

VIENNA, May 18.—(AP)—Richard Washburn Child, President Roosevelt's economic observer, arrived from Venice today by airplane, accompanied by Mrs. Child.

THREE TRAPPED BY FIRE; WOMAN DIES OF BURNS

Mrs. Alvina Ellert, 48 years old, of 1503 Mohawk street, died at St. Joseph's hospital yesterday of burns received a few hours before in a fire at 1517 Orchard street. Two men victims of the blaze may die. They are John Kafka, 51 years old, in whose house the fire occurred, and Joseph Wagner, 40 years old, of 1521 Fremont street. Both were taken to St. Joseph's hospital.

The three victims were trapped in the rooms of the two story frame structure after a kerosene lamp had been overturned and set the place ablaze. Tenants in adjacent buildings told firemen they heard sounds of merrymaking in the Kafka flat a short time before the fire was discovered.

Firemen carried the woman out through a window and took the two men down the steps of a burning porch. The three were unconscious when taken to the hospital.

Staunton Couple Marks Golden Wedding Day

Bloomington, Ill., May 18.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Louis Jung of Staunton, Ill., celebrated their golden wedding anniversary today.

HYMIE LEVIN, AID OF CAPONE, TAKEN TO U. S. PRISON

Hymie [Loud Mouth] Levin, former loop collector for the Capone syndicate, who was sentenced last Monday to 18 months in prison for income tax evasion, and 16 other federal prisoners were taken to Leavenworth penitentiary by train last night.

Although he was granted a week's stay by Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan, before whom he pleaded guilty, Levin decided to surrender and begin serving his sentence immediately.

Another member of the group was Anthony Skinkus, 30 years old, who was found guilty by Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone Thursday and sentenced to 52 years for robbing a postal substation. Judge Stone yesterday, however, reduced the sentence to 27 years.

Three of the others were sentenced for narcotic violations, five for counterfeiting, one for violation of the Dyer act, two for postal robberies, two for stealing from interstate shipments, one for impersonating a federal officer, and one for violation of the internal revenue law.

FOUND DEAD IN BARN.

Neighbors yesterday found the body of James Seyles, 73 years old, a truck farmer at 3608 South 52d court, Cicero, in the left of his barn. He apparently had died of heart disease.

MANY SCANDALS IN RADIO BOARD STILL UNEXPOSED

Relentless Inquiry Would Reveal Them to Public.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—This series of articles has barely scratched the surface of the scandal of the political manipulation of the quasi-judicial radio commission.

The specific instances recounted of the making and unmaking of decisions of the commission by the White House and by senators, congressmen, national committeemen and other puissant members of the party in power are only those in which it has been possible to uncover a substantial body of facts.

Can Dig Up Many Other Instances.

Other instances, buried more deeply, only a relentless investigation by a body with power to summon persons and papers could expose to public view. Such an investigation would revolve around actions of the commission falling into the following classification:

1. Cases involving violations of the commission's quota regulations or of the engineering divisions mileage frequency tables.

2. Cases in which, regardless of merits, approval of applications is rushed through without going the normal procedural route, including hearings.

3. Cases in which the commission first decides one way and then, by a shift of votes, decides it another way, without new evidence or additional hearings.

Davis Amendment Unduly Rigid.

The quota regulations are the result of the Davis amendment to the radio act directing the commission as nearly as possible to divide broadcast facilities equally among the five zones and equitably among the states in each zone in proportion to population. The amendment was an unduly rigid law and, rigidly construed, ran counter to recognized technical principles (since the zones varied greatly in size from about 130,000 square miles in the first zone to about 1,200,000 square miles in the fifth zone). It was, however, susceptible of a fairly liberal interpretation.

The quota system was formally enacted into regulations. It was further provided that each zone's share was 80 units and on this basis the share of each state was calculated according to the 1930 census figures. A zone is "over quota" if it has more or less than 80 units. A state is "over quota" or "under quota" if it has more or less than its mathematical share of the 80 units based on its 1930 population.

Buy Stations Over Quota.

The tendency was immediately manifest all over the country to buy existing stations in over quota states instead of trying to put stations out of business. It left to itself this tendency would automatically have effected a fair distribution of facilities over the country.

The tendency was aborted because almost immediately the commission began to ignore its own regulations in any case where there was political pressure. At first the departures were small and only occasional. Any application received that was not in accord with the regulations was ordinarily returned to the applicant automatically. On the strength of advice received from lawyers and engineers in Washington during that period many persons invested large sums of money in buying units. Now it appears they would have saved a lot of money if they had waited a couple of years and used political pressure, by which it is now possible to get the same privileges for nothing (minus fees to certain Democratic lawyers).

The departures became more and more numerous and there was more and more gossip. At length the commission, seeing that it could no longer conceal its violations of its own regulations, changed the regulations in November, 1931, to give it a loophole on which it could rely in every case of political pressure. The new rule, section 6 [G] of its regulations, provided: "Since the act provides for the equalizing of radio facilities among zones and among states 'as nearly as possible,' the commission may allow a slight departure, plus or minus, from an exact mathematical estimate."

Continues to Return Applications.

This provision has been worked to death, almost always in cases of political pressure. Yet the commission still continues to return applications without hearing if they come from over quota states or zones [unless they specify rule 6 [G] as the basis for the application].

An investigation of the commission's action since its quota regulations were first adopted shows an astounding state of affairs. The units of many over quota states have been radically increased. In most instances, the increases have been bald and undisguised. In some cases [such as the increased hours which Columbia secured for its station WBBM] the increases are disguised as "experimental," and not charged against quota at all, although this is in violation of another regulation which requires that temporary assignments be charged to quota as well as permanent assignments.

The most vicious aspect of the whole matter is that during the same months that the commission has been adding to the facilities of over quota states it has been taking stations off the air in those same states [and even in the same cities] on the sole ground that the state was over quota. This was true in the WIBO case, and has been tragically true of the Chicago area generally. The net result is that one set of individuals has been robbed of heavy investments by taking their facilities from them in order to give those same facilities to others in the same city. The history of the Chicago quota situation by itself, if investigated, is scandalous.

Have Effect of Regulations.

The mileage frequency tables do not have the status of regulations but have the practical effect of regulations, except where there is political pressure. The tables [which are carefully based on average technical principles] show what distance separations should be observed, day or night, between stations of varying amounts of power on the same frequency and on adjacent frequencies up to a separation of 40 kilocycles. They furnish a ground for the commission to deny any application which does not conform to these distances, because of the expected interference. They are regularly disregarded in the political pressure cases.

What is known as the "clear channel" system is rapidly breaking down before the onslaught of politicians and of the two national networks, interested chiefly in securing more urban coverage to sell to advertisers. A "clear channel" is a wave length assigned to the exclusive evening use of a high power station, so as to be interference free and capable of giving good broadcasting reception over large areas beyond the urban center where the station may be located.

Nine Clear Channels Threatened.

It is the only means of affording broadcasting service to the great rural areas of the midwest, the west, and the south.

Originally there were forty wave lengths reserved as clear channels. Already nine of them are partially or wholly destroyed by commission decisions assigning other stations to the same wave lengths. Several others are threatened by pending applications. A recent instance is the commission's action of March 30, 1934, by which it authorized WTIC, Hartford, Conn., and KRLD, Dallas, Tex., to duplicate on the same "clear channel"; likewise, WBAL, Baltimore, Md., and KTHS, Hot Springs, Ark., on another "clear channel."

The permits granted were called "experimental authorizations," a device which has been increasingly used to conceal departures from the commission's regulations.

800 Take Tests

Eight hundred high school pupils in the Chicago area who have proved outstanding in their studies competed for 55 scholarships in examinations at the University of Chicago yesterday. While the visiting pupils were entertained on the campus during the afternoon, members of the university faculty were busily grading the papers. The scholarships are for $300 each, the equivalent of one year's tuition.

SCHOLARSHIPS AWARDED TO 5 CHICAGO PUPILS

Five Chicago high school honor pupils were given one year university scholarships, and 60 pupils selected for their scholarship were awarded civic achievement medals at a luncheon in the Union League club yesterday. The luncheon marked youth in civic achievement day of the Youth week program. Athletic tournaments will be held in 175 city playgrounds today to celebrate youth's day out of doors. They will close the Youth week observance.

Two of the honor pupils received scholarships to the University of Chicago yesterday. They are Roy Daniel Soderlind, Calumet High school, and Frances Protheroe, Hyde Park High school. Their alternates are George Vogel Erhart, Tilden High school, and Jean Clauss, Senn High school.

Jean Winter, Parker High school, and William Nave, Sullivan High school, received scholarships to Northwestern university. Their alternates are Janet Dow, Morgan Park High school, and Edward Morris, Hyde Park High school. William J. Laise, Austin High school, received the Armour Institute of Technology scholarship. His alternate is Fred Mattson, Roosevelt High school.

The scholarship winners were determined by tests given to 65 pupils from upper levels of their classes in all the schools. Supt. William J. Bogan presented the awards.

TEACHERS GET $1,850,000 PAY FOR TWO WEEKS

Chicago school teachers and employes yesterday received pay checks totaling $1,850,000 for the first two weeks of October, 1933. The pay day, which is the fourth ordered by the board of education in two months, was made possible by the purchase of $700,000 of 1934 tax anticipation warrants by loop banks and the transfer of money from the board's working cash fund. Richard S. Folsom, school board attorney, announced yesterday that he would return to Washington Monday to confer with Illinois congressmen on legislation designed to provide a loan to pay back salaries, totaling $20,000,000 to Chicago teachers.

ORGANIZED HIGH SCHOOL TEACHERS ELECT J. T. MYERS

John T. Myers, an Austin high school teacher, was elected president of the Chicago High School Teachers' association in its annual meeting at 185 North Wabash avenue yesterday. Mr. Myers succeeds Frederick T. Wilhelms of Bowen high school, who was named vice president. Miss Marie Harkins, Foreman high school, was elected corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Thenia C. Josi, of Harrison high school, was reelected treasurer.

Robert C. Keenan, who has been representing the Chicago division of the Illinois State Teachers' association in Washington on pending school legislation, told the association that the outlook for passage of a bill to aid the teachers is unfavorable.

"The only hope for a Reconstruction Finance corporation loan to the Chicago board of education lies in possible action by President Roosevelt," Keenan said. "I doubt that the teachers can hope for relief from federal sources."

U. S. RADIO BODY ASKS PROOF OF PAPER'S ATTACK

New York Editorial Hits Commission Policy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—The administration's tendency to "crack down" on its critics spread today to the federal radio commission.

In a most unusual procedure the commission adopted and distributed to the press a formal resolution demanding factual proof of a critical statement which recently appeared in the editorial columns of a New York newspaper. The move was interpreted generally as a further demonstration of the "New Deal" antipathy toward criticism of its policies or purposes.

On May 12 the Herald Tribune of New York stated in an editorial that "the radio, controled by the administration through its licensing power, was made the spokesman of the New Deal and largely restricted to government propaganda."

This the commission denied in its resolution, and demanded proof of the "facts or other material" which would support the statement.

Text of Resolutions.

The text of the resolution follows:

"Whereas, On May 12, 1934, the New York Herald Tribune, Ogden Mills Reid, president and editor, in its editorial column, published the following:

"'The radio, controled by the administration through its licensing power, was made the spokesman of the New Deal and largely restricted to government propaganda' and

"Whereas, The federal radio commission, pursuant to the provisions of the radio act of 1927, is the 'licensing power,' and

"Whereas, The federal radio commission, consistent with the prohibition contained in section 29 of the radio act of 1927, as follows:

"'Nothing in this act shall be understood or construed to give the licensing authority the power of censorship over the radio communications or signals transmitted by any radio station, and no regulation or condition shall be promulgated or fixed by the licensing authority which shall interfere with the right of free speech by means of radio communications . . .'

Commission Asks Facts.

"Has never 'controled' or 'restricted' radio programs to 'government propaganda,' or attempted in any way so to do;

"Now, therefore, Be it resolved that Mr. Ogden Mills Reid, the president and editor of the New York Herald Tribune, be, and is hereby, requested to furnish the commission any facts or other material, including the names of parties furnishing the same, which would support, or tend to support, the statements made in the editorial column of said newspaper."

Baby Jackass Born at Zoo Kicked to Death by Mother

Jack Jr., the baby jackass born Thursday at the Lincoln Park zoo, was kicked to death yesterday by his mother, Jennie. The baby jackass aroused his mother's displeasure for some reason, and she kicked at him whenever he came near her. One of her kicks landed, and Jack Jr. was marked down as the second infant fatality in recent days at the zoo. The other was Betty, the baby orang-utan, which died last week.

13 U. S. COLLEGE GIRLS WIN RIGHT TO ENTER FRANCE

Miffed, They May Not Go After All.

MADRID, May 18.—(AP)—L'affaire Smith college, as the French say, la cosa Smith college, as the Spanish say, or "How about it?" as the Smith college girls themselves said, moved toward a general victory for all concerned tonight.

The girls, who had been denied permission to visit France, received the permission, but they intimated they didn't know whether they wanted to go after all and the French consul who started it all said there was some mistake.

Blames Trouble on "13."

Such innocent bystanders as were caught in the throes of the dispute and were slightly bewildered by the whole affair became frankly superstitious and said the real responsibility lay in the fact 13 girls were involved. Twelve of them are students of Smith college and the thirteenth comes from Barnard college of Columbia university.

They complained hotly to Curtis Jordan, United States consul, yesterday that the French consul had refused to visé their passports when they asked to go to France on their way home and that he, the representative of France, had told them he wanted good conduct statements from French consuls in the United States before he could grant his permission for them to visit La Belle Republique.

The girls have been studying at the university of Madrid. One of their subjects has been the Spanish language. Very unofficial observers pointed out the likelihood there had been some misunderstanding involving French, Spanish and English.

Girls May Not Go to France.

In any case, Manuel Neville, the French consul in question, visited Jordan personally tonight and said he was ready to visé the passports for the girls at any time but that thus far no passports had been presented to him.

The girls said they were somewhat divided now on whether they wanted to go to France. They will decide soon.

Almost a Serious Matter.

PARIS, May 18.—(AP)—The matter of the visit of 13 American college girls to France became almost serious tonight.

Manuel Neville, French consul to Madrid, made it the subject of an official report to the foreign office here.

He said, in effect, that it was all a mistake. He informed his superiors that he told the girls when they made their requests for visas to permit them to visit France that ordinarily he would have to ask "further information" before he could grant them.

A spokesman for the foreign office characterized the affair as "much ado about nothing." He also explained that "unemployment causes consuls to move cautiously." He likewise described the matter as "an unfortunate misunderstanding."

COUNCIL PRAISES KELLY'S AID TO CITY'S FINANCES

The city council yesterday commended Mayor Kelly for putting the city's financial affairs in such condition that the city was able to command a premium of $107,500 on the sale of $10,000,000 worth of refunding bonds and water certificates. "It is a good thing for the taxpayers," said Ald. John Coughlin [1st], who submitted the resolution of commendation, "to have the city's finances ably and economically managed."

LARYNX REMOVED, CHICAGOAN GETS BACK HIS SPEECH

John T. Bowers, an organ salesman for Lyon & Healy, yesterday reported an experience similar to that of a Brooklyn physician, who lost his voice by an operation for removal of his larynx and learned to talk again by using his stomach muscles to form sounds. Mr. Bowers is 65 years old and lives at 5310 Blackstone avenue. He talked over the telephone yesterday and could be understood almost as clearly as a person speaking in a natural voice.

"Ten years ago," he said, "I developed cancer in the throat and a New Orleans surgeon removed my larynx to save my life. He told me I probably never would be able to talk again. All my life I had been a salesman and that was a serious handicap. During the years following the operation I tried my best to talk but was unable to utter a sound.

"By persistent application through the exercise of my diaphragm and the muscles of my stomach I found after a couple of years that I was able to make guttural sounds understandable to no one but my wife. It was like learning to talk all over again, except that I know what I wanted to say but couldnt say it. Five years ago I became complete master of my defect and since have been able again to earn a living as a salesman."

Mr. Bowers said he had traveled all over the United States giving advice to persons similarly afflicted. A few weeks ago he explained his method of voice recovery before the convention of the American College of Physicians here.

ZOOK QUITS, PICK STUDEBAKER FOR EDUCATION CHIEF

Washington, D. C., May 18.—(AP)—Dr. George F. Zook resigned today as United States commissioner of education effective July 1.

John Ward Studebaker, superintendent of schools of Des Moines, Ia., will succeed him.

Studebaker will assume his new duties Sept. 1.

Superintendent at Des Moines since 1920, he put into effect practices which have become standard in many other public school systems.

Zook, formerly of Akron, declined three weeks ago to accept an appointment as president of the University of Iowa. He will become director of the American Council of Education.

The new commissioner was born in McGregor, Ia., in 1887. He received his bachelor's degree from Leander college in 1917.

"Newspapers are the sentinels of the liberties of our country."—Benjamin Bush.

MR. WALLACE'S HI-BRED EXPLANATION.

Secretary Wallace's explanation of his connection with the affairs of the Hi-Bred Corn company of Grimes, Ia., is an extraordinary document. It was intended to clear him. In fact, his own words have fortified the conclusion that our generation has seen no more shocking example of official misconduct than his.

Mr. Wallace is responsible for the government's corn program, the avowed purpose of which is to reduce the production of corn and thus raise the price. Mr. Wallace has imposed a tax upon consumers of corn and its products. The money collected by the government from this tax is distributed among farmers provided they sign contracts with the government to plant fewer acres of corn.

The Hi-Bred company has advertised to farmers that the corn which it sells is so much more productive than ordinary seed that the farmer who plants it can sign the government's contract, share in the tax distribution, and still grow as much corn as he did before. It has been estimated that the Wallace seed will produce 5,000,000 more bushels of corn in Iowa than would otherwise have been produced. Needless to say, if these claims are at all true, they should assure the sale of all the seed that the Hi-Bred company can offer and the seed company can make its own price. Hi-Bred seed sells for from $6.50 to $7.50 a bushel. Ordinary seed corn brings from $1 to $2.50 a bushel.

Mr. Wallace's explanation is twofold. He says in the first place that he is no longer the principal stockholder in the company. His wife is now the principal stockholder. That is the kind of explanation which some of Mr. Wallace's associates in the New Deal have scorned when it was offered in defense of the transfer of securities to a wife for income tax purposes. The attorney for the Grain Futures administration, one of Mr. Wallace's bureaus, is presently engaged in asserting that Mrs. Arthur Cutten's business arrangements cannot be distinguished from Mr. Arthur Cutten's. At the same moment, Mr. Wallace asks the country to believe that Mrs. Wallace's business affairs are of no concern to him. The performance is not wholly convincing!

Mr. Wallace goes on to say that the Hi-Bred company produces so little seed corn as yet that all of it planted in Iowa this year will account at most for only 1½ per cent of the total corn yield of the state. It is truly astonishing that Mr. Wallace can regard this statement as an answer to anything. Mr. Wallace, as secretary of agriculture, has initiated and put into effect policies of acreage reduction which cannot fail to stimulate the demand for the product which he, or, as he would say, Mrs. Wallace, has to sell. The fact that the profits might be larger [and no doubt will be larger if the acreage control is continued] does not obscure the fact that the private fortune of the Wallaces is benefiting from the public acts of Mr. Wallace.

His position morally is indistinguishable from that of a hypothetical secretary of the navy who might initiate a policy of naval construction at the moment when his wife was a principal stockholder in the Bethlehem Steel company; or from that of a suppositional secretary of the interior who might order the construction of immense reclamation dams at the moment when his wife happened to be a principal stockholder in strategically placed cement mills.

Mr. Wallace was under no obligations to become secretary of agriculture and under no obligation to remain in office if he conceived it the duty of the secretary to institute policies which would prove of peculiar benefit to him as a private citizen. His endeavor to gloss over the gross impropriety of his conduct is almost as shocking as the impropriety itself.

SOMEBODY IS LOONY NOW.

The gloom in Geneva is one of conviction. The most illusioned of the league of nation's advocates cannot look beyond the prevailing facts disclosing the futility of this attempt at super government. A mountain of failure has buried the hopes of the internationalists.

Whenever the interests of a nation have become jeopardized by league proceedings it has given the league its defiance and walked out. Japan alone would have proved that the Geneva house was one of cobwebs. The earlier and minor achievements of the league have been lost in its recent major failures. The wrecking of its disarmament plans has brought its stoutest defenders to despair.

It is at this moment that the United States senate again finds time to take up the question of adherence to the league's judicial branch, the world court. For years the common sense of the bulk of the American people prevailed to keep the United States out of the entanglements in which the people could see no possible good and many possible injuries. Administration after administration endeavored to betray the verdict of the people as expressed in elections, but none quite succeeded.

When the issue became acute, when the government would press for something the people did not want, a reserve of caution would prevail in the senate and nothing would be done. Fortunately, the defenses were sufficient to keep the United States free while the other nations were proving that the essentials of national self-interests would prevail in spite of the pledges to which the various nations committed themselves. Time proved that the stronger would do what they wanted to in spite of the obligations they had incurred to the contrary.

Are these lessons all lost upon the American government? If the senate now acts favorably on the proposal to join the league's court it will commit the supreme folly of entering a house just as the timbers are cracking overhead to come down in a crash. What an act of insanity to join just in time to get in the ruins!

A VICTORY FOR CHICAGO'S COAL BUYERS.

When the NRA coal prices were promulgated THE TRIBUNE called attention to the fact that Chicago was the object of an outrageous discrimination. It was shown that the price of Kentucky and West Virginia coal, brought here by lake vessels, was 25 cents a ton higher than the price of the same coal brought to other lake ports in the vicinity. Consumers of coal were advised to reduce their purchases as much as possible if they wished to obtain justice.

As readers of the Voice of the People will recall, certain gentlemen in the coal trade denied that the discrimination was of enough consequence to bother about, and accused THE TRIBUNE of working an injury to a great industry in Illinois. However that may be, the protest seems to have had some effect. The schedule of coal prices in this industrial area has now been revised. Illinois coal of all grades is to be sold for 10 cents less a ton, a saving to consumers estimated at $800,000 a year. Perhaps the gentlemen in the coal trade will hold that $800,000 a year is also not worth talking about.

In this connection it should be noted that, even after the reduction, the price of coal to Chicago consumers under the NRA scheme is still outrageously unjust. Consumers in Milwaukee and Detroit can buy Illinois coal at the mine at $1.35 a ton. Even with the reduction of 10 cents a ton the same coal, bought at the same place, costs Chicago consumers $1.50 a ton. If the consumers in Milwaukee and Detroit are paying a fair price, then consumers in Chicago are being gouged.

Here is one more evidence of the use of NRA to squeeze the consumer by artificial price fixing. The fact that Chicago is by all odds the best market for Illinois coal is the excuse for making Chicago pay an arbitrarily high price for its purchases. The best customer is obliged to pay the highest price and is told to like it.

Until consumers of coal in Chicago are placed on terms of equality with the consumers of like quantities anywhere else, there will be ample justification for any peaceful steps which may be taken to bring the industry and NRA to their senses. As President Roosevelt has well said: "We would save and encourage the slowly growing impulse among consumers to enter the industrial market place equipped with sufficient organization to insist upon fair prices and honest sales." Precisely so.

CRIME TAKES NO VACATION.

The community will be grateful to State's Attorney Courtney and to Chief Justice Finnegan of the Criminal court and his associates for urging the importance of keeping up the crime drive during the summer. Mr. Courtney's first assistant, Mr. Crowley, put the matter in a nutshell when he said that criminals take no vacations. Industry and commerce do not close down for the summer and justice should not. Judges and lawyers require vacations, but this can be arranged and is arranged in other vocations than the law consistently with conditions.

Justice, civil and criminal, is notoriously slow, and as long as calendars are full the machinery of the law should proceed without interruption. Thanks to the industry of the state's attorney and the judges sitting on the Criminal court bench the criminal calendar is in better condition than for many years, and ground should not be lost, but rather gained, as rapidly as possible. Mr. Crowley urges that not fewer than six courts be kept open throughout the vacation period and the implication is that more courts would be better. The prosecution is ready to man as many courts as the judges will operate, and we suggest that the latter show an equal appreciation of the need for expeditious justice. The lay public, which works all the year round, in summer and in winter, cannot see any reason why the wheels of justice should be allowed to slow down at any time so long as there is work to be done.

POSTOFFICE GO-GETTERS.

When the postoffice goes out after business it has a way of getting it. A chain store company in Philadelphia used a trucking system for deliveries in Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Postal inspectors discovered to their satisfaction that there was a violation of the postal laws because the firm sent instructions to its branch managers by the trucks and received back reports. The trucking company is a separate business concern.

As a true governmental enterprise the postoffice does not seek its customers by giving them service. There is no need to win trade by inducements when it can be controled by indictments. The government's business slogan is: "Tell it to the judge."

Editorial of the Day

"INTERROGATION."

[The Baltimore Sun.]

Tucked away in the account of the arrest in New York of several supposed members of Detroit's Purple Gang is the sentence: "The four men, appearing at headquarters today, were badly battered after a long session of interrogation by detectives." It appears that in New York, as elsewhere, the police are conducting their games of twenty questions in the traditional manner, with rubber hose and blackjacks.

If the men arrested are guilty of white slavery and the other charges mentioned in the news, it is possible to understand the point of view of the interrogatory detectives. It is reported that the arrested men had just beaten a girl for objecting to white slavery as a career. However, sympathy for the individual prisoner is not the point, although there is seldom assurance when the police begin their "interrogations" that they are cuffing about the right man. What is important in the matter is that such third degree proceedings often delay solution of crimes and are no substitute for skilful questioning by a competent examiner. Furthermore, stories of such tactics told to the jury have often confounded the efforts of prosecutors to secure convictions.

In other countries it is possible to build up cases against suspects without the use of brutal methods of interrogation. In America, where the third degree is so widely prevalent, the record of arrests and convictions for crime is disgracefully poor. Can this be more than a coincidence?

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. R. L.

WELL, SPEAKING OF RAINS, there ought to be a big one today or very soon. Look out of the window and see. The AAA or NRA or CWA or one of those alphabetical groups can certainly produce copious rains if they want to. They ordered cotton, wheat, corn, and little hoggies plowed under and so, of course, if they can limit the productivity of nature they can expand it when they want to. Certainly! And why not? Go ahead, AAA, NRA, or any of you, send down the rain. But none of your tricks, now. Nix on cloudbursts, and no floods, if you please. Just nice, soft rains that fall like gentle dew from Heaven. And when you send the Chicago rain, kindly lay off of State street, because we're having a gala celebration there right now. Soak Dearborn street and Wabash avenue plenty, but no rain in State street or down at the Century of Progress. They're mighty busy down there and they can't be bothered. And no rain any day on the Boul Mich between 9 and 10 o'clock in the morning and 5 and 6 in the afternoon. That's when I take my daily promenade to and from the office, and I've got a new spring suit and somebody has swiped my umbrella. Keeping these little limitations in mind, go ahead, NRA, AAA, and CWA, do your stuff. Let 'er rain!

CONGRESSMAN PEYSER of New York proposes to introduce a bill requiring Democratic members of the House to wear numbers on their backs like a football team so that the spectators in the gallery recognize them at a glance. And Congressman Somers, likewise of New York, amends the proposition by saying he thinks it would be better if the Republican representatives would be attired in dark clothes and the Democrats in white; Mr. Somers being, of course, a Democrat. Well, both propositions seem to suggest that the silly season has begun in Washington, but, after all, with nothing to do but sign on the dotted line for everything the administration wants, the boys have to do something to pass away the time.

"OUR TODAYS AND YESTERDAYS," the college graduates will soon begin telling us, "Are the Blocks with Which We Build." Not if you lose your Blue Eagle. If that bird flies out on you your todays and yesterdays aren't blocks any more, just hunks of nothing whatsoever. Perhaps, graduates, you'd better fall back on "Life, What Is It?" That's always a safe bet, and it's a bigger question today than it was a hundred years ago or two thousand years ago. And a darned sight more intricate. And it's getting intricater, as one might say, every minute.

RED LETTER DAYS.

Red Letter Days, Red Letter Days.
Calendars largely may favor the grays,
But here interspersed you may come on the red,
Feast days of saints that long since are dead.
But though the saints shall not miss now the red
We who are living shall take them instead,
Seize them and hold them and make them as ours,
Dotting the year and as brief as the flowers.
Seize them and count them as misers their gold,
Cherishing memories when we are old,
Cherishing thoughts of the brief joys they knew,
Doled out so meager to me and to you.

"WAITRESS SEIZED for Selling Glass of Beer in Evanston."—Headline. Which shows that this old world certainly do move, say what you will. The waitress was only seized. That's progress. Time was when if they had caught a waitress selling a glass of beer in Evanston she would have been shot at sunrise or boiled in oil or burned at the stake or something. Now a waitress who sells a glass of beer in Evanston is merely seized.

How to Keep Well By Dr. W. A. Evans

MUSCLE WEAKNESS.

A NEW line of treatment for a group of hitherto hopeless and badly neglected diseases appears to be opening up. The probability is that for most of them the treatment will not be a cure, but it appears to be able to interrupt the progress of the disease and to gain back considerable of the lost ground. Among the diseases in the group are progressive muscular atrophy, any atrophic lateral sclerosis, myasthenia gravis, and several others that are characterized by great muscular weakness and, in most instances, by muscle weakness.

Most of the diseases are due to disease in the spinal cord, the muscle condition being secondary. Knowing this, physicians have been disposed to say, since the spinal cord condition cannot be improved, why do anything about the muscles?

The new treatment consists in improving the condition of the muscles and, in that way, interrupting the disease and increasing the patient's efficiency and comfort.

The remedies used are amino acids. These are substances akin to protein but lower in the scale. Just as molecules, once thought simple bodies, were split into atoms and the latter, once thought the simplest of bodies, have been split into still simpler bodies, so the proteins we know have been split up into some twenty simple bodies called amino acids.

A certain alkaloid, called creatine, is all important in muscle work. The new remedies for these muscle diseases have been chosen because of their relationship to creatine. They are glycine, glutamic acid, and ephedrin. They come under consideration because of Dr. Harriet Edgeworth's treatment of a severe case of myasthenia gravis with ephedrin. This led to the use of glycine in a lot of similar cases, and it led Drs. H. H. Beard and C. J. Tripoli to begin the use of glutamic acid.

They report on the treatment of only four cases, but they had so much success and their work was so well founded that we can be certain the group of remedies will be given further trial in the treatment of this group of troubles. One of this group was a case of inferiority complex of the type that is called psychopathic. Including that case in the group leads into another and a very different field in which there is a large number of cases.

The evidences of improvement Drs. Beard and Tripoli report are very great increase in creatine in the urine, great increase in muscular power and endurance, lessening of fatigue, crawling sensations in the muscles, and a sense of well being.

The point of crawling sensations in the muscles, as an evidence of improvement, is interesting. We have not understood that crawling sensations and tinglings had any significance. We have dismissed them by saying "the nerves have gone to sleep," or some similar expression meaning nothing.

Another significant point is the fact that so many of these diseases with muscle weakness and wasting start with growing pains. We have been charging those pains up to rheumatism exclusively.

RHINITIS.

W. E. I have had rhinitis for the last 35 years, since I was five years old. Is there anything that I could do or use to stop the odor that comes from my right nostril? It is so bad that I cannot keep a job any more. I use lukewarm salt water.

REPLY.

You appear to have an old case of ozena or atrophic rhinitis. Physicians treat this disease in various ways and sometimes with success. One method consists in injecting paraffin under the membrane in certain parts of the nose. Another is blowing finely powdered sugar into the nose frequently. Spraying with deodorants helps a little.

NOT HARMFUL.

Mrs. R. E. W. writes: My nine months old baby now stands up in his pen and walks around holding the rail. He wears soft soled shoes sometimes while standing, but is mostly barefoot.

1. Is this harmful?
2. Many persons [including shoe dealers] have told us he should wear hard soled shoes. Which shoes are best?

REPLY.

1. No.
2. It is best to continue as you are. You know your onions.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY HAROLD ETTLINGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID.—The elation of the Roman Catholic clergy of Spain at the knowledge that they were back on the state pay roll after a painful absence of many months has faded into keen disappointment.

The law passed April 4 over bitter republican opposition looked all right to them, but issuance of detailed figures shows that about 75 per cent of the 27,000 priests, who hope to get monthly government checks again, will not get them after all. How the lucky 25 per cent, who will not be compelled to depend on fees for masses and voluntary contributions for their livelihood, is to be chosen is a problem which functionaries of the ministries of justice and finance have not yet solved.

In the last budget of the monarchy, 1929-'30, Spain's 64 bishops and 27,000 priests received 63,772,000 pesetas—about $8,500,000 at the current rate of exchange. This included 54,547,000 pesetas in salaries and 9,225,000 pesetas for expenses. But now the restoration to the pay roll is to be achieved with only 16,500,000 pesetas—$2,800,000.

The law specifies that all priests who in 1930 received more than 2,000 pesetas [about $266] a year are to get three-fourths of their former stipend, and those earning less are to get full pay.

A study of the new deal for the clergy reveals, incidentally, that the great majority of Spanish priests have always been underpaid. Of all the priests, 20,700 lived on less than $266 a year, while the archbishop of Toledo, primate of Spain, received only $5,333 a year.

The pay roll of the diocese of Seville, only one-fourth of which can now be restored, may be taken as typical. The bishop received 37,500 pesetas a year and the dean 5,750 pesetas. Four canons received 4,750 pesetas each and 17 others 4,250 pesetas.

Twenty-two "beneficiados" were paid 2,750 pesetas each, eight chaplains of royal chapels, 3,500 pesetas each, and 422 parish priests' salaries varying between 2,500 and 1,500 pesetas a year. There were also 67 convent chaplains receiving 1,300 pesetas each and six receiving 1,500 pesetas, while 141 singers and organists received 275 pesetas, about $35 a year.

LOSS OF BAGGAGE.

Chicago, May 1.—[Friend of the Insured.]—I expect to travel some this summer between points in this country and Canada, and would like to know what kind of insurance I should carry to protect myself against loss to my baggage, which will consist of two or three trunks and suit cases?

T. E. L.

Personal effects insurance [tourist floater] would cover the kind of loss or damage you indicate. This insurance covers wearing apparel, toilet articles, in fact everything that a person would carry in the ordinary course of travel. It also covers trunks, suit cases and bags and other receptacles containing the insured's effects. All risks are covered excepting deterioration due to wear and tear, moth, vermin. In other words, should clothing be in the hands of dyers or cleaners for processing, or linen be at a laundry for washing, and damage resulted therefrom, such damage would not be covered under a personal effects policy. The protection becomes effective when the baggage is taken from the home of the insured, while being transported by any means, while in hotels or private homes, and until returned to the domicile or home of the insured. The insurance extends to and covers not only the personal effects of the named insured, but those of his wife and their unmarried children permanently residing together. The insurance company is liable only for the actual cash value of the property at the time the loss or damage occurs, with proper deduction for depreciation, and in no event to exceed what it would cost the insured to repair or replace with material of like kind and quality.

POLICE WHO CAN SHOOT STRAIGHT

Chicago, May 14.—May I congratulate you on your excellent editorial this morning in regard to the markmanship of police officers? That subject has been one of my pet peeves for a good many years and I have talked, at various times, to a great many police officers and find the city police very little interested in marksmanship and that very few of them take their pistol practice at all seriously.

Lincoln park police are quite different. All of their men have to be at least competent and effective with their pistols and they have one team which is among the best in the middle west. Since the financial difficulties of all of our Chicago taxing bodies these men have not been able to draw enough ammunition and have been hand loading their own on their own time at their own expense in order to be able to keep in practice.

Another exception is the guards at the Federal Reserve bank. Their commanding officer requires that all of his men be able to shoot effectively. Since he came to Chicago last August he has brought the standard of markmanship up to such a point that he was able to enter three teams of four men each in the matches held last week at the Navy pier.

Here's hoping that you keep on with the good work of poking up those who neglect shooting and give encouragement to those officers who are training their men properly.

MORRISON WORTHINGTON.

THE FIRST BRICKMAKERS' UNION.

Chicago, May 15.—In the early 'seventies or thereabouts, a man by the name of Patrick William Carey is said to have organized the first brickmakers' union in Chicago in the back of the yards district. It is said to have grown in a comparatively few years to a membership of upwards of thirty thousand, and Carey, the first president, continued in that position for some years. I would like to verify these facts and get further details of the old organization and Carey's connection with it. It was affiliated in those days with the old Knights of Labor. Inquiries at the Chicago Federation and inquiries made to the headquarters of the national organization failed to elicit any information. Their records prior to 1890 seem to be decidedly nebulous.

Any data your readers can give me will be highly appreciated. H. V.

MEASLES.

Chicago, May 13.—It seems a shame that if one child in the neighborhood gets measles all of them have to get them. The main cause for this seems to be the negligence of the physicians in reporting these cases.

A FRANTIC MOTHER.

SPEAKING OF GROCERIES.

Chicago, May 15.—The editorial today headed "Speaking of Groceries" indicates that the writer thereof does not know his groceries, as the chain store April figures indicate a condition entirely different from that assumed to be the case by the editorial writer.

It is true that prices have risen as indicated by the dollar sales report of the largest grocery chain, but one year ago the prices at which groceries were selling on an average in the chain stores represented a return to the producer or processor in most cases below the cost of production. Such prices were rapidly lowering the standard of living of the producers to the vanishing point, and having their repercussion in abandoned farms, closed factories, and lengthening bread lines. Your editorial writer would be better informed as to the standard of living if he questioned average citizens, and himself, as to whether or not they were consuming less groceries than they did a year or so ago.

The figures you cite merely indicate that the independent retailer, the small individual store owner, who was rapidly being driven to the wall, is now doing more business than before the advent of the NRA and the New Deal, and is now in position to compete with the large chain outfits on an equal basis. The tonnage decrease in the chain business will undoubtedly be reflected in the well known increase in tonnage in business of the independent stores.

W. P. COONEY.

Chicago, May 15.—If more money is going to the grocers for less tonnage of things they sell, it does not follow as night does day that that money is buying less food. Mere weight in tons of grocery store merchandise is no measure of food and nutriment. Calories and vitamins and nutrition are not a matter of how many tons can be stowed in human stomachs in a month.

Let's ask Dr. Evans whether I'll fare better on 10 pounds of potatoes, macaroni and flour, or on an 8 pound larder of light cereals, green vegetables, whole wheat bread, fresh fruits and such, and your own gracious Mary Meade which might make the more pleasing menu. True, the latter and the lighter load may cost a little more, but if my new job allows me to pay the grocer a little more for real food than relief paid him for me on larger tonnage last April, who is losing on this deal? Surely not the grocer nor the editor who was taxed to pay for some of that greater tonnage.

G. O. P. SENATORS PUSH HOT ATTACK ON BARGAIN TARIF

"Invalid, Blind Gamble," Vandenberg Says.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—Senate Republicans continued today their attack upon the administration's trade bargaining tarif bill, with Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg as the principal opposition spokesman.

The Michigan Republican denounced the proposal to vest the President with power to lower and raise tarifs and negotiate trade agreements as a policy that "fitted snugly into a Fascist pattern." It was a policy, the senator pointed out, as violative, in its method, of the traditional Democratic tarif attitude as it was, in its sought after results, of the Republican theory of protection.

"How can the President's party follow him into this larger and almost unlimited policy of tarif flexibility when it so violently condemned the lesser power sought by a Republican President only five years ago?" Senator Vandenberg demanded.

Basis of Opposition.

He summarized his opposition to the bill as follows:

"It demands a delegation of congressional taxing power and senate treaty making power which is without color of constitutionality; it would clothe the executive with unchecked authority to rule or ruin industrial and agricultural commodities, and the citizens and communities which may be dependent upon them for existence; it emphasizes exports at the expense of the preservation of home markets for home production; since we have 'most favored nation' treaties with 29 countries to all of whom we must grant any tarif favors granted to any one of them, we must multiply our tarif gifts by 29 each time we get one concession in return."

"This program," the senator continued, "cannot possibly improve our recovery situation, but is calculated seriously to impair it, because it runs in exactly the opposite direction from the NRA and the AAA, which automatically increase domestic production costs and therefore require higher, rather than lower, tarifs in order to succeed.

Gambling With 90 Billions.

"This scheme invites international complications of the precise type which we have scrupulously avoided for 140 years, because it leans toward trade alliances which make for international blocs, hatreds, and reprisals. The proposal is calculated to be the most autocratic of all the President's progressively accumulating dictatorial powers.

"It is a blind speculation in which we hand the President 90 billion dollars worth of blue chips—that being the normal value of our domestic markets—with which to gamble away our American birthright, hoping against hope that we may win, but fearing against well grounded fear that we shall lose, as usual."

Three new amendments to the tarif bill were proposed during the day. A Democratic amendment by Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts, would require ten days' notice to be given before any tarif agreement was consummated.

Many Join in Criticism.

Amendments by Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.] would exempt from the terms of the bill all American agricultural and horticultural products except apples, and would require the consent of both houses of congress before a trade agreement was concluded.

Numerous other Republicans joined in the criticism of the bill, among them Senators Jesse H. Metcalf of Rhode Island, Simeon D. Fess of Ohio, and James J. Davis of Pennsylvania. Democrats said little.

Senator Metcalf declared that after being forced to sanction "such strange and dangerous economic experiments as we have received from the brain trusters" congress was now being asked to endorse the "gravest measure of all."

SEEK SPEEDY O. K. OF U. S. ON REVISED SEWAGE PROGRAM

Plans to hasten construction of the $21,000,000 west-southwest sewage treatment works were completed by sanitary district officials yesterday after representatives of the states of Ohio, Michigan, Minnesota, and Wisconsin, which are interested in Lake Michigan diversion, approved government revisions of the construction program.

Lawrence Fenlon of the district legal staf and Joseph B. Fleming, special counsel, will go to Washington next week to petition the United States Supreme court to approve the revised plan.

Philip Harrington, district chief engineer, said yesterday that his staf will immediately begin to complete detailed plans for the construction and that work providing jobs for 5,000 men for two and one-half years will be started early in the fall if the court ruling is favorable.

Others attending the conference yesterday were Lloyd H. Landau, Public Works administration attorney in Washington; representatives of the Illinois attorney general's office, local PWA and sanitary district officials, and Senator James Hamilton Lewis.

Mr. Harrington pointed out that any delay in the court would defeat the purpose of the project, which is to reduce Lake Michigan diversion to 1,500 cubic feet a second by 1939.

Prospective Pupil Is Born in School Board's Offices

Mrs. P. F. Zelney, 23 years old, 3426 North Lowell street, was visiting friends at the offices of the board of education at 228 North La Salle street late yesterday afternoon when she became ill. She was taken to the quarters of Matron Matilda Wilson and ten minutes later became the mother of a ten pound boy baby. Dr. Roy W. Klaus and Mrs. Zelney's husband, a motorcyclist for a package delivering agency, were summoned, but the baby was born before either arrived. Mrs. Zelney and her son were taken to the Henrotin hospital, where they were reported "doing well."

FOUR ELECTION OFFICIALS GET 60 DAY TERMS

Four election officials were sentenced to terms of sixty days each in the county jail by Judge Win G. Knoch in the County court yesterday, after being found guilty of making false canvass of votes in the election of Nov. 8, 1932.

They are Thelma Goldman, 4831 North Avers avenue, Republican judge; Benjamin E. Schwartz, 4837 North Avers avenue, Democratic judge; Herman Brown, 4815 North Springfield avenue, Republican judge, and Harry Schwed, 4817 North Springfield avenue, Republican clerk.

A fifth defendant, Miss Olga Boyad, 4848 North Springfield avenue, a Democratic clerk, was dismissed at the request of Attorney John F. Cashen, representing the board of election commissioners.

KILLS SELF IN HOME.

Alfonso Dematteo, 55 years old, 384 Kensington avenue, shot and killed himself in the bedroom of his home early yesterday while apparently despondent over ill health.

FAIR'S PAGEANT OF TRAVEL TO BE FINER THAN EVER

'Wings of Century' Greatly Enhanced This Year.

BY EARL MULLIN.

The Wings of A Century, which last year proved to be one of the most popular of all the spectacles at the Fair, has made preparations this year to present performances much more comprehensive and picturesque than those of last year, which earned the admiration of thousands. The show, probably one of the most authentic in its revelation of subject and elaborate as to cast and cost of production ever given in America, is operated by the Fair itself and all profits derived from the operation will be used to retire bonds of the Fair which remain outstanding.

The enlarged and supplemented version of the Pageant of Transportation, enhanced by an augmented cast and additional scenes, will be given in the same lakeside theater as last year—opposite the Travel and Transport building. The episodes in the history of the American transportation have been enlarged, and scenes historically important which were not presented last year because of the lack of rolling stock, will be featured this year.

Historic Southland Scenes.

One of the new scenes is called "The Mississippi at Mardi Gras time" and presents southland water scenes with "King Cotton" on his traditional throne. The civil war era is to be presented much more fully this year than ever before on a dramatic stage—one scene showing Union soldiers embarking from a train with confederate sharpshooters sniping at them from the underbrush.

The pageant depicts the history of transportation from the days of the ox cart to the gigantic transports—air, water, rail—of today. A majority of the rolling stock is authentic, being borrowed from museums, from railroads and from the personal museums of automobile firms. Impersonations of many famous characters of history, emphasizing those who had influence on transportation, will be features of the show.

Use Historic Locomotives.

As announced yesterday by Fair officials, the production will include the De Witt Clinton, first locomotive of the line that was to become the New York Central; the Thomas Jefferson of 1836, the Pioneer of 1851, the Minnetonka, first locomotive of the Northern Pacific in 1839, and many other famous engines.

The trains will steam across the stage under their own power, with characters dressed in costumes typical of the time. The climax of the presentation, during which sailing ships, horse drawn vehicles, and modern automobiles will operate on the stage, will be the appearance of a dirigible and a modern airplane overhead.

Schools' Day Is May 31.

Schools' day at the Fair will be Thursday, May 31, instead of Friday, June 1, William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, announced yesterday. The celebration will follow Memorial day, May 30, so that children may have a two day holiday, Mr. Bogan said.

Gen. Italo Balbo, who led the Italian air armada to Chicago as one of the features of the 1933 Fair, will visit the Fair again this year.

The visit of the Italian ace, to be made as a private citizen and not as a representative of the government, was announced yesterday by Italo Pellegrini, director of the Italian restaurant adjoining the governmental exhibit. Gen. Balbo will be the guest of Mr. Pellegrini.

Sailing dates of Great Lakes steamers, anticipating an increased summer trafic, have been moved forward three weeks, officials of the Chicago, Duluth and Georgian Bay Transit company announced yesterday. The first group of tourists will arrive on the South American on a special World's Fair tour on June 19, from Cleveland and Detroit. Five hundred passengers are expected to make the trip. They will use the boat as a hotel, spending two days in Chicago.

ATLANTIC FLYERS ARE RECEIVED BY IRISH PRESIDENT

DUBLIN, May 18.—(AP)—Capt. George Pond and Lieut. Cesare Sabelli, trans-Atlantic flyers, were received formally today by President de Valera.

"Your flight is further proof," De Valera said, "that in the future Ireland will be an important air link between Europe and the United States."

The two flyers, forced to delay their journey to Rome, original objective of the flight, while repairs were made on their monoplane, were guests today of the Irish air force at Baldonnel airdrome. Crowds on the streets cheered Pond and Sabelli.

Martin Leads Democratic Race for Oregon Governor

Portland, Ore., May 18.—(AP)—Congressman Charles H. Martin took a lead over Willis E. Mahoney, Klamath Falls mayor, in the race for the Democratic nomination for governor as returns rolled in from today's state-wide primary election.

State Senator Joe E. Dunne, Portland, was well ahead of the field for the Republican nomination as governor.

With 77 precincts counted out of 1,649, Martin, a retired major general, had 1,905 votes and Mahoney had 1,403.

Dunne was increasing his lead for the Republican nomination for the governorship with 1,725 votes, while State Treasurer Rufus C. Holman was second with 1,247.

Given 10 Years as Robber, Gets New Trial, 25 Years

Springfield, Mo., May 18.—[Special.]—Paul "Blackie" Bagby, a former "liquor runner" for the Capone syndicate, tonight was sentenced by a jury at Marshfield to 25 years in prison for robbing the Long Lane bank. Some jurors for a time held out for a 99-year term. Bagby was convicted on the same charge several months ago and was sentenced to ten years in prison. He demanded a new trial, got it, and a 25 year sentence.

New Trafic Rules for Fair to Become Effective Today

BY HAL FOUST.

The trafic plan for A Century of Progress will be inaugurated today to give Chicago drivers a week in which to become familiar with the new regulations before the Fair opens next Saturday.

A minimum speed limit of 35 miles an hour will be established on the drives paralleling the Fair grounds—the first attempt at such regulation in Chicago. Signs will advise motorists not to loiter at a slower pace and motorcycle police will warn the "loafers."

No Excuse for Zigzagging.

"This minimum speed limit," said Otto Jelinek, south park trafic engineer, "does not mean that a driver should cut in and out of lanes to forge ahead when there is congestion that holds lines of trafic to less than 35 miles an hour. It does mean, however, that a driver should step along at not less than 35 miles an hour when his lane ahead is clear."

Another main feature of A Century of Progress trafic plan calls for a rerouting of vehicular movements in Grant park north of Roosevelt road. Northbound trafic will be sent east in Roosevelt road and will have the exclusive use of the outer drive. The inner drive will be used exclusively by southbound trafic.

Between Grant park and Michigan avenue, Monroe and Jackson streets will be used exclusively for north and west bound trafic, while Congress and 7th streets will be for southbound only.

Verify "L" Highway Needs.

Yesterday, on the eve of the new trafic plan, the Chicago Motor club took this last opportunity before late autumn to test the comparative running times to the downtown business district under normal conditions from the south, the west, and the north sides. The test was a verification of the west side's claims, in its appeals for an elevated highway.

The test was timely in view of the fact that it was made a few days after Gov. Horner attempted to evade the responsibility of naming the route and design for a west side super-highway. The city council has not as yet accepted the governor's suggestion that the aldermen should name the route and design.

A stop-watch showed that the north sider travels to the loop at an average speed of 29.4 miles an hour as compared with the south sider's 37 miles an hour, and as contrasted with the west sider's 21 miles an hour in Jackson boulevard, or 23.2 miles an hour in Washington boulevard.

Specific Check on Routes.

The north side run was started in the outer drive at Foster avenue. Trafic moved about 45 miles an hour to Lake Shore drive and then proceeded at between 35 and 40 miles an hour to Melrose street where, again on the outer drive, the pace again stepped up to 45 miles an hour. There were three stops for red lights before the river bridge was reached with the odometer reading 6.1 miles and the stop-watch recording 12 minutes and 31 seconds.

The south side run was made from the Jackson park lagoon. Trafic moved at 40 and 45 miles on hour. Brakes were applied two or three times, to let a bather cross and to dodge a car making a wide swing for a left turn. There was one stop, for cross trafic, in Grant park. The Monroe street viaduct over the Illinois Central tracks was reached in 13 minutes for the distance of eight miles.

West Side Runs Slower.

The west side runs, as indicated by the stop-watch reports, were much slower—and, what the distance and time records do not show, were a series of starts and stops punctuated with thrills furnished by an occasional truck's ducking into a boulevard from a side street or a mother running across the thoroughfare with a baby buggy.

In narrow Jackson boulevard, top speeds of 35 and 37 miles an hour were reached in dashes between red lights that represented the average flow of trafic. But the overall average from Kilpatrick avenue to the river was but 21 miles an hour for the 5.5 miles.

The conditions in Washington boulevard were practically the same. From Austin avenue to Wood street, 5.2 miles, the average was 24.8 miles an hour. East from Sheldon street, after a detour of .8 of a mile that took three minutes, the boulevard average was 18.8 miles an hour for the 1.3 miles to the river.

ALDERMEN PICK 19 STREETS FOR PAVING IN 1934

Plan to Use $1,800,000 from "Gas" Tax.

A program for the expenditure of $1,800,000 on Chicago's streets this year was approved yesterday by a joint city council subcommittee representing the committee on finance and on trafic and safety. It calls for paving on 19 thoroughfares.

The $1,800,000 represents all that will be available for street work in 1934 from the city's $5,000,000 a year share of the gasoline tax. Diversions for school teachers' back pay took $1,800,000. The council pledged $1,200,000 for the proposed North Ashland avenue bridge and $200,000 was allocated to the board of local improvements.

The street paving jobs approved by the council subcommittee, with approximate costs where estimates have been prepared, are as follows:

ANTHONY-AV.—Jeffery-av. to Crandon-av., $65,000.
ARMITAGE-AV.—Ashland-av. to Wood-st., $35,000.
BRYN MAWR-AV.—Avondale-av. to C. & N. W. tracks, $1,082.
CHICAGO-AV.—Western-av. to Cicero-av.
ELSTON-AV.—Belmont-av. to Lawrence-av.
ERIE-ST.—Chicago river to Orleans-st., $93,000.
EWING-AV.—95th-st. to 83d-st., $243,000.
FRANKLIN-ST.—Harrison-st. to Lake-st., $75,000.
GETTYSBURG-ST. [south half]—Milwaukee-av. to Lovejoy-av., $19,751.
HARRISON-ST.—State-st. to Ogden-av., $370,000.
LARAMIE-AV.—Roosevelt-rd. to Polk-st.
LAWRENCE-AV.—Western-av. to Chicago river, $60,000.
NORTH-AV.—Crawford-av. to Western-av., $260,000.
119TH-ST.—Wentworth-av. to Halsted-st.
STATE-ST.—111th-st. to Archer-av., $150,000.
SOUTH PARK-AV.—67th-st. to 60th-st., $110,000.
TORRENCE-AV.—Bridge near 124th-st., $50,000.
VINCENNES-AV.—95th-st. to 107th-st., $140,000; 86th-st. to 90-st.
WESTERN-AV.—56th-st. to 71st-st., $180,000; Foster-av. to Lawrence-av., $40,000.

The council must adopt a program and this program must be approved by the state highway department before any of the city's share of the gasoline tax is available for expenditure.

EXPLORERS FIND LAKE IN CRATER OF ICE VOLCANO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, May 18.—Dr. Neils Nielsen, the Danish explorer, and the Icelandic geologist, Askelrson, leaders of the expedition to the famous Vatna Joekull volcano, arrived in Reykjavik today after spending ten days at the volcano-glacier.

The explorers reported they had discovered a crater 1,640 feet in diameter in the center of the usually ice covered valley of the glacier. The crater contains a lake surrounding an island—the scene of eruptions. Periodically the valley is covered with ice and snow, but when volcanic activity begins the snow and ice melts underneath, causing heavy floods.

Prior to the main eruptions, the explorers said, big cracks form in the glacier, through which water flows. At the Skeidarar river region, Dr. Nielsen reported he found several blocks of ice as high as 492 feet which had broken from the glacier.

COUGHLIN PUTS IN A WEEK AT HEALTH FARM

Garrison, N. Y., May 18.—(AP)—The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin of Detroit planned to leave tonight for Wisconsin after a week at Bill Brown's health farm.

The priest took the regular course of exercises prescribed by Brown, who is one of New York state's boxing commissioners.

"He's a fine handball player," Brown commented. "Yesterday he won from Bob Harris of San Antonio, Tex., another of my guests, who is one of the best handball players in his state."

Today Father Coughlin went hiking, Brown said he spent his evenings talking over with the others what they had done during the day.

MUNDY SINGERS TO OPEN CONCERTS AT WORLD FAIR MAY 27

The Mundy Jubilee Singers, with James A. Mundy conducing, will open a second summer series of bi-weekly concerts at A Century of Progress beginning Sunday evening, May 27, from the stage of the Lagoon theater. The second program is scheduled for May 30. Due to the popularity of the 1933 Fair concerts of the Mundy singers the management has given the group a contract effective until Oct. 31.

Among the stars in the choral group are John Burdette, who won fame singing "Old Man River" in THE TRIBUNE'S Chicagoland Music Festival; Claire Malone and Mildred Amos, sopranos; Fred Hudson, tenor, and Cleo Dickerson Ball, accompanist.

Some of the numbers to be featured by Mr. Mundy this summer will be "Wagon Wheels," "Way Down South," "Mary and Martha," and "On That Great Gittin' Up Mornin'." Spirituals will predominate in the programs.

MARINE CORPS TO ENLIST 300 RECRUITS HERE

The recruiting station of the marine corps in Chicago will enlist 300 men during June, July and August as part of the recently authorized program to increase the strength of the corps by 1,000, it was announced yesterday.

Quartermaster Sergeant Richard J. Stone, who recruited men in Chicago in 1917 and was wounded a year later in France, has been transferred from the 24th marine reserve regiment for recruiting duty here. He will have headquarters in room 824, postoffice building.

Applicants, he said, must be between 18 and 25 years of age, must be between 5 feet 8 inches and 6 feet 2 inches tall, must be high school graduates and must furnish references of good character.

QUAKE OPENS UP BURIED LAKE; CAUSES FLOOD

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, May 18.—(AP)—A flood attributed to the release of subterranean waters by an earthquake today covered agricultural land about the city of Gracias.

A slight earthquake rocked Gracias last night and at the same time there was a short rainstorm. In a few hours the river Arcagual rose over its banks, causing extensive material damage. Two bridges were destroyed and trafic through Gracias and La Esperanza was interrupted.

Residents said the brief rainstorm could not have brought so great a volume of water and they believed the quake opened some unknown natural reservoir.

City and South Park Board Lease Fair Parking Space

The city and the south park board have leased adjacent properties under the 23d street viaduct leading to A Century of Progress for use as a parking space during the Fair. The park lease is to Ald. John J. Coughlin [1st], who had the same lease last year, while the city lease is to Arthur Haggenjos, an associate of the alderman. The joint rental, Ald. Coughlin said, amounts to $80 a month for space in which 200 cars can be parked.

Clerk Slashed With Knife In Clark St. Tavern Brawl

Joseph Lankford, 27 years old, 62 West Huron street, a clerk, was slashed with a knife early today during a brawl with an unidentified man in front of the Grand tavern, 537 North Clark street. Norbert Naumes, 1716 Thome street, owner of the saloon, said the two men had been drinking together and that after a dispute they went outside and fought. Lankford was cut in the throat and on the left hand. His condition is critical.

SATURDAY NEWS OF NEW BOOKS

So You Must Relax; Some of These May Help

Books in Lighter Mood Are Reviewed Today.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"You Must Relax," by Edmund Jacobson, M. D. [Whittlesey House], seems to me to have been written especially for you and me. Even people who are self-collected enough to read book reviews have, I'd wager a pound to a shilling, nerves all tied up in Gordian knots. We all nowadays seem to be jumping jacks or jonnies. Dr. Jacobson of the University of Chicago, doing the most delicate of recording of the degrees of relaxation and tension in human nerves and muscles, has written this popular exposition of the importance of relaxation.

What we all need, according to this authority, is not more rest but more relaxation, and relaxation is a definite and complete negation of nervous tenseness. It's an extremely interesting little book, destined, so those who know about such things say, to take its place beside "Life Begins at Forty."

If everybody is going to read "You Must Relax" and discover that the word relaxation no longer means mere restful amusement, before the word goes out of our vocabulary let us use it about some of the books of the day.

Wodehouse Writes It Again.

Of "Thank You, Jeeves," by P. G. Wodehouse [Little-Brown], for instance. Mr. Wodehouse has written more times than I remember the same tale about the good-hearted but goofy young Englishman with more money than brains, his superior "man," and a series of impossible and hilarious situations in a (slanguage) language which is by Broadway out of Bond street. But to those who find it to their taste it's the sweetest story ever told, Wodehouse's Old Sweet Song. I am one of those who get a thorough laughing jag on Wodehouse and the more utterly absurd he is the better, say I. He's utterly utter in "Thank You, Jeeves."

Anne Green Gay as Usual.

Anne Green is another author who manages always to turn gayety onto any situation and whose novels (usually) require the merest spot of an effort to read. In her latest, "Fools Rush In" [Dutton], the situation of Eleanor Rockwell—born thoroughly southern and congenial and charmingly useless—is not what might be called brilliant as she finds herself stranded and alone in Paris when her mother dies on the grand tour which is supposed to "finish" Eleanor. That it doesn't in actual fact finish her is the theme of a gay tale . . . not Anne Green's best, but an amusing addition to her already well filled gallery of portraits of American expatriates.

Gay Trifle by Helen Ashton.

Helen Ashton, who has been rather on the serious side in her previous novels, "Dr. Serocold," "Belinda Grove," etc., has written in "Family Cruise" [Doubleday-Doran] a gay trifle. It is the story of a determined mother who thinks that a three weeks' Easter cruise of the Mediterranean is just the thing for her husband, who needs a rest; Fanny, their youngest daughter, who is too serious about a young man whose eligibility is not obvious, and her eldest daughter, who shows signs of restiveness in her marriage. What happens to all four of the Delameres is, though amusing, less laughter provoking than what happens to the boatload of passionate pilgrims who are determined to get their money's worth out of their sightseing.

Entertainment Without Effort.

"A Feather in Her Hat" [Doubleday-Doran], by another well known English woman, I. A. R. Wylie, is likewise waranted to be entertainment without effort. Every person in it is a "character"—from Clarissa Phipps, the incredible old woman with a comic feather in her hat who had "raised up" Richard as her son and a very ex-ex-gentleman as her husband, to the greatest Juliet of her day, who was, though it was not set down in public documents, the mother of the young shoe copper-haired salesman. Everybody is a somebody in his own right and everything is gay and delightful and all the little birds sing tweet tweet . . . and you ENJOY yourself reading about the song of spring in London.

"Road Show" Easy Going.

Likewise you'd have a hard time getting all tense and strained over "Road Show" [Little-Brown], by Eric Hatch. With an ease which resembles the magician's when he sticks in his thumb and pulls out a rabbit Mr. Hatch tells the story of two solid citizens, Col. Carlton Carraway, whose family had him placed in a sanitarium because he thought it was nice to sit in his garden dressed only in a pair of shorts, and Drogo Gaines, victim of a nervous breakdown in Wall street.

Drogo smuggles the colonel out of their joint asylum and together they become members of a carnival troupe. The ensuing hilarity is constant and comforting in a day when the crutch is the norm of funniness.

Here's Streamlined Youth.

"Stag Line" [Little-Brown] is another sure-fire laugh if eighteen is an age and not a state of mind to you. Graeme and Sarah Lorimer have again, as they did in "Men Are Like Street Cars," set down the thoughts and actions of Maudie, who is as up to the minute as the magazine which Graeme Lorimer's father edits, a Saturday compendium which is officially on sale on Thursday. Maudie is youth—1934 streamline model, who gets where she is going with speed AND comfort.

She's a nice little girl (who wouldn't know how to be flaming if she wanted to) who feels that she "has a deadly power over men." How she exercises it is told in nine episodes in the ultra-modern American language.

More of "Tugboat Annie."

Another collection of episodes which build up a "character" are the eleven in "Tugboat Annie" [Minton-Balch], by Norman Reilly Raine. Annie is so well known now on the screen that her special blend of pathos and guffaws is almost a formula. The mixture in this collection is never below the legal humor content.

Tutt Is Up to Standard.

Tutt of "Tutt for Tutt" [Scribners], Arthur Train's permanent leading man, is likewise up to par and to his old tricks in the volume which contains ten episodes in 323 nontiring pages.

If "you must relax" in your reading try these eight helps.

Tells Cruiser Every Fact He Needs to Know

Publish All Short Works of D. H. Lawrence.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—A new "cruising" edition has just been published by Dents of a book called "Shipshape," which will be of interest to all who take the now fashionable cruises in large steamships and see the world at their ease. The book contains a preface by H. M. Tomlinson, and deals with everything on board, from deck games to tips, engines to rat guards.

It is excellently clear in style and, although not the only book of its type in existence, is by far the best yet to appear in England. It comes at an appropriate moment.

Another new edition of even greater interest is the omnibus volume of D. H. Lawrence's short stories and novelettes published by Secker. In this book, arranged in chronological order of publication, may be found all (it seems that there may be one or two accidental omissions of minor and uncollected tales) of Lawrence's shorter fiction, including "The Ladybird," "The Virgin and the Gypsy," and "The Man Who Died."

A really important book, for, while it must be said that Lawrence in his novels at times had long passages of less than his best work, in the shorter tales he is almost always at his most powerful and most original. This omnibus volume, therefore, is destined to play a great part in defining the place which Lawrence will ultimately hold in general esteem.

At the present time, while interest in Lawrence remains very considerable, enthusiasm for him has been affected by the flood of reminiscence and fervid praise of his Messianic qualities.

Reviewers, condemned to bathe in the flood, willy nilly, have longed for some dry land. Here it is, an impregnable rock upon which the Lawrentians can take their stand. I shall be surprised if, in the long run, this is not one of the best selling books of the English year.

Best-selling books continue to be found largely in the field of nonfiction. The public appetite is rather for information, and so biographies and works on economics are in demand. In the former class, and for man and as an able monarch.

Among the New Books

FICTION.

Indeed This Flesh, by Grace Flandrau [Smith & Haas], is a serious emotional study of an ordinary man's life.

The Great One, by Henry Part [Day], tells of a man who always had everything he wanted until he was defeated at a political election.

Karen's Destiny, by Harriet T. Comstock [Doubleday-Doran], is about a young couple separated during the earthquake in San Francisco and united too late.

Company Parade, by Storm Jameson [Knopf], depicts post-war London.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

The Life of Our Lord, by Charles Dickens [Simon & Schuster], is published now for the first time. Dickens wrote it for his children.

Escape from the Soviets, by Tatiana Tchernavin [Dutton], gives the personal experiences of the author.

Saints of Chaos, by Peter Oliver [Payson], contains short studies of Luther, Galileo, Beethoven, Watt, and Hobbes.

POETRY.

The Sinning Heart, by Clinton Scollard [Macmillan], is a collection of the poet's outstanding poems edited with a memoir by Jessie B. Rittenhouse.

Poetry by Louis Untermeyer and Carter Davidson [Harcourt-Brace] is an anthology with critical chapters on the appreciation of poetry.

NONFICTION.

High Command in the World War, by William Dilworth Puleston [Scribner's], is a critical study of the grand strategy of the war.

News Stories of 1933, edited by Frank Luther Mott [Clio], is a collection of representative news and feature stories from American newspapers.

What to Do About Wines, by E. and J. Van Maanen-Helmer [Smith & Haas], is an authoritative guide.

Our Master's Voice, by James Rorty [Day], is the story of advertising.

Exploring the Upper Atmosphere, by Dorothy Fisk [Oxford], gives an account of recent adventures and discoveries in the stratosphere.

"Old Rowley" Sheds Light on Private Life of Charles II.

"Old Rowley," by Dennis Wheatley [Dutton], sheds a sharp light on the private life of a king upon whose bedchamber door there was tacked up the famous quatrain:

> Here lies our sovereign lord the king,
> Whose promise none relies on;
> He never says a foolish thing
> Nor ever does a wise one.

Charles II. was the most rip-roistering of all of them in a day when Cromwell and the Puritans had been shaken off in an abandon of reaction against prohibitions. Mr. Wheatley does not gloss over any of the ruinous ravages of the royal roue, but he also sees his hero as a shrewd

Junior League Reherses for Play at Fair

Loft on No. Wabash Used by 'Aladdin' Cast.

BY JUDITH CASS.

ONE of the busiest places in town these days is a loft on North Wabash avenue where those energetic Junior leaguers who are in the cast of "Aladdin" are rehersing so as to be ready to give their first performance in the Children's theater on the Enchanted Island next Saturday morning at 11 o'clock. Edison Rice is directing the production and when his amateur actresses fill one corner of the loft with cigaret butts the scene of action is moved to another part of the loft, which, luckily, is a huge one.

The revolving stage in the theater will be ready for rehersals next Thursday, so the girls have tried to figure things so that there will be enough clear floor space in the loft for rehersing until then. "Aladdin" will be given four or five times a day on Saturdays and Sundays for the first two weeks of the Fair, or until school is out, and then the league performances will be on three days in the middle of each week.

"Aladdin" will be given through June, and in July "Red Riding Hood" will be the attraction. During August and September the league actresses will have a vacation and in October "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" will be presented.

Praise Acting Skill of Mrs. Winterbotham.

It always is difficult for children to understand that characters on the stage are only make believe, so some of the youngsters who fell in love with Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr. as Peter Pan at the Fair last year probably will have trouble in understanding how she can be Aladdin this year. Her sister actresses tell us, however, that she is just as attractive as the slender young lad who acquired fortune and a princess by rubbing a magic lamp as she was as the wistful little boy who never grew up; so her youthful audiences probably will squeal with joy as loudly this year as they did last.

Not the least of the many things about "Aladdin" that will delight the children will be the almost unpronounceable names of some of the characters. The golden haired princess, played by Miss Evelyn Bouscaren, is Badrouldadour and her slave [Mrs. Robert M. Hoffman Jr.] is Gullanar. Aladdin's mother [Miss Margaret Quan] is Zobieda and his aunt [Miss Virginia Hobart] is Tunksh. Mrs. Richard Gambrill Jr. will be Uncle Abdullah and Miss Frances Weary will portray the Genli.

Miss Catharine Noyes will be the Sultan; Miss Barbara Graf, the Vizier, and Mrs. James Hume, Mrs. Stephen Harrington, Mrs. Harding Wilbur, Miss Chloe Watson and Miss Helen Johnson slaves and street characters. Mrs. Donald La Chance will be a magician when the magician isn't performing tricks, but when he is, a real magician will take the part.

Tell Engagement of Miss Fowler.

Announcement is being made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lambert Fowler of Winnetka of the engagement of their daughter, Georgiana, to Robert Henry Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Glenn Taylor of Kent, O. Miss Fowler attended the Mary institute in St. Louis, where the Fowlers formerly lived, and was graduated from Ogontz in 1930. Mr. Taylor is a graduate of the school of commerce at Northwestern university and is a member of Phi Kappa Sigma. The wedding is planned for mid-July.

Mr. and Mrs. Fowler and Miss Fowler left yesterday for Philadelphia to attend the commencement exercises at Ogontz where the younger daughter, Mary, is being graduated this year.

From Tryon, N. C., where Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Little of Evanston have been spending the winter, comes the announcement of the marriage yesterday in New York of Miss Alta Randles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Delbert Randles of Ogdensburg, N. Y., to the Littles' son, Charles Joseph Little of New York.

It is a bit indefinite when the senior Mr. and Mrs. Little and their daughter, Miss Myra Little, will return to Evanston, for Miss Little will join her parents when Bryn Mawr closes and remain there until the end of June, and after that they may go farther north than Evanston to spend the warm weather months.

Girls' Latin School Alumnae Meet Today.

The alumnæ of the Girls' Latin school are meeting for their annual spring luncheon and election of officers today at the Ambassador hotel. Several members of the faculty and of the senior class as well as the alumnæ will be present. Miss Susan Wegener is president of the alumnæ association, and among the other officers are Mrs. William J. Lawlor Jr., Miss Josephine Wilkins, Miss Betty Blair, and Mrs. Frank Mayer.

About twenty-five young girls, most of them schoolmates of the hostess at the Chicago Latin School for Girls, will attend a party Mr. and Mrs. George E. Fox will give this afternoon at the Drake for their daughter, Carol.

In spite of the fact that Evanston is a "dry" community, there are to be several cocktail parties tonight before the Evanston Junior league dinner dance at the Edgewater Beach hotel, chief among them being the one that Mrs. Joseph Moller [Ellen Dryden] and Miss Helen Chapman are giving in the Mollers' home, to which 60 young people have been invited.

Mrs. William Stahl, who is to take part in a specialty dance later in the evening at the 10:30 o'clock Junior

Good Morning!

A bandit! A Cinderella with a silvery voice! A snowwhite charger! Add 'em up thus:

Bandit plus Cinderella—with whom he falls in love at first sight—plus charger on which Bandit carries Cinderella away, equal—the materialization of every woman's childhood dream—that of the daring lover who will not take no for an answer, but swoops his beloved up into sinewy arms and rides away with her through the night into a future of ecstasy.

So, in romantic mood, and with a nice realization of what springtime does to the average person, "Stingaree" [from A. W. Hurnung's story] is presented—a very timely offering.

Stingaree is a bandit—the despair of the Australian police. Up to the time the story opens he has proved absolutely uncatchable—a maddening renegade who does the most unexpected things such as kidnaping a visiting nobleman and running away with the maid companion of the peculiar lady, Mrs. Clarkson, who aspires to be Sir Julian's hostess. . . .

The latter feat is inspired by altruism as well as passion. For Stingaree, musical himself, has heard lovely Hilda sing a song he has composed. She, believing him to be the dilettante Sir Julian, who has a penchant for assisting worthy beginners, has appealed to him for aid. He provides same in the most romantic and sensational fashion imaginable—sacrificing his freedom [temporarily] for the benefit of his love who—

Becomes the rage of Europe. And who is A-L-M-O-S-T a peeress when—she returns to Melbourne to sing—and looks up into the eyes of the man who had loved and ridden away with her. . .

I ask you—under such circumstances—what would ANY woman do. . . ??!!!!!!

There is a glamor about his present rôle that sits well on the abilities and person of dashing, virile Richard Dix. Women are sure to go slightly gaga over him this trip and men will like him immensely.

Irene Dunne is a lovely heroine, and, for one who makes no claim to being a professional, sings truly splendidly. Conway Tearle is pleasing as Sir Julian and Mary Boland is a Mrs. Clarkson whose musical thunder Hilda steals.

Other characterizations stand out brightly.

"Stingaree" is effectively directed, staged, and dialoged. You'll like it and will recommend it to your friends.

Lillian Dudley Bride of Philip S. Owen at New York Ceremony

New York, May 18.—[Special.]—Miss Lillian Dudley of Chicago was married this afternoon in the chantry of St. Thomas' church to Philip Stanley Owen, son of Mrs. Edward Bradley Owen of Stockbridge, Mass. Only near relatives and a few close friends were present at the ceremony which was performed by the Rev. Roelif H. Brooks, rector. A small reception followed at the Cosmopolitan club.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Raymond C. Dudley, wore a street costume of coral beige crepe, a brown straw hat and carried a boquet of African daisies and delphinium.

Miss Jeanette I. Peterkin of Chicago and Miss Ruth A. Mitchell of Buffalo were the bride's only attendants.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen will sail tomorrow for Bermuda. On their return they will make their home at New Haven, Conn., where the bridegroom is studying medicine.

Orchestra of Children Give Good Concert

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The Chicago Children's Festival orchestra should be heard by every one who desires to know what the youngsters can do in music. As a matter of fact, it was heard by an audience equal to the full capacity of Orchestra hall last night in its second annual concert.

Here were some 350 young musicians, mostly violinists, but with enough other instruments to complete the orchestra, playing away for dear life, but playing with astonishingly good intonation, with spirited tempo, with a good start to what will some day be real expression, and, best of all, having a fine time out of it.

Edwin Harris Bergh is their director and trainer. He has done wonders. One is inclined to believe that if children are taken young enough they can be trained to be quite as unbelievable instrumentally as they frequently are vocally.

There were soloists as well. Grace Helen Knudson and Martin Rubinstein played piano solos. Hazel Zalus made a distinct hit on the piano-accordion; Anne Post, contralto, sang to the accompaniment of the orchestra. At another time a children's chorus chimed in with the orchestra.

In the middle of the program there was a demonstration of the violin class, whose members have not yet arrived at orchestral honors. Here were the beginners who have had about a dozen lessons. Here were also their grave and reverend seniors, the elders who have been at it since October. They, according to Mr. Bergh, will be members of the orchestra next year. It is an orchestra well worth joining.

Ballet Theme Features Show at the Cascades

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The program of entertainment with which the Auditorium theater transformed itself last night into the world's largest and most handsome night club is copious and ambitious. Like Caesar's Gaul, it is divided into three parts, but each division is populated chiefly by eager young emulators of the Russian ballet, who will be more impressive when they are placed under the command of an expert choreographer.

Part I is composed of what the needed ballet master would call "divertissements." It contains a "Dance of the Flames," led by the good-looking Alta Warsawska, which takes the girls out on the runway among the diners for some graceful maneuvers; a "Cigarette" dance, led by the lissome Bernice Holmes, which also uses the runway for strutting "on the point;" a pair of Negro boys in ordinary tap and clog dances; and, most important, the Duncan Sisters, Rosetta and Vivian, in a burlesque on the familiar "Rigoletto" quartet.

The Dunks use shop-window dummies of the female torso for the other two parts in the quartet. Rosetta impersonates the noble hero, while Vivian flutters sweetly as the shrinking heroine. They surprise their public by singing in loud opera house voices, with excellent results. They take the long jump from the childish pipings of "Topsy and Eva" to the romantic bellowings of grand opera with skill.

Part II, following an interlude of public dancing on the stage, is a ballet pantomime in five scenes called "The Sidewalks of New York." The score is a medley of the popular songs of the 1890s and 1900s; the central characters are Al Smith, as a fish monger, who ended as a presidential candidate, and Steve Brodie, who jumped off Brooklyn bridge right into the ownership of a low down Bowery saloon, where girls actually showed their legs and danced "Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay."

This ballet employs about fifty dancers in many costumes. The backgrounds, designed by Edgar Miller, are effective fantasies in simplified stage decoration and the libretto is a good example of ballet bouffe story telling. Several of the principals are clever, but the ballet as a whole needs the organizing touch of a director. It lacks, primarily, the speed and energy of the school of dancing that it seeks to imitate with humorous intent.

Part III is called "The Cascade Nymphs, or the Midnight of a Faun." It is a parody on Nijinsky's notorious little ballet of ancient Greek decadence.

Front Views and Profiles

FRED STONE was in town yesterday on his way east and chatting with Ernest Byfield, added some particulars to the story of the incident that occurred recently in California when a party of well known individuals nearly met with serious injury on a mountain side. In the party were Irvin Cobb and his daughter, Will Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Stone, and there was an older woman along, too, the mother of one of the party. They had gone up the mountain in a wagon driven by a team of mules, and coming down, at a particularly dangerous spot the brakes broke. The wagon pushed against the mules, and the mules started galloping down the steep slope, at one side of which was a sheer drop of thousands of feet. Finally, the mules were caught by some horsemen who galloped alongside and caught up the traces. Attention was immediately turned toward the elderly woman in the party. Had she fainted? Was she all right? She was, indeed.

"This is the first bit of fun I've had since I've been in California," she announced to the solicitous ones.

All-Nations Festival Tuesday Benefits Red, White and Blue Club

More than one thousand natives of foreign countries will join their talents next Tuesday at the Medinah club to provide an all-nations art festival for the benefit of the Red, White, and Blue club, which takes care of underprivileged children of the west side.

The guests will include all of Chicago's foreign consuls, headed by the senior consul, Dr. Giuseppe Castruccio of Italy, Mayor Edward J. Kelly, Bruce W. Dickson, and Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius.

Among the society women who will represent the Red, White, and Blue club are Mrs. Joseph Coleman, Mrs. Thomas Gowenlock, Mrs. Charles K. Corsant, and Mrs. Loring Coleman.

On the program, China will be represented with a Chinese playlet performed by Chinese students of the University of Chicago. From Russia will come a Balalaika orchestra; from Africa, the Ashanti ceremonial dances; the Csardas group of Chicago will represent Hungary, while the United States will be represented with a modern American ballet.

Other participating countries: England, Germany, Holland, Italy, Rumania, France, Greece, Lithuania, Ireland, Poland, and Norway.

Old Auditorium Gets New Deal in Entertainment at Benefit

Socialites Enjoy Merry Opening of Cascades and Swell Funds of Lying-In Hospital.

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

THE old Auditorium theater, the place of amusement that has been first in the affections of all who enjoy entertainment with a cultural flavor ever since it was opened forty-five years ago, began a new deal last night with a grand and gala benefit for an institution which also is dear to the hearts of many who have contributed to the cultural and physical development of the city.

Between eight and nine thousand dollars is the sum Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, co-chairman with Mrs. Ernst Freund of the benefit, estimated last night would be cleared for the Chicago Lying-In hospital and dispensary by the opening of The Cascades in the Auditorium and the sum may run into five figures. A restaurant theater is the way Andrew Reborl describes his new venture.

It was a beautiful picture when the curtain on the great stage went up last night and displayed to view the waterfalls from which the place gets its name. Every seat at the tables in the boxes and on the terraced main floor was occupied and it wasn't long after the first intrepid couple had marched up onto the stage to dance before the floor was crowded. The dim lights, the flashing water and the whirling dancers combined to make it a scene of unforgetable loveliness.

The dinner show opened with the presentation of the colors by soldiers and sailors and the playing of the national anthem, but it was the first view of the cascades that really intrigued the audience and gave one the atmosphere and charm of the place.

Gala Party Despite Some Handicaps.

Dining in boxes where for so many years socialites sat to hear grand opera wasn't an unmitigated pleasure last night, but every one was in a gala mood that no one minded such slight inconveniences as one had to experience in such a new and such a crowded restaurant.

The bars—we couldn't count them, there were so many of them—were surrounded four and five deep most of the evening and amateur as well as professional waiters stumbled up and down stairs carrying liquid refreshments to their thirsty table companions.

Some there were, too, who went up to the balcony foyer to take advantage of the buffet service there and brought sandwiches downstairs to their dinner partners, not wanting to wait for the filets mignons that were being served on the regular dinner. Edward F. Swift was one of those who took several trips upstairs to supply their parties with club sandwiches.

Perhaps we should explain that the reason the waiters stumbled was because so often the lights were dimmed during the time the stage program was being given.

Every feminine member of the assemblage had on her very newest and best summer evening gown and consequently the parade of fashion was well worth seeing. Mrs. Fairbank and Mrs. Freund, who is president of the board of directors of the hospital, were both in black, which always is well represented in every smart crowd, but white and bright colors also were much in evidence.

One of the most effective outfits was worn by Mrs. Philip Chancellor of California, who, with her husband, is spending a fortnight in Chicago. This young Hungarian beauty, who has all the chic and charm which Americans think foreigners all possess, but which is as rare abroad as it is here, was wearing a black gown with short epaulettes of scarlet feathers and a tiny cap, perched on one side of her dark hair, of the same gay feathers.

Selling balloons and flowers were some of the prettiest young girls in society, most of them wearing the slinky, form-fitting gowns which only the very slim can wear with grace, but Jane Valentine's frock was the essence of springtime and youth. It was of crisp white organdy, with a bertha and a ruffled skirt, all edged in narrow red, white and blue pipings. A little nosegay of field flowers finished the V of the neckline in front.

A brilliant note of color was introduced to the picture by Mrs. Francis Johnson's gown, a lovely one of flame chiffon over which she wore, when she entered, a short ermine wrap. Mrs. James Ward Thorne, who with Mr. Thorne, and her brother, Austin H. Niblack, and his wife, and the Thorne Donnelleys occupied a center box in the lower tier, was stunning in a printed gown in subdued tones with the skirt accordion plaited. Her narrow emerald green velvet cape was edged in ostrich feathers of the same bright hue.

Mrs. Niblack wore a black and white print and a black wrap and Mrs. Donnelley was radiantly lovely in white with diamente trimming and a spray of white orchids tipped with purple on one shoulder.

One of those most vitally interested in the success of the benefit and who was there was Dr. Joseph B. De Lee, founder of the hospital, which was started in 1895, and which in 1930 was affiliated with the University of Chicago. The new building, opened in 1930, because of its scientific equipment and its accommodations, is said to be the finest maternity hospital in existence. During the last twelve months 2,682 babies were born there, and in addition almost a thousand babies were delivered in patients' homes by doctors from the Chicago Lying-in Stock Yards and Hospital's Out Patient dispensaries. Only 25 per cent of the patients who visited the hospital and dispensary clinics last year paid in full, and of the other 75 per cent 30 per cent were cared for free of charge.

Some of Those Who Attended.

A few of the many others who enjoyed the affair were Mr. and Mrs. William J. Chalmers, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hibbard, Mr. and Mrs. T. Philip Swift, Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Fairbank, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Robert Hall McCormick, Miss Louise Brewer, Mr. and Mrs. John V. Farwell III., Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Fenton, Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Ryerson, who were with the Clay Judsons, the Frank B. Mulfords, the Harold Pynchons, the John H. Merrells and their daughter, Miss Honor Merrell, and Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams.

Others were Mr. and Mrs. Hayden B. Harris, the Samuel T. Chases, the Louis Boysens, the Barrett Wendells, the John A. Stevensons, and Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick, the Graham Aldises, who shared a table with the Stephen Hords and the Junior William R. Odells.

SYNOPSIS.

Dorinda Quarles is found stabbed to death after a dinner party in her Paris apartment. Unscrupulous, Dorinda had served a drug to her fourteen guests. The crime is discovered early next morning. All of the guests except Dinah Blake, young American artist, are lying about in deep sleep. Tommy Rostetter, a journalist, was Dinah's dinner partner. Dinah's engagement to Christopher Loughton, in the American embassy, was, according to rumor, broken on account of Dorinda. Dinah returns home two days later, her memory a blank. She had been sleeping in the studio of absent friends. Basil Jethro, Dorinda's stepfather, celebrated Oxford scholar, was her guardian and trustee. Dorinda's mother died from an overdose of narcotics. Tommy suspects Jethro and searches for proof. Bannister Mowbray, who had supplied the drug for the dinner, commits suicide as his roommate, Ronald Cleeves, tries to do unsuccessfully. Tommy confides to Loughton his suspicion of Jethro. Loughton volunteers to go to London for further investigations. He meets Rank Rostetter, Tommy's nephew, who is attending Oxford. Rank has a friend, Bilfilian, who claims, while on a vacation in Paris, he saw Jethro in a Montmartre dive. Tommy believes that Jethro registered as two persons in the Stanislas hotel, where he stopped the night of the murder, one in disguise, as Jethro had not been seen leaving the hotel. A Dr. Klauber from Prague was registered in the room next to Jethro's. Jethro learns of Tommy's inquiries. Loughton returns from London to learn that Tommy has disappeared and Dinah has been arrested for murder. The Stanislas hotel manager has disappeared. Rank Rostetter and Bilfilian fly to Paris with Coppinger, a pilot friend. Accompanied by Loughton, they find Jethro's hideout. Loughton, investigating alone, is attacked by Jethro. After a fierce battle, Jethro falls from a balcony to his death. The dead body of the hotel manager is found in the apartment. Loughton's semi-lifeless form is discovered in a tank on the roof. After days of suspense he recovers sufficiently to see callers. He and Tommy unravel the mystery of Jethro's diabolical plot and dual personality.

INSTALMENT LX.

PLEADING A CASE.

"A young lady to see you," burbled the nurse. "Shall I let her in, or would you rather this gentleman went away first?"

Christopher sprang up guiltily.

"I'll clear off," he mumbled. "See you tomorrow."

Noting the homeless-dog look in his eyes, Tommy stretched out a detaining hand.

"No," he said. "Wait in the lounge till she's gone, then come back and chew a chop with me. It's beastly feeding in solitude. You will? Right."

Christopher entered the lounge. As the door closed behind him a light step along the corridor made him clinch his hands and set his teeth. He moved mechanically to the window and stood staring down at the withered chrysanthemums in the garden below, his heart as dry and dead as the prospect he viewed.

. . . . . .

Dinah, very intent on putting fresh violets into a pickle bottle, shook a stubborn head.

"Not a bit of use," she declared in a low voice. "I applaud your missionary zeal, but I can't change my feelings."

Tommy gazed at her thoughtfully.

"Mine," he sighed with resignation, "is the fate of all reformers. I hadn't much hope. And yet I've been flattering myself on my cleverness at diagnosing situations. Shall I tell you that I've been thinking about yours?"

Dinah walked dispiritedly into the lounge.

"I see you're going to. I suppose I can bear it."

"It always strikes men," he began, frowning into a smoke cloud, "that in matters of—well, unfaithfulness, the whole point is this: We can trust ourselves, but we can't trust the other person. Is that so, or isn't it?"

"And what if it is?"

"Nothing, except that it ought to make us more generous in our judgments. Just assume, for argument's sake, the positions in this case had been reversed—that in Christopher's absence, feeling down, even perhaps despising yourself a little, you had in a weak moment succumbed to a passing attraction—one which meant nothing, but which boosted you up in your esteem. Wouldn't you have known to a dead certainty that it left your basic attitude towards Christopher unaltered?"

She met his eyes squarely, bit her lip, and turned a deeper red.

"Maybe," she admitted reluctantly. "It's hard to say, because it would never have happened."

"What—are you so perfect? Do you mean to tell me that while you were lounging about the Lido you didn't indulge in a single mild flirtation?"

"And if I did flirt a little?" she interrupted defiantly. "Why not? It did me good, and I knew just how far I could go."

"Exactly!" he cried in triumph. "You were sure of yourself, but not of Christopher—which proves my contention. Did you by chance inform Christopher of these innocent flirtations?"

"Certainly. I always told him that sort of thing."

"Well, don't look so confoundedly virtuous about it. Your motive's nothing to be proud of. You did it to enhance your value in his eyes, and would not have been sorry to make him as miserable as he made you. Be honest."

"Perhaps I felt justified," she answered after a pause.

"You wanted to punish him because he'd shown himself a trifle too subservient to his mother? Ah, you see I've got the right dope on it, haven't I? Maybe he didn't take a proper stand. Maybe for your own sake he was unwilling to subject you to hardship. No matter which it was, you considered him weak, and let him see it—a fatal error in tactics, let me tell you. A clever girl like you ought to know how dangerous it is to injure any man in his self-esteem. You were asking for trouble, and you got it. Yes, I mean it. I hold you responsible, you, not for Dorinda's death—that you couldn't have prevented—but for all the rest of this ghastly mess. You've not seen that former lover of yours, have you? You ought to. He looks like the hero of a dozen Heidelberg duels—all on your account. Now what have you got to say to that?"

Hoisting himself in bed, Tommy fixed her with a baleful glare.

"You," he thundered. "You, with your intolerance, your petty self-righteousness, your unequal standards of honor—you have done all this. You are one of those fine, good girls who ought to be thrashed."

She had been staring at him with stunned amazement. Her eyes begun to flash blue-green sparks, but now they clouded with tears.

"Don't, don't " she implored in a stricken voice. "As though I ever forgot for one moment the trouble I've caused! You, that poor Frenchman—Christopher, too . . . O, I can't bear it! And I daresay what you think of me is quite true. One doesn't see these things till it's too late."

She hid her face. Tommy's expression softened, but his voice retained its sternness.

"Well," he said briskly, "don't snivel. How about reparations?"

She grew very still, her shoulders stiffening.

"No," she whispered. "If it's Christopher you mean, I—I can't do anything. You just don't understand, that's all. Something broke in me. I can't mend it. I'm sorry."

"Then," he remarked philosophically, "that's that. To me you seem hard—as hard as granite."

"I'm not hard! O, Tommy, I'm not, I'm not!"

"As you say—but I can't help feeling devilish sorry for Loughton. After all, he's saved my life at imminent risk of his own, and chanced getting chucked out of a career. Point is, what does he get out of it? But there—we'll speak of something else."

In strained silence Dinah smoothed out her gloves, while the scarlet of her cheeks faded slowly. Then the nurse came in to announce Helen Roderick.

"Poor old Helen," murmured Tommy, glancing from Dinah to the huge sheaf of pink tiger lilies laid upon his bed. "Mustn't be hard on her. She'd poured out our story to Jethro before I ever cautioned her to hold her tongue. She meant no harm."

"I know," agreed Dinah shortly. "But I can't see her yet."

She quickly dabbed powder on her nose, straightened her hat, and prepared to slip away.

"Pop into the lounge till Helen's gone, then come back and have a bite with me."

"Sure you want me?" she asked uncertainly. "Well, then, I'll wait."

Dinah walked dispiritedly into the lounge. In the fading light she did not at first recognize the tall, rigid-backed figure stationed by the window, and when the head turned and two haggard brown eyes surveyed her out of a lean face criscrossed with red her heart pounded to suffocation. Christopher! She half retreated, then getting a grip on herself went forward to meet him.

"I'm glad we've met," she said, holding out her hand with a show of spontaneousness. "I'd wanted to see you and to ask if—you're getting all right."

"O, quite, thanks." He touched the healing scars as though to remind himself of their existence. "I got off rather lightly, as it happened."

School Pranks May Be Child's Bid for Notice

He Enjoys the Excitement That Ensues."

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

This is the third of the articles written especially for teachers on child management in the schoolroom. Two others have appeared this week.

I wonder if I have ever told in this column the story of the little girl and the ink well. It happened in the class of a young teacher who was without much knowledge of the complexity of human nature in childhood.

One morning—and I will be brief—when she entered the classroom she was greeted with the news that Frances Wall call her, had come in and found her inkwell empty and the inside of her desk flooded with ink.

Of course the teacher was astounded and showed it. The children gathered round and great excitement prevailed. No information could be gleaned as to who might have done it. The janitor came in and cleaned up and lessons began.

Two days later the same thing happened again to Frances' desk. More questioning, more excitement, and then the head of the department took a hand in the investigation.

Three days later her teacher arrived in school quite early to find Frances there—and another ink episode.

"Send Frances in to me after school," said the quiet department head. Half an hour after school a contrite little girl came to her teacher's desk.

"I spilled the ink myself," she said.

Not an attractive child, not popular, not clever at her lessons, and not, apparently, happy at home, Frances, finding that the first real accident had given her the center of the stage, had duplicated the incident herself.

The teacher's answer to this was a more friendly sort of attention, more help with the child's lessons, praise for real effort, and some special little duties around the school room. Nothing in any way approximating the ink accidents ever happened again.

I tell this story for the teacher who may be trying to deal with the misbehavior of her pupils only in direct ways. I tell it to point out that, in the classroom as in the home, we often have to go way round behind an act to find out the reason for it. And that, in doing so, we often come upon things which make it possible for us to foster the mental health, which means the real happiness, of the child. What a worthwhile piece of work, which may bear its good fruit in the adult life of the boy or girl!

Suggestions for brief reading on mental hygiene in the schoolroom will be sent to teachers on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

league floor show, will be a joint hostess with Mrs. John Marcy Scott at the Stahls' house, and Mrs. Eliot Johnson, Mrs. Charles Price, Mrs. Joseph Moulding Jr., and the Kenneth Littles are also giving cocktail parties and going on with their guests to the dinner dance.

Miss Mary Cook will be one of the stars of the floor show with her carioca dance, and Louis Tilden and Bill Heath will be other stars, playing two pianos.

Mrs. Thorne Shows New Miniatures.

Mrs. James Ward Thorne was hostess at a tea yesterday afternoon in her apartment at 1200 Lake Shore drive at which her guests enjoyed a preview of the new miniature period rooms she will exhibit at the Fair this year along with the ones she exhibited last year, making 27 in all. The new ones are even more exquisite and perfect than the old ones, if that were possible, and every one who saw them yesterday was loud in praise of Mrs. Thorne's genius for making and assembling such lovely rooms, each one to scale and in perfect taste.

Three modern rooms, one a particularly effective pent-house dining room with a roof garden and the lights of tall buildings showing through French doors, were admired greatly, but so were a Breton kitchen, a perfect gem of an Adam dining room, a French salon in the style of Louis XV. an early American sitting room and all the others.

Among those who were at the tea were Mrs. Thorne's mother, Mrs. William C. Niblack, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Mrs. George A. Ranney, Mrs. Charles Garfield King, Mr. and Mrs. A. Watson Armour, Mrs. Charles W. Dempster, Mrs. Bruce Borland, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, Mrs. George A. Ranney, Mrs. Potter Palmer who had Mrs. Philip Chancellor with her. Miss Cornelia Conger, Miss Narcissa Swift and I. Newton Perry.

Friends of China Meet Tomorrow.

The American Friends of China meeting tomorrow evening at the Casino promises to be a gay affair with about fifty members present. There is to be a business meeting at which Mrs. Tiffany Blake, chairman of the nominating committee, will present the ballot for the election of new officers. And after a supper Dr. Berthold Laufer of the Field museum will speak on "Chinese Characters" [the formation of Chinese writing].

Among those who have made reservations are the John Alden Carpenters, the William B. Hales, the William B. Greenlees, Russell Tyson, Mrs. Richard T. Crane, Mrs. Joseph M. Patterson, and Morton P. Schwab. Col. George T. Langhorne is president.

The Edgar J. Goodspeeds are entertaining at a supper party tomorrow night for Miss Dorothy Canfield, the novelist, who is going to spend a little while in Chicago "as a private person." The Goodspeeds are giving another dinner for Miss Canfield on Tuesday night to which they have invited several members of the faculty of the University of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Goodspeed are leaving June 15 for their iland in Plum lake, Wis., and will be there for the summer.

Official notice is being extended to the wives of Yale men to make no engagements for their husbands next Thursday, when the Yale club of Chicago will hold its annual field day at the Chicago Golf club at Wheaton. There will be handsome rewards for golfers in several events, and also tennis and baseball. Dinner and "Boola Boola," with innumerable encores will end the festivities. Frederick L. McNally is president of the Chicago Yale club. The committee in charge of the field day includes Otis L. Hubbard, chairman; Gardner Brown and Dexter Cummings.

Junior Douglases Take House in Lake Forest.

The junior James H. Douglases have taken the house in Lake Forest that belonged to the late Albert M. Day for the summer. They are moving out today. Mrs. Douglas' parents, the Robert G. McGanns, are expected at home from California June 1.

The Clay Judsons will not be completely moved into their new home—Mrs. Donald E. Jerrems' former home on Astor street, until next week. Mrs. Judson's mother and sister, Mrs. Howard Van Doren Shaw and Miss Theodora Shaw, who are cruising around the Mediterranean on a tramp steamer, will be at home next month.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Wheeler of 1120 Lake Shore drive have opened their home at Hot Springs, Va., where they will remain until Nov 1.

The Wilbur Smiths are opening their Lake Forest house today and are giving a house party the very first week-end it is opened. The Smiths have invited four couples to spend today and tomorrow golfing and tonight on the sleeping porches.

Mrs. Theodore White Smith and her daughter, Miss Theodosia Smith, Mr. Smith's mother and sister, are arriving here from Pasadena around June 5. Mrs. Smith will visit her son and daughter-in-law until September, but Miss Smith will go on to Forest Hills to compete in the tennis tournaments. She will be in the east for five weeks, and when she returns to Lake Forest she will bring Miss Josephine Cruikshank with her, as well as some other tennis stars.

Twenty-two portraits of society folk will be on view tomorrow afternoon in the shop of Mrs. John N. Lee in Lake Forest, and Mrs. Lee has sent out invitations to a party to celebrate their "unveiling." The portraits are done in water color and oil by Burnett H. Shryock.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

At last . . . a little gadget that takes the curse out of one of the trials of twentieth century feminine life—an eyebrow tweezer, semi-automatic, that makes the grooming of the brows a painless operation.

We've been looking for this thing all our life. Can anything surpass the annoyance of eyebrow plucking, with its little pricks of pain and the inevitable sneezes? We were never any admirer, on ourselves or on anybody else, of the hairline brow, which can do more to deprive the average face of character than anything else. But even the most conservative of us have some grooming to do now and then and it's a plenty disagreeable experience.

The automatic tweezer makes it simple, and you don't feel a twinge.

It's only fair to tell you that using it requires a little finger coördination that you have to catch on to at first. We were in a terrific mixup with it until some one with better mechanical brains than ours showed us exactly how to do it. The directions are explicit and simple to understand really; it's just that you must acquire a certain tempo and knowledge of which little button to press and when. Once that's become almost automatic with you your eyebrow tweezing troubles are over.

You must remember to pull the little hairs out in the direction in which they grow. You can use the painless tweezer on your arms and legs, too, if the down there seems unsightly to you.

You'll find the tweezer in a Chicago store and if you take our advice you'll own one. They don't cost much.

Bathing Suits Are the Kind You Swim In

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Seagoing swim suits have arrived and signed up for a big season. They are unquestionably the best looking streamline models any beach lizard ever encountered. One piece affairs with straps that can be tied in no less than a dozen different ways, so the attached tag assures; clever white numbers lined for ease and mind comfort. One lovely white one has cerise straps. Another has a woven two color effect in the straps, and another has jade green.

Yellow and old gold swimming togs are things, or colors, to watch. You've no idea how flattering they are until you see them. One stunning ensemble has a one-piece suit tied in front with three white jersey bows, over which swings a cape also of jersey, trimmed with bows of white.

Separate yellow knits without a bit of contrasting color fit as smoothly as your own epidermis. A honey tanned summer girl is going to create a sensation in such a golden yellow suit against the sun tan she acquires. Wood violet one-piece suits—knit affairs—have a nice nubby surface that looks hand knit. Some gay cerise colored one-piece affairs with an attached skirt can be seen for miles, but they are probably the most decorative as well as practical one color effects you can wear.

Two-piece suits are popular, but you had better find out what the city fathers in your hamlet think about the propriety of the things before you spend cash on them. The shorts are plenty brief and snappy, in dark colors. The bandanna top triangle ties halter fashion around the neckline and fastens in a perky knot at the back waistline, leaving the entire back exposed for sun tan.

The navy has captured the fancy of the swim suit designers, who breezily stick metal anchors and rope cords around the waistlines, thrust life savers onto the shoulders as clips, and embroider steering wheels, anchors, stars and anything nautical on nearly every suit in the new summer collections.

You can really go swimming in these new models. Dash down and see them and claim your own while you can find the best buys!

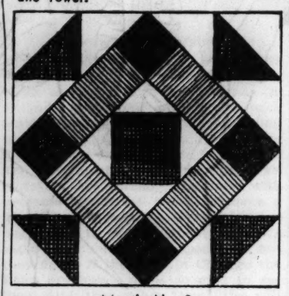
Second Mosaic Is Splendid Example of Art of Piecing

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents each, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.



Mosaic No. 2.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Pieced up" work has been regarded by quilters as the simplest form of patchwork. Some of the results are rather ugly masses of material, with colors arranged in hit or miss fashion. When mosaic patterns first were pieced they were extremely simple, artistically worthy of the name of those delicate compositions they represented. Mosaic No. 2 is a fine example of this art.

Does Masculine Faction Really Like Plumpness?

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

They try to tell us that men like 'em plump. Anyway, that if it were left to men's decision, reducing among women wouldn't be the active industry it is. That's what they tell us but, listen to this:

"He's tall and thin. He used to tell me he liked me because I wasn't always worrying about my diet like the other girls he knew. I always was a bit—well not fat, but roundish. Now, he ups and tells me if I don't reduce he'll send me packing to Reno. And he's not kidding, either."

We'll sure have to keep the girl out of Reno, the place being overcluttered with lonely females as it is.

She isn't so much overweight, either. Only about twelve pounds, but what irks the aesthetic eye, known as her better half, is thickness across the shoulder blades in back and heaviness below the waistline in the back, too. She's short in stature, which, of course, exaggerates these fleshy defects.

I don't know of a single better exercise for the padded shoulder blades than my own pet, which you do thusly: "Stand yourself with your head against the wall, your feet forward as far as you can comfortably stand. Hands forward at shoulder height. Better protect the head with a tiny pillow or folded towel or something like that. Now bring body forward and back from the wall, keeping head steady against the wall. Do fifty times and in no time the fat will have vacated the shoulder blades.

For the lower body reduction, take a position [standing] as if you were in a saddle, fists clenched. Bring hands, alternately, to rear, making a sweeping, forward up jerk with the hands, holding buttocks in and in the saddle position. If this isn't clear, better send for the West Point booklet, in which you'll find this ace exercise illustrated.

A little lightening on food had better be done meanwhile. Let the total calorie intake for the day not exceed 1,400 instead of the usual 2,500. This will get you down in no time, and save the Reno expenses.

French Movie Industry Asks Ban on U. S. Films

PARIS, May 18.—(AP)—The French film industry today recommended to its government drastic restrictions virtually prohibiting the importation of American movies. Manufacturers suggested a complete ban for three months on American films and an increase of 3,300 per cent in the import duties. H. L. Smith, the representative of the American film industry here, referred to the request as "an outstanding discrimination in favor of the Germans."

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., May 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. Roosevelt was hostess at luncheon today entertaining Mrs. Garner, wife of the Vice President, and the wives of members of the cabinet. At 5 o'clock she received the members of the World Good Will Day committee. Between the luncheon and the reception the first lady attended the garden party of All Hallows guild in the close of the Cathedral of St. Peter and St. Paul.

The speaker of the house and Mrs. Henry T. Rainey of Illinois were the guests for whom the South African minister and Mrs. Close entertained at dinner last evening. Among others in the company were Justice and Mrs. Owen J. Roberts, Mrs. Claude A. Swanson, Senator and Mrs. William S. King and the solicitor general and Mrs. Biggs.

Question Marks Cover Cooking Column Again

"Candies That Are Fun to Make," a booklet containing 28 candy recipes, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

The symbol of the American business man may be the dollar sign, but by the looks of my desk at the present writing I'm convinced that madame, his wife, may be known by her question marks. And I love them!

So, since Saturday has turned into the day for hashing over troubles and airing the ladies' symbol, here are a few for your delectation.

First, a query from Mrs. C. R. W., on the matter of "cole slaw" and "cold slaw." She says: "I noticed you have 'cole slaw' in your menu today. This reader would be happier if you would write 'cold slaw.' There is a hot slaw and a cold slaw, and we use the term cold to differentiate between the two."

Which sounds reasonable, but Mr. Dictionary seems to agree with both of us. Messrs. Funk and Wagnalls define "cole" as "a plant of the same genus as the cabbage." And the "cole slaw" as "a salad of cabbage cut fine." "Cold slaw" is given as a variant, so that's right, too. Funny things, words.

And, from Mr. J. C. A. questions about pressure cooking his pickerel and sucker fish so that the bones will cook up as they do in canned salmon.

As the teachers back in the grades used to say, "Now, that's a good question." For it so happens that pressure cookery is an eminently fine way to prepare fish in our own tuck-away kitchens. The high temperature of the pressure cooker softens the fine bones, making it possible to eat and enjoy some of the finny tribe which are most annoying with their many bones when cooked in the ordinary ways. And any fish which would be good baked is in the market for the pressure cooker. The method for any of these fish is this:

FISH IN THE PRESSURE COOKER.

Select a fish that is not over three pounds in heft for short time cooking. Clean it well and rub with salt and pepper. Wrap it in a section of cheesecloth and place in the inset dish of the cooker. Pour one cup of water in the cooker bottom. Place the fish dish on the rack and cover the cooker, leaving the petcock open until steam comes spouting forth. Then close the petcock and cook for 20 minutes at 15 pounds pressure. Then open the petcock very slowly, and when all the steam is exhausted, take off the cover, tilting the lid to avoid all possibilities of scalding yourself. Lift the fish out and platter it at once.

Now let's pick some short ones. Mrs. J. R. F. runs up her question mark with "Just what is the difference between 'free running' salt and the ordinary table salt?" And the answer: The only difference is that the "free running" salt contains a very small amount of a compound called carbonate of magnesia, only 1 per cent, as a rule, which is added to the ordinary salt to keep it from caking.

Next one is from Miss R. K.: "What is curry powder and where did it get its name?" Stop me if I'm wrong, but all accounts say that curry powder is a seasoning that was originally used in India. It is made up of black pepper, cayenne pepper, coriander seed, tumeric, ginger, and sometimes a variety of other items. You see, each manufacturer makes up his curry powder a little differently, some apparently liking it hot and some liking it cooler. "Curry," by the way, is the Hindu word for stew.

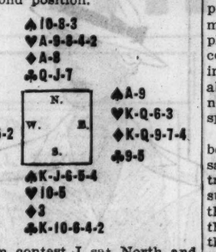
And a last query from Miss F. H. L., who hasn't an idea what "kippered" means when used in relation to herring or other fish. The facts are that this word originally belonged to the Scotchmen, and it refers to a fish that has been split, salted, and smoked.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

YOU ARE NOT LYING IN AMBUSH WHEN YOU SHOW CARD SENSE.

Before some understanding of the Sims system had spread outside the immediate circle of my friends, players used to think that I had trapped them by "passing a big hand for a play" when actually I was passing a hand because I considered it unbiddable in first or second position.



In a team contest I sat North and was the dealer. It never occurred to me to bid this hand originally, as it could have no future unless my partner could take fairly optimistic action over a pass by me. East opened with a diamond, West correctly bid two diamonds, East bid two hearts. West had to deny this and did so by bidding two no trumps. I think three diamonds would have been a safer, less optimistic form of denial. However, he chose the other and East bid three no trumps. I consider that he should have bid three diamonds, as he lacked the aces of both red suits and was so weak in clubs. Probably he overestimated the two no trump bid made by his partner. Willard Karn, South, is very sensitive to insecure bidding by the adversaries and doubled on the strength of his uneven suit distribution and his strength in both unbid suits. West rightly passed, as he feels that East must either redouble or revert to diamonds. East realized that the hand had been overbid and sought safety in four diamonds. West now made a very serious error. Although rescued from the no trump pitfall, he still did not grasp that there was some defect in East's hand; he could not imagine that both red aces were in the hands of the enemy and presumably assumed that East had been bluffed by the double out of a no trump game. So he bid five diamonds, which I joyfully doubled. The penalty was two tricks, 600 points.

At another table they reached three no trumps by approximately the same bidding; West did not double and they went down three tricks, losing 500 points. The mistake lay, I think, in East assuming too much about his partner's hand after receiving the mild chance-giving two diamond response. Lacking both red aces, he should have proceeded cautiously and looked for more encouragement from West before plunging into three no trumps. This contract would only seem good to me in East's position if West had been able to bid clubs and had later gone to no trumps, revealing a stopper in spades.

Some of the North players did not believe in "passing big hands." They saw before them a "two and a half trick hand including a five card major suit headed by the ace," remembered the formula of the textbook on which they relied to do their thinking for them and opened the bidding with one heart. Thus they arrived at partial score contracts in one of the black suits. Three-odd can be made in either one—but that is a poor substitute for 500 or 600. It really is an expensive practice to warn the enemy automatically, and save them from making mistakes. Is a pugilist accused of waiting in ambush or setting a trap if he allows his opponent to stumble over his own feet? Is it considered unethical in any athletic sport to reserve a decisive blow for the moment when you perceive that your opponent is off balance?

Church Group Backs 'Judas Iscariot' Here

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The first American production of "Judas Iscariot," by Ernest Temple Thurston, will be presented at the Goodman theater on six evenings, from June 4 to 9, with an additional matinée on the last day.

This dramatic spectacle, planned in conjunction with A Century of Progress, is sponsored by the Chicago Church federation as a contribution of religious drama to the opening days of the Fair.

"A cast of 250 drawn from Protestant churches and community dramatic organizations in the city will appear in the production which contains seven scenes bearing a religious message of great historical value," said Dr. Robert Clements, president of the Chicago Church federation.

"Judas Iscariot" is an attempt to portray in dramatic and emotional terms the simplicity and humanity of the Christ through the eyes of Judas, and an analysis of its construction indicates that the author's attempt is both fervid and sincere.

Temple Thurston, who is best known for his plays, "The Wandering Jew" and "The City of Beautiful Nonsense," spent fifteen years in study before writing a word of "Judas Iscariot." Consequently the correct historic background and contemporary local coloring enhance the dramatic values of the story.

The play was originally produced in England, with a cast of 25 eminent English stars and a company of 400 actors and actresses from the London theaters, under the direction of Ben Guy Phillips, who is also directing the production at the Goodman.

Club Federation Selects Chicago for 1935 Meeting

The fortieth annual convention of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs will be held in Chicago in May, 1935, it was decided yesterday by the executive committee of the federation. The committee met in the Hotel Sherman following the close of the 39th annual convention in that hotel. The decision was reached over the protest of a delegation from Peoria, where the first convention of the federation was held.

CUBS DEFEAT PHILLIES, 9-5; SOX WIN, 5-4

BIG TEN TRACK RECORD BROKEN BY HORNBOSTEL

Hoosier Establishes Half Mile Mark.

Qualifiers

FOLLOWING is the number of qualifiers in 10 of the 14 individual events in the Western conference track and field meet:

Illinois	16	Purdue	5
Michigan	8	Iowa	5
Wisconsin	7	Ohio State	5
Indiana	7	Minnesota	4
Northwestern	5	Chicago	3

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Charles Hornbostel of Indiana university is the best half mile runner in the history of the Western conference. No one would have disputed this assertion since Hornbostel defeated Glenn Cunningham of Kansas, in the national collegiate meet last year at Soldiers' field and tied the American record. But yesterday, in the preliminaries of the 34th Western conference track and field meet at Dyche stadium, Hornbostel wrote his name in the permanent records with the best performance in the history of the Big Ten.

Under perfect conditions, a fast track and an intermittent, mild cross wind from the lake which was no handicap, Hornbostel circled the track twice with his long, methodical stride which gets him over the ground at a phenomenal pace. He was timed in 1 minute 52 9-10 seconds, three-tenths of a second faster than the 18 year old mark of Scott of Mississippi A. and M.

Goes After Record.

It is unusual for a distance record to be broken in the preliminaries. But Hornbostel unexpectedly went out for the record yesterday, influenced no doubt by the perfect weather setting and the fact that today he will run the mile, in which he is the Big Ten defending champion, before he competes in his favorite event, the half mile.

There was no one in the second heat to force Hornbostel to a fast pace. But his judgment of speed was excellent and after the first turn the hustling Hoosier had the track to himself.

When Hornbostel opened up a lead at the end of the first lap and continued his sprint the few hundred spectators and the contestants encouraged him, sensing that one of the oldest conference records might be broken. And Hornbostel did just that.

Holds Indoor Mark Also.

Hornbostel now owns both the indoor and outdoor records. He broke the all time mark indoors at the University of Chicago fieldhouse in February, 1933, when he surpassed Orval Martin's record with a half mile in 1:53.9. Since his sophomore year Hornbostel always has held at least one Big Ten title. He never has been beaten in the half mile, and when Henry Brocksmith, a Hoosier teammate, was graduated two years ago Hornbostel stepped into the mile and won that last spring on the same track where yesterday he set his new record.

Hornbostel also won the national collegiate half mile in 1932, his sophomore year, and then, last year, ran the greatest race of his career against Cunningham. Hornbostel defeated the Jayhawker in 1 minute 50 9-10 seconds, an all time collegiate record and a mark which equals the American record of Ben Eastman of Stanford university. Both probably will receive world recognition and supplant Dr. Otto Pelzer of Germany as the fastest runner in the world at this distance.

Sixteen Illini Qualify.

With the exception of Hornbostel's race the marks in the preliminaries were mediocre.

Illinois led in the number of athletes qualified in the 10 events in which preliminaries were held yesterday. Illinois qualified 16 men and was shut out only in the high hurdles and half mile races. However, in the main, the Illinois men do not figure to place high in the finals.

Michigan qualified eight but Willis Ward, who qualified in the 100 yard dash, high hurdles and broad jump, at present figures to win all three in addition to the high jump in which no trials were held yesterday. Ward won his heat in the dash in 10 seconds, won a preliminary hurdle race in 15.1 seconds and was the best in the broad jump with a leap of 23 feet 2¼ inches.

Indiana qualified seven athletes including Fuqua, defending champion, in the quarter mile and the 220 yard dash. Fuqua's time in the quarter was 49.9 seconds, best of the four races. Indiana's hope for the title was dealt a severe blow when Caldmeyer was disqualified in the high hurdles for false starts and Kruchten also missed the select list of six in the javelin. Kruchten was second in the event last year.

Panther Beats Purvis.

More surprising was Purvis' showing in the javelin. Purvis won the event last year with a record throw of 208 feet 5¼ inches, but yesterday he was second to Panther of Iowa, a sophomore, whose best throw was 203 feet 7 inches.

Chin Kamm of Illinois, defending shot put champion, also landed in second place. Dave Cook, a teammate, led in the trials with 49 feet 1 inch. It is possible that Cook will break the conference record of 49 feet 8⅛ inches held by Clarence Munn of Minnesota. Cook has pushed the 16 pound ball farther than 50 feet this spring.

The finals this afternoon will start at 3 o'clock, with the exception of the

SOUTHWEST SIDE ALL SET TO GREET POLISH FIGHTERS

Aim to Surpass Tuesday's Reception.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Final plans were perfected last night for the festival which Chicago's southwest side will hold tomorrow evening at Douglas park in honor of the Polish boxing team. At a meeting of business men and officials of Polish societies, the details of the program were worked out in a way to insure an eventful evening for fighters and spectators alike.

The eight boys who have come from distant Poland for a boxing match with Chicagoland's Golden Gloves team have been encouraged to feel thoroughly at home ever since they stepped off the train at the conclusion of their 5,500 mile journey. The uproarious greeting which they received at the railroad station convinced them that they already had thousands of friends in a city which they never before had seen. At Humboldt park last Tuesday night further evidence of the hospitality of Chicago was offered when 100,000 residents of the northwest side gathered for a reception in honor of the boxers.

May Surpass Other Demonstrations.

Tomorrow night the fighters will receive still another greeting which may even surpass in enthusiasm those which have gone before. Not only is the southwest side a stronghold for the people of Polish extraction, but it also is the habitat of a large Jewish population. And one of the boxers, Szapsia Rotholz, is a Jewish lad.

So men and women, boys and girls, may be expected to turn out in large numbers for tomorrow evening's doings. There will be a parade, music, speeches, dancing and the presentation of the boxers.

The parade will start at Kedzie avenue and Cermak road and proceed to the baseball diamond in Douglas park. In the marching column there will be Polish societies, school children, Boy Scouts, and Legionnaires.

Invite Mayor Kelly.

Invitations have been extended to Mayor Edward J. Kelly and State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney. Addresses will be made by Tytus Zbyszewski, Polish consul general; John A. Kornak, president of the Southwest Polish Business Men's association; Anthony Czarnecki, collector of customs for the port of Chicago; Attorney General Otto Kerner; Henry Sonnenschein, alderman of the 22d ward; John Toman, alderman of the 23d ward; Judge John Prystalski; Frank Zintak, clerk of the Superior court; Emily Napieralski, president of the Polish Women's National Alliance, and F. Franciszek Baronowski, president of the Polish Boxing union.

After the speeches the fighters will be presented to the crowd, the introduction to be made by Donald Day, member of THE TRIBUNE foreign news staf, who has made the trip from Poland with the team. The program will be concluded with free public dancing in the nearby pavilion.

CHASE ME FACES EQUIPOISE TODAY IN BELMONT RACE

New York, May 18.—(AP)—The long anticipated meeting of C. V. Whitney's Equipoise and Mrs. John R. Bosley Jr's unbeaten Chase Me will take place tomorrow in the Metropolitan mile at Belmont Park, the headline attraction of an all-star card.

For Equipoise, winner of his only two starts this year, the $2,500 added race will furnish another opportunity for the great handicap star to draw nearer his goal of dethroning Sun Beau as the leading money winner of the world. Equipoise now is in second place with $332,960, as compared to $376,744 for Sun Beau.

Although Equipoise and Chase Me, victor in seven straight races since making his debut as a 4 year old last fall, will be the magnet expected to draw 20,000 fans to Belmont, the race may not be merely a two horse affair.

Chase Me was named to match strides with Equipoise in the Dixie handicap two weeks ago at Pimlico, but declined the issue an hour before post time. He has been pointed for tomorrow's race, however, and like Equipoise, turned in a good final workout.

A DASH OF SPEED SEASONS BIG TEN MEET

H. Block of the University of Chicago (center) wins a qualifying heat in the 220 yard dash at the Big Ten track meet at Dyche stadium. At the right, V. Eckert of Illinois finishes second and also qualifies for the finals this afternoon. Block's time of 22 seconds equaled that made by Ivan Fuqua of Indiana in another heat. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Poles Ease Up on Boxing, But Not on Loop Shopping

BY DONALD DAY.

After punishing their sparring partners for the last three days, the Polish Golden Gloves team decided to give their fists a rest yesterday and with the exception of Tadeusz Rogalski, the bantam whose weight has to be watched carefully, Janislaw Sipinski, the lightweight who just recovered from his illness, and Stanislaw Pilat, the heavyweight who needs more sparring practice, the remainder of the team took a light workout in the Medinah club gymnasium yesterday afternoon.

Pilat, who for the first time in his life has been training with sparring partners, is finding the grind of serious training much different from his shadow boxing and sand bag punching back in Poznan. Two rounds of fast sparring each afternoon are making the Polish heavy work harder than he ever did before and yesterday afternoon he decided that his bed held more attractions than the State street stores and he snoozed after lunch.

Suitcases are Crammed.

The remainder of the boys again visited the loop, where they continued their shopping for their friends in Poland. Compared with prices back home, where Poland is still struggling under the handicap of maintaining the gold standard, the prices in Chicago are unbelievably low and the boys' suitcases are already crammed with presents which are going to make a lot of people happy. They also are beginning to worry about Poland's eagle-eyed customs inspectors, but they figure if they win in Chicago the Poles are going to be so glad to see them back that minor formalities will be waived.

After feeding postcards into the mailbox at the rate of thirty a day since he arrived in America, Szapsia Rotholz, the flyweight who is looked upon as an almost sure winner by those who have watched him with his sparring partners, yesterday sat down to write a letter home.

Szapsia sat at his desk for more than an hour before he gave up writing as a bad job. He said he had seen so much of Chicago and had such wonderful experiences that he just didn't know where to begin. His teammates are in the same fix. They have all decided to stick to postcards and let the pictures help tell the story.

Rogalski Knocks Out Opponent.

In the Medinah club gym yesterday Rogalski electrified the small group who were watching the sparring bouts when, with a clean left hook, he knocked out his sparring partner in the first round. The sparring was fast and furious, for he was pitted against a good local boy who is heavier than he and who fights in the featherweight class.

Rogalski is showing better form every day and is proving himself a clever little fighter with a lightning punch. He has a funny way of keeping his gloves constantly in motion, which makes it hard for his opponent to tell just where the next punch is coming from.

Sipinski also revealed that his long illness had not sapped his stamina and he also fought two fast rounds, the first time he has had the gloves on since he left Warsaw. He is also coming around in great shape and the dopesters also rate him as a dangerous opponent. Men who have seen all the international Golden Gloves teams rate the Polish boys high in the list and they all expect the fights with the Chicagoland champions Wednesday in the Chicago Stadium to be as good, if not better, than the annual contests between the Chicago and New York teams.

Pitted against a fast southpaw middleweight, Pilat is boxing for the first time with a left handed fighter to prepare him for his coming battle with Otis Thomas. The southpaw puzzled the mountaineer at first, but the Polish boy was quick to learn the new defense needed for this type of a fighter.

Big Six Lifts Ban on Athletic Broadcasts

Lincoln, Neb., May 18.—[Special.]—The Big Six conference today lifted its ban on the broadcasting of athletic contests. Officials unanimously voted to have each school decide whether or not to permit broadcast of games.

WHY NOT GET THEM TODAY?

Your tickets, of course, for the International Golden Gloves Bouts with the champions of Poland at the Chicago Stadium May 23. They can be bought at the Tribune's Public Service Office, 1 South Dearborn Street, or at Tribune Tower (first floor).

Tickets are on sale at the Public Service Office from 9 a. m. to midnight and at Tribune Tower from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. Thousands of good seats are still available at $3.30 and $2.20. All seats are reserved. Mail orders must be accompanied by money orders or certified checks.

BIG TEN LISTS FOOTBALL DATES FOR TWO YEARS

Directors of athletics and coaches of the western conference, after an all day session at the North Shore hotel in Evanston, last night announced their football schedules for 1935 and 1936. In the main the new inter-sectional series, such as the Columbia-Michigan games, which were announced exclusively in THE TRIBUNE several weeks ago, already were known.

Michigan also has scheduled Pennsylvania for these two years, and the new alliances in 1935 forced the Wolverines and Northwestern to drop their present relations. Both wanted to play, but were unable to find a corresponding open date. However, Michigan and Northwestern will resume in 1936. They are scheduled already for this fall.

Six Games for Northwestern.

Northwestern and Purdue are the only teams which will play six conference games in 1935. By agreeing to meet, they automatically jumped the five conference game group. Purdue also meets Carnegie Tech and Fordham in 1935, while Northwestern, in addition to six conference foes, will play Notre Dame, their series being extended two more years.

Notre Dame will begin its series with Ohio State in 1935 and Illinois will meet Southern California in the first of a home and home arrangement.

Fails to Schedule Maroons.

The Northwestern-Minnesota series, which will be interrupted this fall, will be resumed in 1935. Chicago and Northwestern attempted to find suitable dates for resumption of relations broken off several years ago, but it was impossible.

The basketball coaches and the athletic directors last night voted to submit a new plan for scheduling games to the faculty committee at the meeting of that governing body this morning. The present plan provides for twelve games with six universities, on a rotating basis, and it will be continued for the 1934-'35 season, regardless of the action of the faculty committee.

Five Home and Home Series.

The coaches approved a new arrangement of five home and home series each year, with single games with the other four opponents. Two of these single games would be played at home and two on the road. The schedule would rotate as it does now.

This, the coaches believe, will answer the criticism that a team sometimes gets a lucky break in not having to meet outstanding quintets. The plan would increase the number of conference games to 14 and permit only six nonconference games. The maximum of games is 20.

Zuppke Coaches' Spokesman.

Coach Robert Zuppke of Illinois will be the spokesman for the football coaches this morning at the faculty meeting. He will ask approval of a training table for one meal a day during the football season and for an earlier practice date for those universities which do not operate on the quarter system.

The schedules:

1935.

Sept. 28—Bradley at Illinois.

Oct. 5—Washington at Illinois, Michigan State at Michigan, Purdue at Northwestern.

Oct. 12—Illinois at Southern California, Indiana at Michigan, Minnesota at Nebraska, Purdue at Fordham, Notre Dame at Wisconsin.

Oct. 19—Purdue at Chicago, Michigan at Wisconsin, Tulane at Minnesota, Northwestern at Ohio State.

Oct. 26—Wisconsin at Chicago, Iowa at Illinois, Ohio State at Indiana, Michigan at Columbia, Northwestern at Minnesota, Carnegie Tech at Purdue.

Nov. 2—Illinois at Northwestern, Indiana at Iowa, Pennsylvania at Michigan, Purdue at Minnesota, Notre Dame at Ohio State.

Nov. 9—Ohio State at Chicago, Michigan at Illinois, Minnesota at Iowa, Northwestern at Notre Dame, Purdue at Wisconsin.

Nov. 16—Indiana at Chicago, Illinois at Ohio State, Iowa at Purdue, Minnesota at Michigan, Wisconsin at Northwestern.

Nov. 23—Chicago at Illinois, Purdue at Indiana, Iowa at Northwestern, Ohio State at Michigan, Wisconsin at Minnesota.

1936.

Oct. 4—Michigan State at Michigan, Iowa at Northwestern.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., May 18.—The Chuck Klein homecoming celebration went over with such marked success yesterday that the Cubs repeated it this afternoon to assure Guy Bush his seventh straight pitching triumph of the season. Homers were again the keynote of the party and this long distance barrage was laid down early enough to keep the floundering Phillies in their usual state of helplessness. The score was 9 to 5.

So long as Klein is a prominent individual hereabouts it probably was fitting that he should assume responsibility for launching the home run idea. He did it in the first inning by slapping his 12th of the year out of the park. Two mates were aboard the bases at the time. Two innings later the flashy Tuck Stainback rammed one into the seats with the bases filled. Before the inning closed Gabby Hartnett hit his No. 8 of the year with the bases empty. A production of eight runs on three homers is a fair day's work in any league.

Bush Encounters Trouble.

In picking up his seventh victory and keeping his season's slate clean, Bush revealed only a small portion of his usual skill. He was in trouble in every inning but the seventh. Despite his shakiness, however, he was not responsible for the first two runs scored against him. These happened because of some funny fielding on the part of Bill Jurges and Dolph Camilli. But in the eighth the Mississippian was actually well lathered with hits, and only the large lead he enjoyed prevented the summoning of a relief man from the bullpen.

After compiling their batch of six runs in the third and knocking out Ed Holley, the Phils' starting pitcher, the Cubs were kept from scoring again, but they continued to have a little fun with their bats. They didn't run into a hitless inning until Reginald Grabowski stopped them in order in the eighth. That ended a string of 18 consecutive innings in which the league leaders produced one or more safeties. The string started in the eighth inning of the final with the Giants last Tuesday.

Hack Opens with Safe Bunt.

The preliminaries to Klein's homer No. 12 started early. Hack opened the game by beating out a bunt to Chiozza, who is known as Lulu Belle. Galan finally got the range of the right field wall and plunked it for two bases, Hack halting at third. Then Klein, after looking over a few pitches not suited to his purpose, picked out a good one and whacked it high over the right field barrier for three runs. The next three men did nothing.

Hack also had the pleasure of starting the big push, which didn't slow

LYONS SURVIVES POUNDING TO BEAT ATHLETICS

Foxx Puts Ball in Center Bleachers.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Ted Lyons, one of the singingest of the happiness boys under the Jimmy Dykes régime, won himself a baseball game yesterday, his first of the year, as the White Sox ran their winning streak to a stirring total of three games. The score was Chicago, 5; Philadelphia, 4.

It was, perhaps, an especially sad day for that benign peddler of human chattels, Mr. Connie Mack, for four of the five runs made by the victors were scored by his former protégés. This is not to say, however, that all of the four runs were due to slugging by the alumni. Five walks in the first inning by Joe Cascarella, successor, after a fashion, of George Earnshaw, Lefty Grove, et. al., got the Sox off to a three run advantage.

Mack's Alumni Are Active.

In the third, though, Manager Dykes socked a homer and with two out in the sixth what proved to be the winning run was accomplished by Mule Haas, who singled, went to third on a single by Zeke Bonura, and scored on a double by Al Simmons, another old Philadelphia boy now making good in the big city.

Lyons had a shutout in hand for five innings, a span in which he held the enemy to four hits, all scratchy. But in the sixth the road became very rocky. A double by Cramer and single by Johnson were not in the least spurious, but they were mild compared to the follow-up of Jimmy Foxx. Jimmy busted his No. 7 homer into the center field bleachers, where no ball ever has been hit since the present structure was erected in 1927.

A Long Hit.

Of course, the fact that the plate is 14 feet nearer the centerfield wall than it formerly was, made the feat less notable. But even so the present wall is 436 feet from the home plate and Jimmy had to clear a 20 foot barricade after negotiating the 436 feet. There were some who estimated that the ball would have been in under the former dimensions.

After Uhalt led off the first inning with a line single Haas walked and the runners moved up on Bonura's sacrifice. Simmons was given an intentional pass, filling the bases, after which Cascarella walked Appling and Dykes, the two passes forcing Uhalt and Haas across the plate. Boken went after a chump ball after a two and two count, but Ruel walked, forcing Simmons to score. Lyons flied to Johnson.

Dykes Hits Home Run.

Dykes opened the third by driving the ball over the deep end of the scoreboard in left center. It was his second homer of the year.

The first wholesome hit off Lyons was a double with which Cramer opened the sixth and it was followed with another pure one, a single which Johnson smacked to center, scoring Cramer. Foxx then knocked his No. 7 into the center field bleacher, scoring Cramer ahead of him. Finney, McNair and Higgins filed out.

Haas singled to left with two out in the sixth and went to third on Bonura's single to center. Simmons doubled to the right field wall, Haas scoring and Bonura stopping at third. Appling's fast shrinking batting average shrank some more when he ended the rally with a tap to McNair.

Foxx Kindly Pops Out.

Johnson opened the eighth with a single to center, but Foxx kindly popped to Ruel in front of the plate. Finney then shot a single over second. Appling made a nice play to get the ball, but unfortunately followed his custom of working entirely by instinct in the jams. For no reason at all Luke, after the fashion of his maneuver against the Yanks in Lyons' last game, threw the ball away, although there was no need of throwing it anywhere. In the Yank game Luke's instinct to throw willy-nilly cost the game, but it wasn't quite so serious yesterday; it merely permitted Johnson to advance to third and Finney to take second.

McNair ran the count to three balls and two strikes, then was thrown out by Dykes. Johnson scoring and Finney pulling up at third with the potential tying run. Boken threw out Higgins.

One for Ted

TURF FANS HAIL JOCKY KEESTER, TRIPLE WINNER

Youngster Shows Riding Skill at Aurora Track.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Jocky Paul Keester, the 'teen age fellow from Dayton, Ky., was again the matinee idol of the racegoers who gathered at the Aurora track yesterday afternoon. Three times he came a-whippin' and whoopin' down the home stretch to get the decision.

He started his big afternoon's work when he brought Gay Follies from behind and won the second race going away. He climbed into the saddle on Whizz James in the fourth, took the lead soon after the start, and kept the wobbly son of St. James-Whizz Bang going long enough to beat Miss Chilla by two lengths.

This Was a Fine Ride.

Then in the Montgomery claiming purse he lifted his 100 pounds into the saddle on Enro from the W. A. Mikel stable. He turned in one of the most finished rides of his brief career on this fellow. He forced the pace with the son of Dodge until the field hit the lower bend, where Keester took Enro back for a breathing spell.

Heading into the stretch he called on Enro for a rally and within a sixteenth of a mile Enro's nose was showing in front. He went on to win by a length from the fast finishing favorite, Sambo Brown. Northern Sir, which had led most of the way, kept going long enough to be third.

Keester rode his first winner during the early part of the season at Aurora. He has been the most popular jocky at the track ever since. Every day he has been riding into the winner's circle. This was the second time he had won three races in one afternoon.

Great Day for Paul.

Paul Hatcher, one of the proprietors of a 4,000 acre farm near Morris, Ill., found a new way to get a thrill out of farm life during the afternoon.

For a long time he has been raising wheat, corn, oats, Hereford cattle, and fat porkers. Lately he added thoroughbred horses to his annual crop.

He stood in the grandstand at the Aurora track yesterday afternoon and watched two of the horses from his farm race to victory. They were Gay Follies and Slip Knot, both well bred 3 year olds, and they won the second and third races to complete a daily double which paid $28.28.

First to Win Double.

Young Mr. Hatcher became the first owner to win a daily double this year and was so happy about it he probably will blossom out with quite a stable soon. His stable now consists of five horses. He purchased the two that won for him yesterday from Stuyvesant Peabody and both are Illinois bred fillies.

IOWA BASEBALL TEAM DEFEATS NOTRE DAME, 7-6

Notre Dame, Ind., May 18.—[Special.]—Iowa won the first of a two game series from Notre Dame here today, 7 to 6. Kenneth Blackman, Iowa left fielder, tripled in the ninth to drive in the winning runs. The Irish chased Charles Mau, sophomore left hander, from the mound with a five run attack in the first inning. Score:

Waiter and Schroeder to Fight Monday

The professional boxing card for Marigold Gardens Monday was completed yesterday. Adolph Wiater, Green Bay, Wis., heavyweight, will fight Ronnie Schroeder of Milwaukee, Wis., for six rounds. Another six round encounter will bring together Eddie Ran and Mickey O'Shea, welterweights. Other bouts:

Mickey Misko vs. Einar Hedquist [4], 150.
Bob La Monte vs. Ken Murray [4], 150.
Mickey Beal vs. Servano Fabia [4], 118.
Mike London vs. Emil Arthurs [wrestling].

An interclub amateur show between boxers representing the Pecha Athletic club and Polish Youth organization will be held at the P. Y. O., 4637 South Ashland avenue, next Friday. Frank Pecha, Pecha A. C., light heavyweight, will meet Bud Krone of the P. Y. O. in the main event of an eight-bout card.

Amateur bouts at the Medinah club on May 28 have been arranged as follows:

William Boudier vs. Earl Mandell, 126.
Morris Graff vs. Ed Eellstrom, 126.
Bob Ahern vs. John Plovanich, 124.
Bill Shapiro vs. Lynn Sandford, 135.
Frank Talaber vs. Stanley Smik [wrestling].

Proceeds will be given to Mrs. Frank Specht, president of the Child Haven association, to aid underprivileged children.

Paul Beeler, timekeeper at the Tunney-Dempsey heavyweight title bout at Soldiers' field in 1927, was in town yesterday en route from California to Pittsburgh, Pa. . . . George De Bray will present an amateur card Tuesday at Jefferson Park gymnasium, 4639 Milwaukee avenue.

Chairman Joe Triner of the Illinois athletic commission has informed the California commission that King Levinsky's illness will prevent the Chicago heavyweight from going through with a bout with Art Laskey at Los Angeles on June 5. Mr. Triner suggested that the match, which Levinsky was unable to fulfil Tuesday because of his rundown condition, be postponed until June 12.

Young Stuhley, Kewanee, Ill., middleweight, and Johnny Phagan were matched yesterday to meet in an eight round main bout at Wabash Square gardens, 49th street and Wabash avenue, June 7. Matchmaker George Trafton also arranged a six round contest between Eddie Ward and Art Donovan. F. M.

Speed and Gas Trials Today at Indianapolis

Indianapolis, Ind., May 18.—(AP)—At least fifteen of the fifty-three cars entered in the 500 mile automobile race to be run here May 30 are ready for the qualifying trials which will begin tomorrow morning.

Wild Bill Cummings of Indianapolis, the pacemaker last year with an average of 118.521 miles an hour in the 25 mile test, and Frankie Brisko of Milwaukee and Fred Frame of Los Angeles, who shared the front row with him, are ready for the test.

The race this year will be limited to 33 cars, as compared with 42 last May. The field was reduced for greater safety to the contestants. The 31 fastest gasoline motored cars will be eligible to race May 30 provided they average 100 miles or better an hour in the qualifying trials. The other two places will go to oil burning speedsters, provided they can do 95 miles an hour.

Limited to 45 Gallons.

The cars must go thirty miles on three gallons of gasoline to qualify.

The race must be run this year on 95 gallons of gasoline and six gallons and two quarts of oil. It will be the first time a restriction has been put on the amount of gasoline used. To complete the contest the cars must average better than 11 miles to the gallon of fuel.

The oil burners, creations of Clessie Cummins of Columbus, Ind., will be without restriction as to the amount of oil they may burn. Cummins expects Dave Evans and Stubby Stubblefield, his drivers, to complete the 500 miles without a pit stop. Evans did this in 1931, but finished outside the money. It was the first oil burner ever raced here.

Lou Schneider Under Ban.

Suspension of Lou Schneider by the American Automobile association, announced today, will make the winner of the Indianapolis race three years ago ineligible to compete May 30.

Schneider is alleged to have competed in unsanctioned races during 1933. He was placed under probation last fall when the A. A. A. contest board first heard of his alleged violation of rules. An investigation was made and he was temporarily suspended.

NEBRASKA AND KANSAS LEAD IN BIG SIX TRIALS

Lincoln, Neb., May 18.—(AP)—Kansas and Nebraska qualified 15 men each and Oklahoma 14 in the 1934 Big Six conference track and field preliminaries this afternoon which saw one new conference record. Elwyn Dees of Kansas registered a shot put mark of 50 feet 1¾ inches.

BREAK RECORDS IN STATE PREP TRACK TRIALS

Shot Put, Broad Jump Marks Bettered.

Champaign, Ill., May 18.—[Special.]—Two new records were established as 500 athletes competed in the preliminaries of the 40th annual State Interscholastic track and field meet at the University of Illinois stadium this afternoon, held under the auspices of the Illinois High School Athletic association.

Jack Freeston, 230 pound youngster from Atlanta, heralded as likely to smash the shot put record of 51 feet 11⅛ inches made by Stephens of Joliet in 1932, lived up to expectations by putting the weight 52 feet 6⅞ inches.

Spurgeon Sets Mark.

Lowell Spurgeon, Centralia, defending champion in the high jump and broad jump, established a new broad jump record of 23 feet 7 inches. The old record, made by Stansell, also of Centralia, in 1930, was 23 feet 3½ inches.

New Trier of Winnetka led the field of 188 high schools, qualifying six athletes in seven events. Englewood, Chicago city champion, was close up, qualifying five men in six events. New Trier's qualifiers were Faymonville in the shot put and discus, Bridges in the quarter mile, Maxwell in the high hurdles, Struebing in the broad jump, Lostal in the discus, and Kingsley in the pole vault. Englewood qualified Banks and Ruizo in the quarter mile, Smith in the high and low hurdles, Chrisman in the high jump, and Cain in the 220 yard dash.

Freeston Leads in Discus.

Freeston, in addition to establishing a new shot put record, led the qualifiers in the discus, with a throw of 129 feet 6 inches. Eddie Hahnfeldt, Palatine, was only a foot behind, and a close struggle is predicted tomorrow between the pair. Faymonville, New Trier, is another competitor likely to win the event.

Preliminaries were held in all events except the half mile and mile runs and the relay. Finals will start tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Number qualified by each school follows:

Rock Island, Hillsboro, Evanston, and Rockford, 3.

Deerfield, Kankakee, Carrier Mills, Oak Park, Sterling, Urbana, Atlanta, Divernon, West, Aurora, Centralia, Palatine, and Sesser, 2.

Proviso, Pontiac, Normal, Duquoin, Granite City, Ottawa, York, Elmhurst; Naperville, Washburn, West Frankfort, Pleasant Plains, Prophetstown, Bowen, Chicago; Greenfield, Lewistown, Charleston, Champaign, East St. Louis, Litchfield, Johnston City, Harlem, Martinsville, Hinsdale, Canton, Carterville, Lostant, Peoria Central, Havana, Kincaid, Pittsfield, Senn, Chicago; Tilden, Chicago; Wood River, Springfield, Eldorado, Greenup, Erie, Virginia, Pletsbans, Springfield; Glenbard, Glen Ellyn; East Moline, Metropolis, Monticello, Robinson, Woodstock, Beardstown, East, Aurora; and Fairbury, 1.

YALE, PRINCETON, CORNELL CREWS TO MEET TODAY

Derby, Conn., May 18.—(AP)—Yale, Princeton, and Cornell, principals in the seventeenth Carnegie cup regatta on the Housatonic river tomorrow, completed preparations late today for the test which will determine the sprint rowing champion of the east.

The three crews held light workouts at the scene of tomorrow's classic, each taking a trial row over the two mile course. Yale and Princeton are undefeated this season.

SIEGEL TO FACE DAVIDSON FOR BIG 10 NET TITLE

Lowery Upsets Tetting, Seeded No. 1.

The Big Ten's best tennis player is either Max Davidson, of the University of Chicago, or Seymour Siegel of the University of Michigan. Sole survivors after four rounds of play in the annual conference tennis meet, Davidson and Siegal will meet this afternoon at 2 o'clock on the Midway courts to decide the 1934 singles title.

Lowery Upsets Tetting.

It was Emmett Lowery, Purdue, however, who furnished the feature of yesterday's card, defeating Earl Tetting, Northwestern, in the quarter-final round. Refusing to be baffled by Tetting's soft style, Lowery kept pounding the baseline and passing Tetting when he tried to get to the net, and won 6-4, 7-5. He was not equal to Siegel's precision in the afternoon round, however, and lost, 6-2, 6-2.

Michigan led in team scoring at the end of the day's play, having counted 11½ points. Chicago, however, is conceded a better chance of taking the title. The Maroons have scored 11 points.

Maroons Face Ohio.

The Chicago doubles team of Davidson and Weiss, Big Ten champions last year, will face Chambers and Holles, Ohio State, in a semi-final at 10 o'clock this morning.

SEMI-FINAL SINGLES.

Davidson, Chicago, defeated Chambers, Ohio State, 6-1, 6-4.

Seymour Siegel, Michigan, defeated Emmett Lowery, Purdue, 6-2, 6-2.

QUARTER-FINAL SINGLES.

Lowery, Purdue, defeated Tetting, Northwestern, 6-4, 7-5.

Siegel, Michigan, defeated Scherer, Minnesota, 4-6, 6-2, 8-6.

Davidson, Chicago, defeated Kean, Michigan, 6-0, 6-3.

Chambers, Ohio State, defeated Appelt, Michigan, 8-6, 6-2.

FIRST ROUND DOUBLES.

Black and Howes, Wisconsin, defeated Becker and Geist, Illinois, 6-8, 6-0, 9-7.

BRAVES HAMMER WINFORD; DEFEAT CARDINALS, 6 TO 2

Rookie Fails in Debut as Major Leaguer.

Boston, Mass., May 18.—(AP)—Hammering Jim Winford, rookie pitcher from Columbus, for three runs in the first two innings and ruining his major league debut, the Boston Braves today trounced the St. Louis Cardinals, 6 to 2, in the second game of the series.

Fred Frankhouse started for the Braves and was highly effective until Pepper Martin's line drive struck him on the leg and forced his retirement in the seventh. Jim Elliott, the Braves' latest pitching acquisition, then took a turn, but was yanked in favor of Ben Cantwell in the eighth when he filled the bases with none out. Score:

SHOSTRUM WINS TWICE IN PREP TENNIS TOURNEY

Champaign, Ill., May 18.—(AP)—John Shostrum, Parker High school, Chicago, defending champion in the Illinois prep tennis tournament, advanced to the semi-finals this afternoon with easy victories in the third and quarter-final rounds.

He defeated Ken Johnson, Moline, in one of two quarter-final matches played. Bob Sively, Peoria Central, also gained the semi-final by conquering Bill Condy, New Trier. Shostrum and Sively will meet tomorrow morning.

With three quarter-final matches played in the doubles competition, the combinations of Murphy-Murphy, Tilden, Chicago; Bunt-Zajoczkowski, Lane, Chicago, and Shirk-Jones, Bloomington, remain for the right to battle it out for the semi-finals. The teams of Baird-Quayle, Oak Park, and Snider-Branom, Lincoln, have not yet played their quarter-final match.

Higgins Beats Chinski in Fronton Windup

Nestor Brugreman defeated Angelo Garlow.
Augie Mandell knocked out Art Zimmer [2].
Bobby Millsapp knocked out Steve Zene [2].

Stewart Beats Indians, 3 to 1, for Senators

Cleveland, O., May 18.—(AP)—Southpaw Walter Stewart held the Cleveland Indians in check today while the Senators pounded Lloyd Brown for 12 hits and a 3 to 1 victory.

Nearly two-thirds of the 12,000 fans were women. One large feminine fan became entangled in a turnstile, but was extricated in time to see the game. Score:

Gaston Opposes Mahaffey Today in Sox-A's Final

The White Sox and Athletics will play their final this afternoon with Milt Gaston pitted against Leroy Mahaffey.

The A's have the distinction of being the only team in the American league over which the Sox enjoy an advantage. They have beaten the Philadelphians two out of three. Their next best showing is against the third place Cleveland Indians. They beat the Indians, 20 to 10, on April 30, but the Indians evened the series, 12 to 1, the next day.

Milt Gaston, today's pitcher, has developed into a problem child. After holding the Washington Senators to three infield singles the first day Jimmy Dykes was boss, for an 8 to 1 victory, he came back in Boston last Sunday, loaded the bases in the second inning on three walks, then pitched a home run ball to Bill Walters, who until then had been hitting slightly more than .100 for the season.

It was announced at White Sox headquarters that Catcher Eddie Madjeski, recently given his unconditional release by the Athletics, will arrive this morning for a physical examination and with a view to signing with the Sox.

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.

MANAGER JIMMY DYKES of the White Sox is known for his talks at Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions luncheons, all manner of suppers and rallies and radio addresses, but this department has just learned that he once supplanted the pastor of a Methodist church in New Jersey, something he never did in his own Catholic parish in Philadelphia. . . . "After the world series of 1929 the Methodists asked me to show up at evening services," says James. . . . "When I got there I found they expected me to deliver the sermon. . . . So I gave them a 30 minute talk, using baseball parables to stress my moralizing. . . . The effort must have clicked, for they took up a special collection and slipped me 100 bucks."

Pug Lund, Minnesota's great half back, says the hardest he ever has been tackled on a football field was by Ed Widseth, sophomore tackle, in a spring practice game recently. . . . Lund was knocked cold, completely paralyzed from head to foot. . . . Sports goods factories report a 40 per cent increase in orders over last year. . . . Al Simmons has just paid $2.50 for the Pulitzer prize book and is planning to take up reading as a recreation. . . . The average score of Big Ten baseball games this spring has been 7.1 to 3.5 . . . 21 of the 31 games have been decided by a margin of from one to three runs. . . .

Zeke Bonura, White Sox first baseman, called on Jack Sharkey in Boston a week ago. . . . After giving Zeke an autographed photograph, Jack confessed that he considered himself a better fighter than Jack Dempsey. . . . "And maybe I am a better first baseman than Lou Gehrig," said Zeke, leaving hastily. . . . One of the old time prize fighters who is in good shape financially is Tommy Ryan, one of the greatest middleweights. . . . He owns a beautiful home in Palms, alongside the motion picture colony at Culver City, about 12 miles from the center of Los Angeles. . . . Ryan did well in the real estate boom, getting in and out at the right times. . . . His only worry is an artificial eye. . . . He wonders if it matches the good one. . . .

George Keogan has renewed his contract for next year as coach of the Notre Dame basketball team. . . . Bill McClure, a guard on Illinois' last championship football team, rents bicycles on the campus. . . . A Wayne university [formerly Detroit City college] track star, in need of dental work but lacking funds, took three large gold medals to his dentist, which the medical man melted, using part of the gold for filling the teeth and accepting the remainder for payment of services. . . . Ralph Ruble, one armed pitcher for the University of Maryland, has shut out three teams this season, has pitched 28 scoreless innings, has struck out 22 men and is leading the team in batting with a .367 average. . . . Frank Murray, football coach at Marquette, is camera shy. . . . He has posed with his team only once in 10 years. . . .

Bob Eddy, president of the Aurora race track, hasn't missed a Sunday baseball game in six years. . . . Otto [last name unknown], who cooked Benny Leonard into the lightweight championship and Max Schmeling into the heavyweight title, is preparing the groceries for Barney Ross at the camp where he is training for his match with Jimmy McLarnin. . . . President William Harridge of the American league has been asked to help the Athletics convince the city fathers of Philadelphia that it is okay to open Shibe park before 2 o'clock on Sundays. . . . The new Sunday baseball law says teams may play between 2 and 6 p. m., which is construed by officials to mean the park can not be opened before that time. . . . This would eliminate Sunday double headers. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Babe Ruth pounded out his ninth home run. . . . Frank Chance told friends he would be back managing the Sox in a month. . . . Helen Wills and Molla Mallory sailed for Europe to compete in foreign matches . . . Jock Hutchison and Laurie Ayton defeated Chick Evans and Al Espinosa, 2 and 1, in an exhibition match at Olympia Fields.

Cubs Win, 9-5, as Klein Hits 12th Homer

down until six had scored in the third. Hack singled to left and Galan walked. Holley let go a duster at Klein and the Cub slugger was grazed by the ball. That filled the bases. Cuyler singled past third to score Hack. Then Holley threw a wide one that made Stainback sit down in the dust. Undaunted by this, the blond youngster leaned into the next pitch and it whistled into the left field bleachers for four runs. Hansen stepped in to set down Camilli and Jurges, but Hartnett drove homer No. 8 over the right field wall to round out the half dozen runs.

Camilli Errs Twice.

Camilli's brainstorm let the Phillies cut in with a run in their half of the third. Moore opened with a popup over the right side of the diamond. Camilli dropped it, partly because a couple of of his mates insisted on making the catch. Camilli picked up the ball and threw it to second in an effort to stop Moore, but the ball went into center field and Moore moved to third. Allen fanned, but Hendrick singled to fetch Moore home. Fullis also singled, but Wilson tapped into a double play.

Possibly because he felt he should keep even with Camilli on errors, Jurges offended for the second time in the fifth, and this grew into the Phils' second run. Jurges made a bad throw on Allen's grounder with one out. Hendrick singled to center, sending Allen to third. He scored while Hendrick was being forced on Fullis' roller to Jurges.

Fullis Deprived of Hit.

There were four lusty hits off Bush in the eighth, but only three of them will show in the records. Hendrick opened with a single to left. Fullis singled to center, but Hendrick thought Cuyler might catch the ball, so he remained near first. Cuyler got the ball on the first bounce and shot it to Jurges, forcing Hendrick and robbing Fullis of his hit. Wilson also singled, and a pass to Chiozza filled the bases. Fullis scored while Hack was tossing out Haslin. Then Hurst, batting for Grabowski, doubled, to send Wilson and Chiozza home. The flurry ended with Jurges throwing out Bartell.

Tinning to Make First Start of Season Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., May 18.—Bud Tinning will make his first start of the season tomorrow when the Cubs square off for the final of the series with the Phillies. Bud has shaken off whatever it was that was causing soreness in his right shoulder. Phil Collins probably will be Tinning's opponent.

A year ago today Gabby Hartnett was setting the pace for National league hitters with a modest average of .379.

Johnny Moore, sent to Cincinnati by the Cubs in the Babe Herman deal, made his debut as a Philly today. In his first effort at bat he nicked Bush for a double to right.

The Cubs are going to make one of those snappy getaways tomorrow evening. They're going to rush from the ball park to a nearby station to catch an early train for New York, where they'll dwell while running through a three-game series at Brooklyn.

This was ladies' day at Baker bowl, but even with a free gate the fair ones refused to give the Phillies much of a tumble. Only about 1,000 guests showed up. The paid attendance was approximately 3,000.

Reunions and Tourneys on Golf Program

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Divots have been blooming and birdies dropping into cups for many a dogleg in the Chicago district golf season already, but they will blossom and fall in earnest today, when a number of leading clubs will hold their annual spring reunions and tournaments for new members. Among these are Lincolnshire, Ravisloe, and Flossmoor on the south and Skokie and Sunset Ridge on the north. The Big Run Golf club, located on 135th street, one mile west of Archer avenue, also will conduct a spring frolic.

Frank Walsh of Bryn Mawr, Tom Armour of Medinah, Harry Cooper of Glen Oak, and Horton Smith of Oak Park, Chicago's ablest playing professionals, are at it again. They will tee off at 3 p. m. tomorrow in an exhibition match at Bryn Mawr, with Frank and Tommy being matched against Horton and Harry.

The fourth annual Illinois open and amateur championships will be decided the week of June 25 at the Illini Country club of Springfield, Ill. The open event will be at 18 holes on Monday and another 18 on Tuesday morning. On Tuesday afternoon will be held a pro-amateur best ball event at 18 holes.

The open title at present, carrying with it the professional title and $500 in cash, is held by Harry Cooper, while Don Armstrong of Aurora won the amateur championship and with it the Louis L. Emmerson trophy. Amateurs will qualify at 27 holes on Wednesday for the championship and three other flights. Play in the championship final will be at 36 holes.

The entry fee is $5 and must be sent to A. W. Hale, chairman of the tournament committee of the Chicago District Golf association, 14 East Jackson boulevard, Chicago.

The Harlem Golf club will celebrate its twenty-fifth year of operation as a daily fee course tomorrow with 18 holes of competition for blind bogey prizes, followed by a silver anniversary dinner. More than 2,000,000 rounds of golf have been played at Harlem during the 25 year period.

The Honor tournament, first of a series of events to be held by the growing Chicago Junior Golfers' association, will be held next Saturday at the Chicago Meadows Golf club, 58th street and Cicero avenue. The tournament is open to all boys between the ages of 14 and 21 who live in the Chicago district. An honor cup will be given to the winner. The event will have no qualifying rounds or handicaps attached to it, but will consist simply of 18 holes of medal play. Each contestant will be on his honor to record his score correctly, with a view to doing away with "pencil pushing." All boys who intend to take part in the tourney are advised to phone Tom W. Murphy, president of the association, at Englewood 5208.

A number of entrants in the Western conference tournament to be played over the water course at Kildeer Monday and Tuesday for the second consecutive year, are expected to be out at the club tomorrow getting in a few practice licks. All ten of the conference schools will be represented in this years' tournament, since Iowa and Purdue, the 1933 absentees, will send teams. John Fischer, the Michigan star who won the title the last two years, is now in Scotland with the American Walker cup team, but a number of others, including Charley Kocsis, also of Michigan, and Pat Sawyer of Minnesota, are favored to repeat or better his winning score of 1933.

The thirtieth annual Midlothian Derby, one of the oldest and most popular invitational tournaments in golf, will go to the post at the big south side club next Saturday, concluding with the stretch drive on Sunday. A record field, one of the largest in the last five years, is expected to run in the two day event.

W. E. Williams of Olympia Fields has joined the hole in one league, scoring an ace on the 150 yard sixth hole of the No. 4 course at Olympia Fields with a midiron. Playing with him were T. J. Walsh, A. J. Riffel, and C. J. Culloden.

SCHEDULE TOUGH TEAMS, M'MILLIN'S PLAN FOR INDIANA

Bo McMillin, new head football coach at Indiana university, was the guest of honor at a banquet given by the Chicago alumni chapter of the university at the Medinah club of Chicago last night.

McMillin announced Indiana's football schedule for 1935 and '36, which was arranged at the conference meeting in Evanston yesterday and which includes Michigan, Ohio State, Iowa, Chicago, and Purdue each of the two years. A "couple of breathers" would be scheduled from among New York university, Nebraska, and Notre Dame, McMillin said.

OUSTED HEAD OF CUBA COLLAPSES AS HE ENDS EXILE

Crowd of 50,000 Greets Grau in Havana.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, May 18.—Former President Grau San Martin returned to Havana today after a self-imposed exile of three and a half months in Mexico. Almost crushed by a cheering throng of about 50,000 Cubans, he fainted twice as well wishers sought to embrace him.

Five hundred policeman, and as many soldiers and marines with fixed bayonets, attempted to check the rushing mob as Dr. Grau landed from the steamer Sierra Ventana. After a struggle, the soldiers escorted him to an automobile several blocks away from the pier.

Enthusiasts Hold Parade.

The former president's car crept through the crowd as enthusiasts jumped on the running board to try to pat him on the back. Others hung to the spare tire rack. The three mile drive to Grau's seaside residence in the suburb, Vedado, required 90 minutes.

Decorated automobiles and trucks carrying bands led the procession. Others were on horseback. The majority of Grau's admirers were on foot, carrying welcoming banners.

Whistles and sirens kept up a din for several hours.

Another crowd had gathered about Grau's residence. The former president was put to bed for an hour upon his arrival. Attendants said he had collapsed from extreme exhaustion.

Among the hundreds of delegations which greeted Grau were two sent by President Carlos Mendieta and Col. Fulgencio Batista, chief of stat.

Ousted by Military Coup.

Grau was made president Sept. 4, 1933, after a "top sergeants'" coup d'état which deposed Carlos Manuel de Cespedes. Four months later, Grau was replaced by Mendieta in another military coup.

In a statement Grau declared he is convinced the only way to restore peace in Cuba is to order presidential elections immediately. He added that he is resuming his professorship at Havana university.

A bomb today caused considerable damage to the home of former Senator Fausto Menocal, a brother of former President Mario G. Menocal. Fausto Menocal recently was accused of having assisted the escape of Machadistas to the United States after Gerardo Machado's overthrow in August, 1933. Two other bombs wrecked the home of Dr. Jaime Llambes Toldaras, a former judge, and a jewelry store.

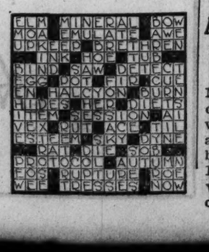
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



IRENES OF RADIO IN FOREFRONT OF AIR WAVE NEWS

Miss Wicker to Play at Enchanted Isle.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The Irenes of radio are in the news. Ireene Wicker, the Singing Lady of W-G-N-NBC, will entertain the youngsters at Enchanted iland again this summer. Ireene plans to go to England on her vacation in August to gather material for her radio song and story series. Recently she received a letter from Mrs. James Roosevelt, mother of the President, in which she promised to provide interesting material about the President's boyhood which Ireene will use in a special broadcast on his next birthday.

Irene Rich is ready to launch her new radio sketch, "Jewels of Enchantment," next Wednesday over NBC. The show will be fashioned somewhat after the movie serials of old. On May 28 Miss Rich opens in Atlantic City in the stage production, "Three Blind Mice," which may go to Broadway a little later.

Two Other Irenes Active.

Irene Beasley will substitute on the program featuring Wendell Hall while the red headed music maker vacations for eight weeks this summer. Miss Beasley will also appear regularly henceforth with Phil Baker, Bottle, and Beetle.

Irene Taylor is back in New York for a new air series after a week's visit with the Bing Crosbys in Hollywood. Irene and Bing both sang with Paul Whiteman a few years back.

Bing's younger brother, Bob, is the featured vocalist with Anson Weeks' orchestra which supplants Wayne King's at the Aragon and on W-G-N schedules beginning at 8:30 this evening.

Singin' Sam's [Harry Frankel's] bride, whom he is bringing to Chicago Monday evening for his first broadcast on his new CBS series, was once the wife of Ned Wayburn, the theatrical producer. She is known as Helene Smiles Davis because she introduced the famous war-time song "Smiles."

Dot Page Gets Own Program.

Dorothy Page, the titian tressed contralto who sings with Seymour Simons' orchestra on W-G-N, starts a program of her own at 5 o'clock Monday over WENR-NBC. . . . Ruth Etting, having completed her radio series, is on the way to the west coast. She will return to the air next September. . . . Kate Smith, now in vaudeville on the coast, will return to the air on the California Melodies program at 7:30 p. m. Sunday, WIND, singing "Going to Heaven on a Mule," or possibly "Going to Heaven on a Twenty Mule Team."

Thomas P. Convey, president of KWK, St. Louis, who died yesterday, brought both Bob Elson and John Harrington to the microphone; also Tony Cabooch. John was with the station for five years. He came to the studio one day merely to tell them he wasn't satisfied with their baseball broadcasts. He landed a job. . . . W-G-N's "Dream Ship" will occupy the 10:15 hour every evening henceforth. . . . Morton Downey will broadcast two programs a week when he arrives in Chicago next week.

THOMAS CONVEY, RADIO PIONEER, DIES IN ST. LOUIS

Relatives of Thomas Patrick Convey, for forty years a resident of Chicago and known in the middle west as a pioneer in radio, received news yesterday of his sudden death in St. Louis of complications following an operation. Mr. Convey was 48 years old, and the owner of station KMOX at St. Louis.

He is survived by his widow, two children, Charlotte, 24, and Robert, 22, and eight brothers and sisters. The brothers are William, 68, of 4728 Oakenwald avenue; John, 56, of 7924 Bishop street, and David, 58, of Mason City, Ia. The sisters are Mrs. Frank McDonough, 54, 134 South Waller avenue; Mrs. Raymond Austin, 51, 201 East Delaware place; Mrs. Sybil Makeel, 66, 1208 North State street, and Sisters Mary Callista and Mary Fidelis of the Sisters of Mercy.

Funeral and burial will be at St. Louis Monday.

Mrs. Julia Blanshard, Newspaper Woman, Dies

New York, May 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. Julia Blanshard, newspaper woman and writer, and wife of Paul Blanshard, commissioner of accounts, died at her home in Queens today. Mrs. Blanshard was born in Quincy, Ill., 42 years ago, the daughter of former Representative George Anderson. She worked on newspapers in Rochester, N. Y.; San Diego, and Newark, N. J. For the last seven years she had been women's page editor of the newspaper Enterprise association. Surviving, in addition to Mr. Blanshard and the two sons, is a sister, Ruth Dean of Chicago.

James L. Ford, Veteran Railroad Conductor, Dies

James L. Ford, veteran conductor for the Illinois Central railroad, died yesterday in the Illinois Central hospital. He was 68 years old and lived at 2536 East 73d street. Mr. Ford was born in Memphis, Tenn. He had lived in Chicago since 1913. He was employed by the Illinois Central system for thirty-five years, a large share of the time on the Diamond Special train between Chicago and St. Louis. Surviving Mr. Ford are his widow, Eva, and eight children. The body will be in the chapel at 6659 South Halsted street until 2 p. m. today. Burial will be at Clinton, Ill., tomorrow.

Baby Dies from Poison He Swallows on Visit

James Tromper, 2 years old, died last night in his home at 4825 Wabansia avenue from the effects of poison which he swallowed yesterday at Crown Point, Ind. The child was with his parents at the home of friends in that city when he found the poison. He was given first aid there, then brought home last evening.

Mother of Ex-Sherif of Williamson County Dies

Herrin, Ill., May 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. William J. Coleman, 74, mother of former Sherif Oren Coleman, who was superintendent of the reformatory at Pontiac, is dead. She was a member of a pioneer family here, formerly Emma Reed, and for several years was a school teacher in Williamson county.

WILLIAM HARDIE, LONG BANKER IN WAUKEGAN, DIES

William T. Hardie, 74 years old, retired Waukegan banker, died suddenly yesterday in his home at 414 North Sheridan road, Waukegan. He had been suffering from heart disease.

Mr. Hardie was vice president of the First National bank of Waukegan until his retirement two years ago. He had been a director of the bank for 18 years. He moved to Waukegan from Houghton, Mich., in 1871, and had lived there since.

Surviving Mr. Hardie are his widow, Mrs. Mary E. Hardie, and a son, Francis Hardie, the latter of Cleveland. Funeral services will be announced today. Mr. Hardie was a 33d degree Mason.

Mrs. Mary Sessa, 99, Dies; 33 Descendants Survive

Mrs. Mary Sessa, 99 years old, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Rose Cozzi, 1106 Taylor street. Mrs. Sessa, who was born in Italy, came to Chicago thirty-three years ago. She is survived by three daughters, eleven grandchildren, sixteen great-grandchildren, and three great-great-grandchildren. Funeral services will be held from Our Lady of Pompeii church at 9:30 a. m. Monday.

EDITH M'CORMICK ESTATE FIGHTS DATO BOND CLAIM

Attempts to prove that the estate of the late Edith Rockefeller McCormick is liable for $77,000 worth of real estate bonds of the defunct real estate firm of Krenn & Dato, now held by Mrs. Minnie Noon Dato, were resumed yesterday before Probate Judge John F. O'Connell.

Mrs. McCormick was director of the firm. Mrs. Dato asserts that Mrs. McCormick guaranteed the bonds. The claim is for $85,000, which includes accrued interest, and was originally filed last December.

Mrs. Dato, wife of Edward Dato, a member of the firm, states she bought $55,000 worth of the bonds in 1925 and 1926. In 1931, she says, she sold them back to the firm, and immediately repurchased them and $22,000 worth more, on the stipulation of Mrs. McCormick's guarantee.

Minutes of the meeting where the transaction took place were introduced in evidence, but attorneys for the estate hold that Mrs. McCormick was not present at that time. Judge O'Connell continued the hearing to June 20, and suggested that Edwin Krenn, also a member of the firm, be subpenaed.

STATUES OF LEE, WASHINGTON PUT IN HALL OF FAME

Washington, D. C., May 18.—(AP)—Virginia received the nation's belated thanks tonight for giving Washington and Lee to the Hall of Fame.

Bronze statues of the two famous sons of the Old Dominion were banked with flowers and the men they portrayed eulogized—with congressional sanction—after a 25 years' delay.

Contrasted with house floor debate on whether Lee should be given national recognition—the stumbling block to official acknowledgment—were the words of Senator David I. Walsh, Massachusetts Democrat, who received the statues as "the delegate of congress."

Acceptance of the Lee statue, he said, "is in the nature of a final attestation of the entire extinguishment of the passions which once divided our country and set brother against brother, and which lingered long after all arms had been laid down."

"The animosities engendered by the civil war have long since been obliterated," he added.

Gov. George C. Peery of Virginia offering the statues said a review of the roster of Virginia's illustrious sons "brings us unerringly back to two."

SEEKS WIDOW'S SHARE IN ESTATE OF THOMAS QUINN

A petition seeking the widow's share of the $100,000 estate of the late Thomas Quinn, Chicago contractor, was filed yesterday in behalf of Mrs. Josephine O'Rourke Quinn before George B. Weiss, assistant to Probate Judge John F. O'Connell.

Mr. Quinn died last Jan. 23 in Wexford county, Ireland, without leaving a will. Proof of heirship was immediately filed in behalf of four sons and one daughter by a previous marriage.

Mrs. Quinn's name was not included, according to the children, because of a question as to the legality of Quinn's second marriage. Her lawyer, Patrick J. Cahill, introduced what purported to be a marriage certificate as a proof. Mr. Weiss continued the hearing until next week.

CAPT. MANSFIELD OF SEA RESCUE FAME ENDS LIFE

New York, May 18.—[Special.]—Capt. Frederick J. Mansfield, 70 years old, who in 1913 was decorated by the United States and Great Britain for his rescue work when the Volturno burned at sea, shot himself through the heart today with his old service revolver at his home in Jersey City.

After his retirement fifteen years ago, Capt. Mansfield traveled about the country and settled in Jersey City where he and his wife operated a toy and stationery shop.

For the last few months he was in ill health and despondent.

Mrs. Madalon Foley Dies; Rites Monday in Galesburg

Mrs. Madalon Foley, 41 years old, wife of Joe Foley, general manager of the Chicago Stadium Operating company, died yesterday of pneumonia in the Mercyville sanitarium of North Aurora. Funeral services will be held at 9:30 o'clock Monday morning in St. Joseph Catholic church in Galesburg. Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery in Galesburg, Mrs. Foley's birthplace. Mrs. Foley had been in ill health for two years. The body will be in the chapel at 2346 West Madison street until 10 o'clock tonight, when it will be sent to Galesburg. Her husband and three sisters, Mrs. Joseph Lair and Mrs. Henry Clayton of Chicago and Mrs. Eugene Mahon of Aurora, survive.

W. B. Chittenden, Veteran in Soap Business, Dead

Warde B. Chittenden, 232 Lincoln drive, Glencoe, director of purchases for the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet company, died yesterday at the Evanston hospital of uræmia. Mr. Chittenden, a veteran executive in the soap business, came to the Chicago area from St. Louis about six years ago. He is survived by his widow, a son, Loker, and two daughters, Mrs. Christine Homan and Mrs. Harriet Pierson. Funeral services will be held in St. Louis on Monday.

J. O. WHITAKER'S WILL DISCLOSES $200,000 ESTATE

The late Jonathan Orville Whitaker, head of a hardware manufacturing concern, left an estate estimated in excess of $200,000, it was revealed yesterday, when his will was admitted to probate by George B. Weiss, assistant to Probate Judge John F. O'Connell. Mr. Whitaker died on May 12 in his rooms at the Chicago Athletic association. He was 75 years old.

Under the terms of the will a brother, William Whitaker, who has been missing for the last seven years, is left $5,000, provided the brother files a claim within one year after the will has been probated. If the brother is not found the bequest is left with the estate, which is divided equally among a sister, three nieces, and two nephews. Charles Albert Swanson, a friend, is given $5,000.

Eleven other wills were admitted to probate and filed with Clerk Mitchell C. Robin. The wills are those of:

JORGEN N. SKOURUP, died March 5. Estate, $55,000, to two sons, three daughters, and granddaughter, Ella N. Dennis and Alma L. Christiansen, daughters, co-executrices.

SAMUEL H. SMITH, died April 3. Estate, $45,000, to widow, daughter, and grandson, Annie E. Smith, widow, executrix.

JOHN K. MURPHY DIES SUDDENLY OF HEART ATTACK

John K. Murphy, attorney for the Lincoln park board, a special assistant state's attorney under three administrations and former counsel for the forest preserves, died Thursday of a sudden heart attack in his home at 2244 Lincoln Park West. He was 47 years old.

Mr. Murphy graduated from Loyola and then entered the University of Chicago law school, where he finished in 1909. He began law practice with the firm of Newby, Murphy & Walker, and at his death was head of the law firm of Murphy, Hollywood & Brown.

Mr. Murphy was a world war veteran, enlisting as a private. He was discharged a lieutenant of infantry in 1919. He was active in the affairs of the American Legion. He was a member of the Chicago Athletic association, the South Shore Country, Exmoor Country, and the Opera clubs, and the American, Illinois and Chicago Bar associations.

U. S. PERMITTED DEALS IN GRAIN, PLEA OF CUTTEN

Delay in Prosecution Cited at Hearing.

An attempt to show that Arthur W. Cutten's alleged violations of the grain futures administration act from 1929 to 1931 were not considered particularly odious at the time, and that the government was remiss in not pressing its prosecution, was made yesterday as the government's case against the big grain speculator dragged into its fifth day.

Orville J. Taylor, attorney for Cutten, and L. A. Fitz, head of the grain futures administration's Chicago office, provided the major portion of the day's show. Frequent objections to Taylor's line of questioning of Fitz, the only witness, by Leo F. Tierney, attorney for the government, and as frequent overrulings by Referee C. R. Brooks, before whom the hearing is conducted in the Appraisers Stores building, led to several verbal tilts.

Government Charges Concealment.

The government charges Cutten used several accounts which he controled to cover up his operations and thus avoid reporting holdings which exceeded 500,000 bushels, which is mandatory under the act.

Attorney Taylor also sought to bring out what he termed "the government's implications that Cutten's operations resulted in a reaction in wheat prices of 12 cents a bushel between April 10 and April 26, 1930," were only a "drop in the bucket compared with the government's activities in grain futures during the same period." Fitz, however, refused to be queried on this subject, maintaining it would be a violation of the act, which requires that all disclosures of market operations be kept confidential.

He was supported by Tierney, who declared his witness would not provide records of these operations asked by Taylor unless so ordered by the referee. The hearing adjourned until Monday morning with this issue somewhat clouded.

Testifies Reports Not Asked.

Taylor's examination of Fitz brought out the fact that from Nov. 4, 1927, until Jan. 6, 1931, no correspondence occurred between the grain futures administration and Cutten. No mention of alleged violations of the act was made until a letter from Fitz to the market operator dated Feb. 5, 1932, subsequent to which time Cutten resumed reporting all market operations in excess of a half million bushels.

"Now, Mr. Fitz," Taylor queried, "isn't it a fact that no attempt was made to enforce provisions requiring reports of accounts in excess of 500,000 bushels in 1927, 1928, 1929, and 1930?"

"It is not a fact."

"Wasn't there a gentlemen's agreement that matters like this were to be referred to the business conduct committee of the Board of Trade?"

"No. This agreement only covered factors pertinent to keeping the market in order not covered by the act."

Reported Cutten Short Sales.

"When you discovered Cutten's 6,600,000 bushel short position on May 24, 1925, and his 11,300,000 bushel short account Sept. 8, 1926, did you report this to Washington and to the business conduct committee, with which you had an agreement to report on lines reaching 5,000,000 bushels?"

"We always reported everything."

"Does this mean you considered the government's holdings of grain through the Farmer's National Grain corporation and the Stabilization corporation in taking action?"

"We reported everything."

Fitz explained in reply to questioning that reports of 5,000,000 bushel holdings to the Board of Trade was taken to prevent a dangerous market situation. Controled accounts, he explained, were those carried in another name, where the principal supplied the margin or guaranteed the account, gave instructions to execute orders, shared in the profits, and received statements of the account's condition.

Ask Washington Rulings.

Fitz said the normal procedure in ascertaining whether an account was controled was to submit the facts to Washington for a ruling.

"Did you submit the Cutten accounts?" continued Taylor.

"Yes, the whole case, the last in April, this year, but many details earlier."

"Did you submit the facts in 1930 and 1931?"

"Only by word of mouth or pencilled memorandum."

"Did former Secretary Hyde know of these alleged violations?"

"He knew of the market situation, but probably not of Cutten's failure to report.

"On May 10, 1930, your record shows Cutten was long 1,800,000 bushels. Why didn't you press for a report?"

"Because he was in and out of the market so frequently and we were watching for large lines. Three days later this account had been liquidated and had gone over to the short side."

"You didn't think this situation then was dangerous?"

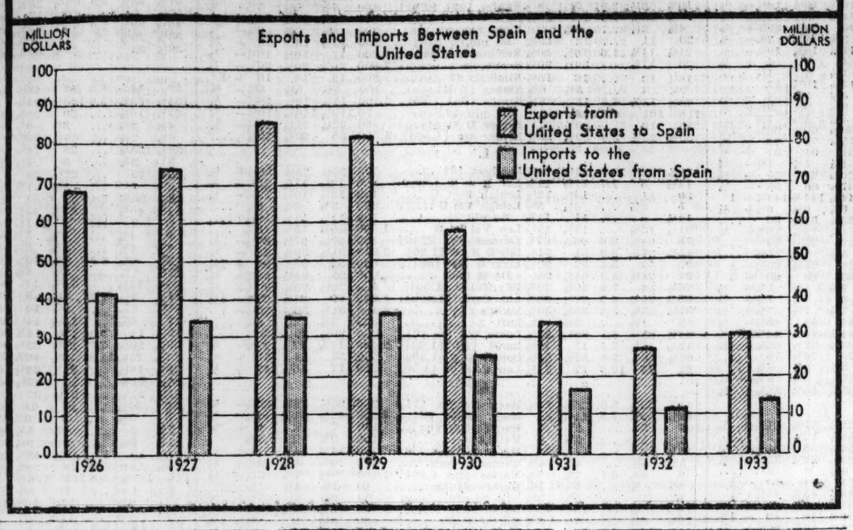
"No."

Case May Be Appealed.

Questions and answers continued through a verbal labyrinth but always leading up to the implication that had the government notified Cutten of his failure to report his position such reports would have been forthcoming.

Conviction of Cutten on the charges, which would prevent his future trading in American contract markets, will result in the case going to the Supreme court if necessary, Mr. Taylor said. He added that Cutten probably will not testify at the hearing and unless additional evidence is introduced by government counsel no defense witnesses will be called.

Trade of the United States With Spain for Eight Years Compared



Harris Trust Plans Closing of Affiliate

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The Harris Trust and Savings bank yesterday announced plans for winding up the affairs of its investment affiliate, the N. W. Harris company. The plan provides for the distribution of $25 a share in cash to the bank's shareholders about July 1.

At the same time Albert W. Harris, chairman of the board, announced that the present dividend rate on the bank's stock of $12 annually will probably be reduced to $6 yearly so that the policy of turning back part of the earnings into the business may be continued.

The stock of the investment company is trusteed for the benefit of the bank's stockholders and under the terms of the banking act of 1933 the affiliate must be segregated from the bank.

$1,500,000 Cash on Hand.

The $25 a share distribution will be made from $1,500,000 cash which the company has on hand. In addition, the company holds securities with an estimated value between $200,000 and $400,000 which will probably be distributed at a later date.

The proposed action announced yesterday marks the second distribution of the affiliate's assets. In January $900,000 was transferred to the bank's surplus account and $600,000, or $10 a share, was paid to the bank's stockholders.

The proposed distribution is subject to the approval of the bank's stockholders and is contingent upon there being no change in the banking act before June 16, the date on which the clause requiring the change goes into effect. The bank's management does not believe that such a change is likely. The distribution will be made to shareholders of record June 15.

Proxies Sent Stockholders.

Proxies authorizing the trustees of the company to carry out the plans were sent to holders of the bank's stock. This includes authority to change the bank's stock certificates which now carry the legend of the stock's beneficial interest in the company.

"For many years it was our custom to pay out in dividends only about half of our earnings, the other half of which was used to increase the capital, surplus, and reserves of the bank," Mr. Harris said in explaining the proposed cut in the regular dividend rate.

"Of our present capital, surplus, and undivided profits totaling over $14,200,000, our stockholders have paid in $8,900,000 and the remaining $10,400,000 has been accumulated from earnings left in the business.

Lower Rate Is Favored.

"While we now have ample capital, surplus, and reserves the officers feel that this is a good time to go back to our former practice of paying out only on half of our earnings. It is too early to determine what our earnings will be for this year, but after making all the necessary charges our earnings for the last two years have not been much more than the current 12 per cent dividend, so that we shall probably pay at the rate of 1½ per cent a quarter for the time being."

Mr. Harris added that the guaranty of deposits and government strengthening of the banks has restored confidence in the banking system.

BUSINESS GAINING, DON'T DISTURB IT, BANK LEADER URGES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 18.—Reelected president of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks in the final session of its annual conference at the Waldorf-Astoria today, Philip A. Benson, president of the Dime Savings bank of Brooklyn, declared that business had reached a point where it should go ahead under its own impetus and asked that it should be "left alone in order to complete the task so well begun."

"Continued and improved savings," he said, "will assure a steady flow of capital in the normal channels of investments. The increase in the number of mutual savings bank depositors unfailingly proves the public determination to provide a secure surplus for the future rather than to engage in speculative enterprises, and demonstrates the confidence of the public in conservatively managed institutions. It is certain that the United States has emerged from the period of depression and is well on the way in a new economic cycle. But the old fashioned virtues of wise saving and careful spending are just as potent as ever."

The convention adopted a resolution indorsing the Rayburn motor truck bill and ordered the association's committee on railroad investments to seek federal legislation promoting the principle of equal regulation of all transportation agencies.

Savings bankers were called on today to raise their voices in "vigorous protest against further tampering with the integrity of the dollar." The urge came from Fred F. Lawrence, treasurer of the Maine Savings bank of Portland, Me., as chairman of the committee on government and municipal securities.

WIEBOLDT STORE SALES INCREASE OVER YEAR AGO

Wieboldt Stores, Inc., reported yesterday that both net sales in dollars and number of transactions increased in the first fiscal quarter ended April 28 over the volumes of the corresponding period of 1933. The quarter's net sales amounted to $4,505,553, or 21.8 per cent over the total of $3,700,006 in the like period of last year.

E. F. Wieboldt, president, said there had been a "satisfactory increase" in the number of transactions and that a material part of the increase in dollar volume of sales had arisen from the expansion in number of transactions.

Mr. Wieboldt added that profits in the current year improved substantially in comparison with those of a year ago. During the last year there has been no change in the number or location of the five stores which the company operates in the Chicago metropolitan area.

For the year ended Jan. 27, 1934, Wieboldt stores had reported net income of $501,062, compared with a net loss of $344,206 in the preceding twelve months. The report was the best since 1930, it was said. In February the company announced that thereafter sales figures would be released quarterly.

COMPETITORS JOIN IN BID FOR NEWSPRINT FIRM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., May 18.—Interests in England and the United States which for the last few months have been fighting for the possession of Price Brothers & Co., one of the leading newsprint producers in Canada, now in bankruptcy, have collaborated in a joint offer for the company. A meeting of creditors is called for June 28 at Quebec to consider the offer.

Bowater's Paper Mills, Ltd., of London, Duke-Price Power company, Ltd., controled by the Aluminum Company of America; the London Express, a newspaper controled by Lord Beaverbrook, and the Anglo-Newfoundland Development company, Ltd., controled by Lord Rothermere, had sought to win control.

Delay Marks' Examination to Probe Asset Situation

The examination of J. L. Marks, former president of J. L. Marks & Co., bankrupt seller of securities on the partial payment plan, was postponed yesterday by Federal Judge Albert C. Barnes until 10 a. m. next Friday to permit Donald H. McGilvray, friend of the court, to make further investigation of the alleged disappearance of the company's assets between April 30 and Sept. 1, 1933.

On April 30 the company had a surplus of $430,000, but on Sept. 1, 1933, the day before the receiver was appointed, deficit was about $500,000, it was reported.

Evanston Bank May Sell Its Notes to RFC

Sale of $750,000 of income debentures to the Reconstruction Finance corporation will be voted on June 18 by the shareholders of the State Bank and Trust company of Evanston, according to announcement made yesterday by officials. The bank is one of the biggest and oldest suburban institutions.

WILLIAM A. DYCHE
[Toloff Photo.]

The proposed sale is part of a capital readjustment plan, which calls for the reduction of the par value of the present capital stock from $100 to $50 a share and the offering of additional stock to maintain the present capital of $500,000.

The reduction in the par value of the present stock indicates a writedown of $200,000 in assets. On completion of the adjustment the capital will amount to $1,250,000.

The bank has deposits at present of about $8,500,000. Among the directors are Sewell L. Avery, Arthur Andersen, C. H. Poppenhusen, and William A. Dyche, who is chairman of the board.

"The plans are in harmony with the bank's long established conservative policy of providing every possible protection for depositors besides keeping in step with developments in the country's banking business," the statement said.

"This policy calls for a valuation of assets on a conservative basis; all such assets to remain the property of the bank; provision for proper reserves for contingencies, and the maintenance of a sound ratio between capital not only to present deposits but to the normal increase that should result from more prosperous conditions."

FORM JAPANESE, AMERICAN TRADE GROUP AT TOKIO

TOKIO, May 18.—(AP)—A Tokio Japanese-American trade council was formed today with a directorate including representatives of such powerful interests as the Mitsui and Mitsubishi banking houses, Standard Oil Company of New York, and the National City bank.

Organization of the council was sponsored by the Japanese Economic federation which embraces the empire's principal financiers and industrialists.

It was explained that the plan is to promote Japanese-American commerce through coöperation with a similar council recently formed in New York.

Chesapeake and Ohio Road Buys 35,000 Tons Rails

Cleveland, O., May 18.—(AP)—Purchase of 35,000 tons of steel rails for delivery before Aug. 31 was announced today by the officials of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad. The purchase was divided as follows: Illinois Steel company, 15,085 tons; Inland Steel company, 11,900 tons; Carnegie Steel corporation, 4,515 tons, and Bethlehem Steel corporation, 3,500 tons.

Walgreen Servicing More Than 600 Agency Stores

The Walgreen company is at present servicing more than 600 "agency" stores, or independents carrying Walgreen goods, it was announced yesterday. When the expansion program was inaugurated two years ago it was limited to stores in Illinois, Wisconsin and adjacent territory. Now 33 states are represented.

FREIGHT TRAFIC DECLINES AGAIN IN LAST WEEK

Dip Is Attributed to Letup in Industry.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 18.—Loadings of revenue freight for the week ended May 12 totaled 601,739 cars, a decrease of 2,466 from the preceding week, but a gain of 66,933 over the corresponding week last year and 84,479 over two years ago.

The American Railway association report attributed the contraseasonal decline largely to slackening of certain industries.

The week's total trafic was 0.3 per cent less than in the preceding week and 13.3 per cent above the like week last year. Between corresponding weeks last year there was on increase of 1.3 per cent.

Loadings by Classifications.

Miscellaneous freight totaled 239,984 cars, a decrease of 959 below the preceding week but 39,467 above 1933 and 47,783 above 1932; less than carlot merchandise, 165,013, a drop of 1,413 below the preceding week, 332 higher than in 1933, and 16,549 below 1932; grain and grain products, 23,457, an increase of 1,373 above the preceding week but 10,616 below 1933 and 69 cars below 1932. Forest products 24,836, a decrease of 106 below the preceding week but 4,603 above 1933 and 6,053 above 1932.

Ore Loadings Increase.

Ore loadings were 13,182 cars, an increase of 8,331 above the preceding week, 11,456 above 1933 and 15,589 above 1932; coal, 102,872, a decrease of 8,454 below the preceding week but 23,517 above 1933 and 29,344 above 1932; coke, 6,690, a drop of 163 below the preceding week but 2,929 above last year and 3,674 above 1932; live stock, 15,705, a decrease of 1,045 below the preceding week, 1,755 below 1933 and 1,346 below 1932.

All districts except the southwest reported increases compared with the corresponding week in 1932.

SPAIN TIES UP $1,600,000 DUE TO U. S. CONCERNS

MADRID, May 18.—(AP)—More than $1,600,000 owing to American firms on investments in Spain has been lying from three to five months in the government exchange bureau, leading bankers and businessmen declared today. They said this sum has remained in the form of peseta applications for dollars which the government is unable to meet because it lacks American currency.

Government officials said dollar exchange applications of this type are "intangible payments," which are held up because the government lacks a surplus over the amount necessary to pay current commercial and import accounts. Even the latter are delayed usually about three weeks they stated.

Officials attribute the lack of dollars to Spain's adverse trade balance with the United States, which the authorities estimated at about $20,000,000 in 1933. Negotiation of a commercial treaty to balance the trade budget is being urged in certain high quarters.

NATIONAL LIFE INSURANCE DEBT TO RFC IS PAID

The debt of National Life Insurance Company of the United States of America to the Reconstruction Finance corporation was liquidated yesterday with the payment of $651,675, according to an announcement of Patrick J. Lucey, receiver of the insurance company. The loan amounted to $1,145,634 when the receiver took charge in October, 1933.

All accumulated death claims and other accrued beneficial interests of policy holders of the insurance company have been paid off by the Hercules Life Insurance company, which took over National Life's business, according to the announcement.

Trade Lags; Doubts Cloud Future Trend

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 18.—In no week of the current year has it been so difficult to sense the direction of the trend of business, as so many conflicting influences have sponsored confusion tinged with uncertainty, according to Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., in their trade review of the week.

"Drouths, unseasonable weather, undetermined outcome of pending legislation, and curtailed operations in many industries," says the review, "have left in their wake instability of prices and a less insistent demand for merchandise, accompanied by the gathering of labor clouds over some of the chief centers of production. Most of these retardative factors have not been brought into the open as yet, but are sufficiently strong to provide an undercurrent which is distracting attention from main objectives, although not acting as a deterrent of consequence, as yet.

Result of Transition Seen.

"There are no indications of apprehension, however, as the complications now arising doubtless are the direct result of the transitional work necessary while the recovery movement is being extricated gradually from governmental guidance to private initiative.

"There has been no weakening of confidence in the immediate future, and resumption of the uptrend, with more vigor than that which characterized it even during the first quarter of the year, doubtless will be achieved as soon as distribution receives the benefit of more normal temperatures and producers of goods will have been given a clearer appraisal of the administration's policies.

"Trade is at its lowest ebb in the corn belt and the northwest. The majority of reports stress the certainty that the summer letdown will be less marked than was anticipated a few weeks ago and will be followed by a general expansion in the fall."

Weak Prices Hamper Buying.

"The weakness of the price structure, particularly of products falling under the classification of consumption goods, continues to hamper long-term buying and to curtail the covering of even immediate needs, because of the general desire to obtain the advantage of a falling market. While actual recessions have not been recorded for some quotations, the paucity of orders leaves current prices largely nominal, as turnovers are too small to permit the establishment of true market values.

"No direct stimulation of prices is expected to result from the present plan of the government to make large purchases of silver, outside of the market dealing directly in this metal, as it merely means a substitution of silver certificates for federal reserve notes in the outstanding currency in circulation."

STOCK PARLEY FAVORS CURB ON MANIPULATION

Washington, D. C., May 18.—(AP)—Congressional conferees on the stock market regulation bill today agreed on language imposing drastic restrictions on manipulative practices, but postponed until next week consideration of the more controversial sections of the bill. No serious conflicts arose between the two houses over the anti-manipulative sections.

The conferees also agreed on the section of the bill extending power to the regulating commission to curb the combination of broker and dealer activities by members of exchanges.

Bankers' Acceptance Total Reduced by Ease of Money

New York, May 18.—(AP)—The outstanding volume of bankers' acceptances on April 30 was $613,129,137 against $685,154,155 at the end of March, the American Acceptance council reported today. The decrease of $72,025,108 for the month, making a total reduction of $157,000,000 since the end of January, was attributed by the council to "the strong influence of excess reserves and low money rates."

Auburn Auto Export Sales Now Exceed All of 1933

The Auburn Auto company delivered 10 per cent more cars to export markets in the first four and a half months of 1934 than during the entire previous year, it was announced yesterday by factory officials. There has been no letup in demand and the backlog of unfilled export orders is practically equal to that of two months ago, it was also pointed out. Auburn has added 27 new accounts in 20 countries since Jan. 1.

SENATORS SCAN LUMP SUMS PAID FOR OCEAN MAIL

Investment of Astor Under Scrutiny.

Washington, D. C., May 18.—(AP)—A lump sum agreement the shipping board had with the Roosevelt Steamship company for operation of three routes today was scrutinized by the special senate committee investigating ocean mail contracts.

Under the questioning of the committee chairman, Senator Black [Dem., Ala.], Kermit Roosevelt testified that where one line was receiving a lump figure as high as $38,000 a round trip a ship in 1931, the cut the administration made last February brought that down to $10,000.

Requested Lump Sum Basis.

Roosevelt said his line requested the shipping board to put the American Pioneer line, which his company operated, on a lump sum basis after it had lost money under a commission agreement. The line operated three routes, to India, Australia and the far east.

The investment of Vincent Astor in the Roosevelt line also was inquired into by Black. Black introduced figures he said showed Astor had paid $227 a share for Roosevelt Steamship company stock which had a book value at about that time of $48.60.

Astor testified yesterday he had not discussed shipping with President Roosevelt when the chief executive was his guest on his yacht.

Sought "Young Men" of Line.

P. A. S. Franklin, president of the I. M. M., explaining the acquisition of the Roosevelt line by his company, gave as one of the reasons the desire to "get into our company some of the young men" in the Roosevelt line, although he did not mention Astor and Roosevelt specifically.

"Did you," Black asked Franklin, "or any official, or any official of any affiliate or associate of the I. M. M. at any time make any loans of any kind or type to any member of the shipping board or the Merchant Fleet corporation."

"No one in our company ever made any loan of any kind to any member of the shipping board or fleet corporation, so far as I know," Franklin answered.

OIL MAN SEES TRADE BLOW IN PETROLEUM BILL

New York, May 18.—(AP)—J. Edward Jones, chairman of the national petroleum council, tonight said the petroleum bill before congress is "designed to make legal dictatorial powers of Secretary Ickes hitherto practiced stubbornly and ruthlessly, but never supported by law."

"It will enable Mr. Ickes," the statement continued, "to follow his policy of shutting in American oil wells to points far below market demand, thereby providing for a deficiency in American supply to be captured by those who import cheap foreign oils."

The council Jones heads is composed of independent oil producers, refiners and marketers.

Chicago Investment Men Go to Governors' Meeting

A party of 28 Chicago investment bankers left yesterday over the Big Four railroad for the annual spring meeting of the board of governors of the Investment Bankers' Association of America, opening today and running until May 23, at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. Investment bankers from Cincinnati, Kansas City, Omaha, Denver, Milwaukee, Seattle, San Francisco, and Los Angeles are also on their way to the meeting.

Steel Pipe Prices Raised $7 a Ton at Pittsburgh

New York, May 18.—(AP)—Schedules filed with the American Iron and Steel institute and announced today show that prices of steel pipe have been advanced approximately $7 a ton at Pittsburgh, in line with the rise which became effective at Lorain, O., on April 27. The new Pittsburgh prices, covering the major classifications of steel pipe, are effective May 25 and 29.

WHEAT IGNORES DROUTH NEWS; PRICES LOWER

Longs Cut Holdings; Corn Higher.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Drouth reports, excessive heat and dust storms in the crop belt fell flat as market influences in wheat yesterday. An overbought condition was disclosed when local longs started to sell and the close was at net losses of 2 to 2⅛ cents. Profit taking developed on all the minor upturns with the close at the bottom, July at 87⅛ to 87¾ cents and September at 88⅝ to 88½ cents.

Corn developed independent strength. There was no news to account for the upturn other than the possibility government relief operations in the northwest might involve the purchase of considerable amounts of feed grain. The close was ⅛ to ⅝ cent higher with May at 48¼ cents. Oats were ⅝ to 1⅛ cents lower, rye was off 1⅝ to 1⅞ cents and barley was ¼ cent lower to ⅜ cent higher.

Outside Trade Limited.

While the professional trade continues to talk bullishly on the wheat situation due to the continued drouth in the American and Canadian northwest, the public continues to hold aloof from the market, and the erratic fluctuations in prices are regarded as due more to a lack of balance in the way of a broader speculative trade rather than to aggressive buying or selling.

Aside from a few scattered showers in parts of North Dakota and Montana the American northwest was rainless overnight and the precipitation in the prairie provinces was confined largely to the northern area of Alberta where rainfall this season has been about average. The official forecasts held out little hope of adequate rain. Winnipeg wheat closed 1⅞ to 1½ cents lower.

R. O. Cromwell of Lamson Brothers & Co. in a report from Bismarck, N. D., said showers would not help the grain crops. The best crops, he said, were barely above the ground and these have a poor prospect. He estimated the acreage in the area had been reduced 25 per cent.

Bearish Northwest Report.

The Modern Miller report compiled from returns of mills was construed as somewhat bearish on the northwest, saying reports were favorable from the best sections of the Red river valley in Minnesota and North Dakota. In South Dakota conditions were said to be serious.

A Kansas wheat crop of around 75,000,000 bushels was estimated by E. J. Smiley, secretary of the Kansas Grain Dealers association. This is 24,000,000 bushels less than the government May 1 returns.

Dry weather is regarded by local experts as rapidly increasing the prospects of heavy insect damage. Numerous reports of oats and barley fields being abandoned due to the ravages of chinch bugs were received from Illinois and Iowa points.

DOLLAR RALLIES; $3,219,300 GOLD IS IMPORTED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 18.—The dollar recovered today from the weakness it experienced on Thursday as a result of the news of the projected silver legislation. In terms of the French franc the dollar closed at 59.27 cents, or 9 points higher. The franc dropped ½ point to 6.61 cents, and sterling sagged ¾ cent to $5.10⅞.

Canadian dollars, however, rose slightly to ¼ cent above par. German marks fell 15 points to 39.50.

Gold transactions resulting in a net gain of $3,219,300 were reported by the Federal Reserve bank of New York. They consisted of imports of $1,680,000 from Canada, $1,489,300 from England and the release from earmarking of $350,100. The earmarking release was not offset by any export.

The price of gold in London advanced 1 penny to 136 shillings 2 pence an ounce [equivalent to $34.80 at the pound's opening price of 5.11⅛]. A total of $1,634,936 was sold for French and American account.

France Cuts Bond Interest Rates by One-Half Per Cent

PARIS, May 18.—(AP)—The French government today reduced interest rates on treasury and national defense bonds by ½ per cent. The new rates on treasury bonds vary from 1½ to 3 per cent, while the rate on three month bonds was fixed at 2½ per cent. National defense bonds bear 3 per cent. The cut brings the rates down to the level from which they were raised last March.

STOCKS WEAKEN; NEWS OF TRADE LESS CHEERFUL

Vague Silver Plans Also Temper Optimism.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 18.—Profit taking sales sent the stock market averages to lower levels today. Losses of a point or so were incurred by such trading favorites as American Can, Atchison, U. S. Steel, Western Union, Bethlehem, National Distillers, Chrysler, Johns-Manville, Du Pont, and U. S. Industrial Alcohol. Business was in considerably lighter volume than yesterday, when the market was negotiating its first important upturn in four weeks or more. The total fell to around 914,000 shares.

In addition to the depressing influence of sales by traders afraid to chance the upswing any further, the market felt the pull of a 2 cent break in wheat and some less favorable trade statistics, including a further seasonal decline in carloadings.

Silver Group Less Sanguine.

Followers of the silver shares, which were nominated for market leadership when word came yesterday that the President had decided to string along with congressional leaders of the silver legislation movement, were less sanguine over the prospects for any heavy government aid for their metal today. The presidential promise seemed to some to carry a lot of "ifs" and "buts" which seemed to have been overlooked in the first flush of enthusiasm.

Selling in the white metal group was no more pronounced, however, than it was in other departments. United States Smelting and American Smelting each lost less than a point on the day, while Cerro de Pasco countered the trend for a slight gain.

Shares of gold mining companies eased with the silvers. An exception was Homestake, which bucked the headwinds for a net gain of 9⅛ points.

Utility Issues Are Weak.

A renewal of selling in American Telephone stimulated profit taking in the rest of the utilities group. Peoples Gas, North American, Consolidated Gas and others eased from fractions to a point or more.

Oils held steady, thanks in part to the move to boost gasoline prices here in the east. Sugar shares also had a fairly good day. The chemicals labored under uneasiness over the President's impending munitions message to congress. Motor shares felt the weight of profit taking with the rest.

In the carrier division, New York Central, Southern railway, and Illinois Central shared the brunt of selling with Atchison. Aviation issues showed a firm tone under the leadership of United Aircraft, whose reorganization plan is being awaited by the trade.

MAKE NEW RULES FOR REGISTERING SECURITY ISSUES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 18.—Rules describing procedure for obtaining permits for nondisclosure in registration statements under the securities act, of parts of some contracts and for employing a new form of registration statement for securities issued in reorganization, were made public today. Officials said that they did not represent any important relaxation of provisions.

Under the securities act, if the federal trade commission decides that disclosure in the registration statement, of provisions of any part of a material contract would impair the value of the contract and that the disclosure is not necessary to protect investors, it may be omitted. The first rule issued today gives in detail the steps that must be taken by the issuer to obtain the commission's sanction.

A second rule provides for a new registration form in reorganizations and a third lists items that may be omitted from a prospectus based upon the new form. It requires, however, as a condition of such omission, that the prospectus indicate omissions made.

TOBACCO CROP CONTROL BILL GETS APPROVAL

Washington, D. C., May 18.—(AP)—The house agriculture committee gave its formal approval today to the Kerr tobacco production control bill, a measure modeled after the Bankhead cotton control act. Backers of the bill plan to seek a special rule from the rules committee to permit an early vote.

The bill would place a tax ranging from 25 to 33 1-3 per cent of the market value on all tobacco, Maryland, Virginia sun cured, cigar leaf, and tobacco grown by farmers who produce less than 2,000 pounds in a crop year.

The bill also authorizes Secretary Wallace to fix import quotas for cigar leaf tobacco and to levy a tax on imports above these fixed quotas in the same manner that the tax would be levied on domestic leaf produced above the voluntary plan quotas.

OCTOBER EGGS HIT LOWEST POINT SINCE MID-JANUARY

October eggs broke to 18¾ cents on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, the lowest point since mid-January. The close was ¼ cent lower than Thursday. Butter continued its slow advance, moving up ¼ cent.

Bearish overnight storage news prompted heavy selling of October eggs at the opening. The report indicated a very heavy movement of eggs into the smaller storage centers. Also New York receipts were above last year, which aided the selling move.

The movement of butter into the four markets again was 400,000 pounds less than last year. Lack of rain over the production states continued to exert a bullish influence.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 18.—The bond market was more active today, and prices in general were strong. On the whole the market was aware of little news to which it could react decisively.

The total sales in par value amounted to $13,877,000, in comparison with $12,208,000 yesterday. There were transfers of approximately $3,100,000 of federal obligations which advanced 1-32 to 7-32s of a point. The wider activity in federal liens accounted mainly for the expansion in the sales total.

New York Central 6s Active.

It was in the New York Central 6s that the heaviest sales of the day were recorded. The bonds closed one-fourth of a point lower. Other carrier obligations which lost ground were those of Missouri Pacific, Illinois Central, Great Northern, Erie, and Atlantic Coast Line. On the other hand, Santa Fé, Baltimore and Ohio, Canadian Pacific, Pennsylvania, Chicago Great Western, and others advanced.

American Sugar Refining, St. Joseph Lead, United Drug, and General Theaters were included in firmer industrial liens.

Moderate selling tended to depress the obligations of Remington Rand, Postal Telegraph and Cable, International Telephone and Telegraph.

Foreign Loans Irregular.

The trend in foreign bonds was irregular. Rhine-Main-Danube 7s may be converted into 4nternal bonds up to May 28, but they must be in Germany by then in order to be exchangeable. The issue was sold on a cash basis today so that purchasers might avail themselves of the offer.

The announcement concerning the exchange accounts for the activity of the bonds, which rose 17 points last Wednesday.

NEW ISSUE.

Halsey, Stuart & Co. and associates are offering an issue of $2,000,000 City of Boston, Mass., 1.14 per cent temporary loan notes dated May 22, 1934, and due Oct. 10, 1934.

Servel Co.

Investors' Guide: I would like to have some information on Servel company.—R. P. M.

Answer: Servel company manufactures refrigerators marketed under the names "Servel" and "Electrolux." It also produces gas engines, automobile truck bodies, automobile engine castings and miscellaneous metal and wood products. It turns out refrigerators operated by gas, electricity and kerosene.

During the quarter ended Jan. 31, 1934, production facilities were increased 35 per cent and production was not resumed until the latter part of December, 1933. Even so, loss after all charges was only $161,000, against loss of $241,000 in the corresponding period of the preceding year.

Loss in the year ended Oct. 31, 1933, was cut to $493,000 from $777,000 for the preceding year. Except for the special charge of $539,000 resulting from discontinuance of one line of refrigerators a profit would have resulted. Net income for the Oct. 31, 1931, year was $1,067,000, or 58 cents per common share, against net of $935,000 for the preceding year.

On Oct. 31, 1933, current assets totaled $5,431,000 and current liabilities were $628,000. Funded debt was $1,683,000.

An option to buy 15,000 shares of treasury stock at $5 a share has been granted by the company. It expires Feb. 15, 1935.

There are outstanding 7,527 shares of 7 per cent $100 par preferred and 1,761,426 shares of $1 par common. Nothing has been paid on the preferred since Nov. 1, 1932. Both the preferred and common are speculative.

Domestic Price Is World Price.

Investors' Guide: The writer holds a 7 per cent Polish bond, due Oct. 15, 1947. Recently one of these coupons was sent to Europe and I received $36 for it. I am wondering if I can get a corresponding increase in principal by selling my bond in Europe.—S. C. D.

Answer: There would be no advantage in selling the bond in Europe rather than in the United States. Polish 7s, due 1947, are selling at a "world" price, adjusted to the depreciation of the dollar. The current quotation, well above par, reflects this. The quotation on Poland 8s, due 1940, is about 20 points under the 7s, due 1947, despite the higher interest rate. That is because the coupons on the 8 per cent bonds are payable in United States currency only.

Were it possible to make a profit of a few points on buying bonds in this country and selling them abroad [arbitrage] astute bond traders would enter the buying side of the market to reap such a profit and rend the price up to a point where a profit would no longer be possible.

PRICES OF HOGS ABOUT STEADY; CATTLE STRONG

Lambs Rise 10 to 25c, to $10.75 Top.

Only slight changes were made in hog quotations yesterday. Buyers cautiously evaded higher prices when supplies fell short despite the recent improvement in the provision trade and the better outlet for fresh pork at slightly higher prices.

The market was mostly in line with the average of the previous session, spots indicating 5 cents advance in the heavy lard types of butcher grades, but the top for the day was off 5 cents from Thursday's high mark. Sultry weather and its possible effect on consumer demand for pork products over the week-end were blamed for the reluctance on the buying side when sellers demanded more money for hogs.

Federal Buying No Aid.

Federal buying orders, as usual, were of no assistance to the selling side, as packers buying relief pork shave quotations whenever possible. The three packers buying for the government took 3,012 head for this account within a range of $3.25 to $3.65, the same as they paid in the previous session. Buyers for the regular commercial trade paid up to $3.75 for several carloads of 190 to 240 pound averages, obtaining the bulk at $3.40 to $3.70. The general average for the day at $3.55, including government droves, was steady.

Cattle receipts were lighter than on the two preceding Fridays and consisted largely of the lighter weights. Brisk demand featured the trade and prices ruled stronger, with packers reporting their costs higher considering the liberal waterfills and the poorer quality of the steers.

Many Up 50 to 60 Cents in Week.

Much of the supply was of the class that is selling 50 cents to 60 cents above the opening quotations this week. Several carloads of good grades of 1,072 to 1,388 pound steers sold up to $8, with three steers averaging 1,250 pounds at $8.35. None of the kinds eligible to the $9.35 quotation that the trade is carrying were in yesterday's run. Butcher stock brought strong prices and closed 25 cents to 40 cents higher than on Monday and strong to 25 cents higher than a week ago. Sharper gains were scored in some of the better grades of yearling heifers, which sold at the highest price levels since late in 1932.

Advances of 10 cents to 25 cents in the lamb trade yesterday carried prices mostly 50 cents above the low spot of the week. Wooled stock sold up to $9.60 to packers, while fall shorn brought $8.75 and other shorn lambs sold largely at $8.60 to $8.70. Native springers were wanted at $10.50 to $70.75.

55,000 Women Select Marinello!

During the past 33 years more than 55,000 ambitious women, seeking successful careers in the field of Beauty Culture, have chosen the internationally famous Marinello System of training.

There are many schools offering courses in Beauty Culture. All of them cannot be the best. Which one will you select? It is an important decision—as the extent of your earning power depends on the type of training you receive.

Don't buy your training in the art of Beauty Culture on a basis of the cheapness of the course. An apparent saving in tuition now may be a great handicap to you in years to come. Marinello training is built up to a standard, not down to a price.

Marinello is the largest and most famous Beauty Culture System in the world.

NOW!—Marinello Offers New Easy Payment Plan

Visit our school—No obligation. Free employment service. Day and evening classes now forming. Mail the coupon for full information and FREE Illustrated Booklet T. Including set of eight photographs showing various Marinello classes at work.

At DeLEE You Learn BEAUTY CULTURE

Quickly—Easily—Thoroughly.

QUICKLY—because you receive individual instruction under the personal direction of Madame Louise, internationally famous stylist and beauty expert.

EASILY—because DeLEE "University type" of training simplifies learning. You learn by practicing on living models. Classrooms are colorful, light and roomy. Equipment is 100% new and up-to-the-minute.

THOROUGHLY — because DeLEE does not graduate a student until she has attained genuine proficiency. At DeLEE you receive unlimited instruction at no extra cost. In fact there are no extra charges for anything at DeLEE—one reasonable tuition fee covers everything.

Register now and assure yourself a place in the class which is now forming. Come in today and talk with the DeLEE Dean, Miss Ruby Lorrain Stevens, or write for interesting book. Convenient terms can be arranged.

School of Beauty Culture

OFFERS OPPORTUNITIES FOUND ONLY AT BURNHAM'S
FOR 63 YEARS THE WORLD'S LARGEST BEAUTY SCHOOL.

When you visit Burnham's you'll understand why more girls enroll in this school than in any other, and you'll be amazed at the unexpected and exclusive advantages which our 63 year record of turning out the best operators enables us to pass on to you—such as positions on ocean liners, positions with the best shops and Burnham graduates; the opportunity of earning while learning, free tools, unlimited practice on living models, easy terms, and many other advantages.

Once explained you'll see how Burnham learning methods will enable you to master Beauty Culture quicker, easier, and better. Why these methods develop the type of operator shop owners want.

Tuition increases May 31. If you ACT NOW you can arrange to pay for most of your tuition after you graduate. Call, phone, or write for FREE BEAUTY BOOK.

FONTANA FARMS
IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA.
L. A. Zimmerman writes: "To work out in the open when one pleases, to be able to breathe the clear fresh air, to drink cool, fresh mountain water, to plant everything and know IT WILL GROW, to be near the mountain playgrounds, to have all the sentiments of the metropolis and yet live in the country—this is the desire of most every man of the city, and the realization of all who live in FONTANA. Fontana surpasses all other similar agricultural sections because of its ideal weather for diversified farming, poultry and rabbits."
